If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/7. INCOME-RELATED BENEFITS/(3) FAMILY CREDIT/(ii) Defining the Conditions of Entitlement/206. Remunerative work.

206. Remunerative work.

For the purposes of family credit<sup>1</sup>, a person is treated as engaged in remunerative work where:

- 523 (1) the work<sup>2</sup> he undertakes is for not less than 16 hours per week;
- 524 (2) the work is done for payment or in expectation of payment<sup>3</sup>; and
- 525 (3) he is employed at the date of claim and satisfies specific requirements<sup>4</sup>.

In determining for the purposes of head (1) above whether the work a person undertakes is for not less than 16 hours per week:

- 526 (a) there is to be included in the calculation any time allowed for meals or refreshment but only where the person is, or expects to be, paid earnings in respect of that time; and
- 527 (b) if he is a person to whom normal weekly earnings of employed earners<sup>5</sup> applies, the hours worked are to be calculated by reference to the average number of hours which his employer expects him to work in a week; or
- 528 (c) where head (b) above does not apply and:
- 49. (i) a recognised cycle of working has been established at the date of claim, the hours worked are to be calculated by reference to the average number of hours worked in a week over the period of one complete cycle (including, where the cycle involves periods in which the person does not normally work, those periods, but disregarding any other absences<sup>6</sup>); or
- 50. (ii) no recognised cycle of working has been established at the date of claim, the hours worked are to be calculated by reference to: (A) the average number of hours worked over the five weeks immediately preceding the week of claim, or such other longer time preceding that week as may, in the particular case, enable the person's weekly average hours of work to be determined more accurately; or (B) where he is a self-employed earner and he has worked for less than five weeks at the date of claim, or he has, in the five weeks immediately preceding the week of claim, increased the number of hours that he works from below 16 hours to 16 hours or more per week, the average number of hours he expects to work in a week<sup>7</sup>.

Except in these particular provisions, what constitutes remunerative work is a broad question of fact to be determined by examining all the evidence, not just any hours of work formally specified in a contract of employment; it may involve considering what time is necessarily spent carrying out activities in the course of the work in question, especially in occupations where the necessity to work over and above the contractual hours is an integral part of the job<sup>8</sup>. In the case of a self-employed claimant, it may require consideration of activities on top of those which are actually costed<sup>9</sup>.

1. For the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt VII (ss 123-137) (as amended) (income-related benefits) as it applies to family credit, and subject to the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(3) (as substituted): see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

2 The emphasis in this definition is on the work itself, not any particular form of employment relationship: Decision R(FC)2/90.

3 For the meaning of this phrase see PARA 179 note 4 ante.

4 Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(1) (reg 4 substituted by SI 1992/573). A person who does not satisfy all the requirements of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(1)(a)-(c) (as substituted) is not to be treated as engaged in remunerative work: see reg 4(2) (as so substituted). Where a person is treated as engaged in remunerative work in accordance with reg 4 (as substituted), he is also to be treated as normally engaged in remunerative work: see reg 4(7) (as so substituted).

Subject to reg 4(6) (as substituted), the requirements of reg 4(5) (as substituted) are that the person:

59 (1) worked not less than 16 hours in either: (a) the week of claim; or (b) either of the two weeks immediately preceding the week of claim; or

60 (2) is expected by his employer to work or, where he is a self-employed earner he expects to work, not less than 16 hours in the week next following the week of claim; or

61 (3) cannot satisfy the requirements of either head (1) above or head (2) supra and at the date of claim he is absent from work by reason of a recognised, customary or other holiday but he is expected by his employer to work or, where he is a self-employed earner he expects to work, not less than 16 hours in the week following his return to work from that holiday (see Decision R(FC) 2/91), and for the purposes of calculating the number of hours worked, the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(4)(a) (as substituted and amended) applies to reg 4(5) (as substituted) as it applies to reg 4(1)(a) (as substituted): see reg 4(5) (as so substituted). For the purposes of reg 4(5) (as substituted): (i) work which a person does only qualifies if it is the work he normally does (on which see Decision R(FIS)6/83 and Decision R(FIS)1/84 on students taking up short-term employment; likely future possibilities may need to be considered: Decision R(FIS)2/83), and it is likely to last for a period of five weeks or more beginning with the week of claim; and (ii) a person is treated as not on a recognised, customary or other holiday on any day on which the person is on maternity leave or is absent from work because he is ill: see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(6) (substituted by SI 1993/2119).

A person who otherwise satisfies all the requirements of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(1) (as substituted) is not to be treated as engaged in remunerative work in so far as: (A) he is engaged by a charitable or voluntary organisation or is a volunteer, where the only payment received by him or due to be paid to him is a payment which is to be disregarded under reg 24(2) and Sch 2 para 2 (as amended); (B) he is engaged in caring for a person in respect of whom he receives payments to which Sch 2 para 24 refers; or (C) he is engaged on a scheme for which a training allowance is being paid: see reg 4(3) (as so substituted; and substituted by SI 1994/2139).

5 le to whom the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 14(5) (as substituted) applies: see PARA 208 note 8 post.

6 This qualification had caused problems in relation to persons employed for academic years (see eg Decision R(IS)15/94 on the equivalent income support provision). However, where for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(4)(c)(i) (as substituted and amended), a person's recognised cycle of work at a school, other educational establishment, or other place of employment is one year and includes periods of school holidays or similar vacations during which he does not work, those periods and any other periods not forming part of such holidays or vacations during which he is not required to work are to be disregarded in establishing the average hours for which he is engaged in work: reg 4(4A) (added by SI 1995/516).

7 See the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 4(4) (as substituted (see note 4 supra); amended by SI 1995/516; and SI 1997/806).

8 Decision R(FC)1/92 (ambulance transport clerk contracted to work 22.5 hours, but shown in practice to work more than the 24 hours per week then required for family credit).

9 Decision R(FIS)6/85 (part time self-employed silversmith allowed to count time spent visiting clients, wholesalers, retailers and the Assay office and in working out ideas for a design competition).

207. The treatment of families.

The general rules relating to the entitlement to family credit of members of a family have already been discussed<sup>1</sup>.

A person is to be treated as responsible for a child or young person who is normally living with him<sup>2</sup>. Where a child or young person spends equal amounts of time in different households, or where there is a question as to which household he is living in, the child or young person is to be treated<sup>3</sup> as normally living with:

- 529 (1) the person who is receiving child benefit<sup>4</sup> in respect of him; or
- 530 (2) if there is no such person:
- 43
- 51. (a) where only one claim for child benefit has been made in respect of him, the person who made that claim; or
- 52. (b) in any other case the person who has the primary responsibility for him<sup>5</sup>.
- 44

Where a claimant or any partner is treated as responsible for a child or young person<sup>6</sup>, that child or young person and any child of that child or young person is to be treated as a member of the claimant's household<sup>7</sup>. Where the claimant and any partner of his are living apart from each other they are treated as members of the same household unless they do not intend to resume living together<sup>8</sup>.

1 See PARA 175 ante.

2 Ie subject the provisions of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 7: reg 7(1). For the purposes of reg 7 a child or young person is to be treated as the responsibility of only one person during the period of an award and any person other than the one treated as responsible for the child or young person under reg 7(1)-(2) is to be treated as not so responsible: see reg 7(3). For the meaning of 'child' see PARA 175 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of 'young person' see PARA 202 note 11 ante.

3 Ie for the purposes of ibid reg 7(1); see the text to note 2 supra.

4 As to child benefit see PARA 237 et seq post.

5 See the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 7(2); and Decision CFC/1537/1995. 'Primary responsibility' is not defined for these purposes.

6 Ie by virtue of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 7: see the text to notes 2-5 supra.

7 Ie except in a case to which ibid reg 8(2) applies: see reg 8(1). For the meaning of 'household' see PARA 175 note 1 ante. However, a child or young person is not to be treated as a member of the claimant's household in any case where the child or young person: (1) is a patient or in residential accommodation on account of physical or mental handicap or physical or mental illness and has been so accommodated for the 12 weeks immediately before the date of claim and is no longer in regular contact with the claimant or any member of the claimant's household; or (2) has been placed with the claimant or his partner prior to adoption; or (3) has been placed with the claimant or his partner by a local authority under the Children Act 1989 s 23(2)(a) or by a voluntary organisation under s 59(1)(a); or (4) has been placed for adoption with the claimant or his partner pursuant to a decision under the Adoption Agencies Regulations 1983, SI 1983/1964, or the corresponding provisions in Scotland; or (5) is detained in custody under a sentence imposed by a court: see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 8(2) (amended by SI 1992/573).

8 See the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 9(1) (substituted by SI 1993/2119). However, where one of the members of a married or unmarried couple is a hospital patient or detained in custody he is not to be treated, on this account, as ceasing to be a member of the same household as his partner: (1) unless he has been a patient in a hospital for 52 weeks or more; or (2) unless he is a patient detained in a special hospital (see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 9(2)(b)); or (3) unless he is detained in custody whilst serving a sentence of 52 weeks or more imposed by a court, but is to be treated as not being a member of the same household as his partner wherever the conditions in heads (1), (2) or (3) supra are fulfilled: see reg 9(2) (amended by SI 1988/660).

Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) working families' tax credit (formerly 'family credit') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

207 The treatment of families

TEXT AND NOTE 1--For 'family credit' read 'working families' tax credit': SI 1987/1973 reg 4(1) (amended by SI 1999/2487).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/7. INCOME-RELATED BENEFITS/(3) FAMILY CREDIT/(iii) Income/208. Calculation of income.

(iii) Income

208. Calculation of income.

The income of a claimant<sup>1</sup> is calculated on a weekly basis:

- 531 (1) by ascertaining<sup>2</sup> the amount of his normal weekly income;
- 532 (2) by adding to that amount any weekly income<sup>3</sup>; and
- 533 (3) by then deducting any relevant child care charges<sup>4</sup> from any earnings which form part of the normal weekly income, up to a maximum deduction in respect of the claimant's family of a prescribed amount per week<sup>5</sup>.

Where a claimant's income consists of earnings from employment as an employed earner<sup>6</sup>, except where those earnings arise from employment as a director, his normal weekly earnings from that employment are, subject to statutory provision<sup>7</sup>, to be determined by taking account of his earnings from that employment which are received in the assessment period relevant to his case, whether the amount so received was earned in respect of that period or not, and in accordance with statutory provision<sup>8</sup>.

Where an adjudication officer considers, on the basis of available evidence, that the claimant has elected to work fewer hours than he would otherwise have worked in the whole or part of the assessment period<sup>9</sup> with the result that, but for this provision<sup>10</sup>, he would secure entitlement or increased entitlement to family credit, the adjudication officer may determine the claimant's normal weekly earnings by taking account of his earnings received during the period equal to, and ending immediately before, the period determined<sup>11</sup>, unless the claimant satisfies him that the reason for reducing his hours of work was otherwise than to secure such an entitlement or increased entitlement<sup>12</sup>.

Where<sup>13</sup> a claimant's income consists of earnings from employment as a self-employed earner<sup>14</sup>, his normal weekly earnings are to be determined<sup>15</sup>, by reference to his weekly earnings from that employment:

- 534 (a) Except where head (b) or head (c) below applies, over a period of six consecutive complete months up to and including the second last complete month<sup>16</sup> immediately preceding the date of claim; or
- 535 (b) Except where head (c) below applies, where the claimant provides in respect of the employment a statement of his earnings and expenses for the six consecutive complete months up to and including the last complete month immediately preceding the date of claim, over that period of six months; or
- 536 (c) where the claimant provides in respect of the employment a profit and loss account and, where appropriate, a trading account or a balance sheet<sup>17</sup> or both, and the profit and loss account is in respect of a period of at least six months but not exceeding 15 months and that period terminates within the 12 months preceding the date of claim, over that period; or
- 537 (d) over such other period of weeks or months preceding the week in which the date of claim falls as may, in any particular case, enable his normal weekly earnings to be determined more accurately<sup>18</sup>.

For the purposes of ascertaining a claimant's normal weekly earnings there is to be disregarded, where the claimant is a self-employed earner, any week or period of weeks in his assessment period during which no activities have been carried out for the purposes of the business, and his normal weekly earnings are to be determined by reference to his earnings in the remainder of that period<sup>19</sup>.

Where a claimant's normal weekly income does not consist of earnings, or includes income that does not consist of earnings, that income is to be determined by reference to his weekly income over a period of 26 weeks immediately preceding the week in which the date of claim falls, or over such period immediately preceding that week as may, in any particular case, enable his normal weekly income to be determined more accurately<sup>20</sup>.

respect of that bonus or commission calculated in accordance with reg 20A (as added and amended) (calculation of bonus or commission): see reg 14(4) (as so substituted).

Where at the date of claim: (i) the claimant: (A) has been in his employment, or (B) after a continuous period of interruption exceeding four weeks, has resumed his employment, or (C) has changed the number of hours for which he is contracted to work; and (ii) the period of his employment or the period since he resumed his employment or the period since the change in the number of hours took place, as the case may be, is less than the assessment period in reg 14(2) (as substituted and amended) appropriate in his case, his normal weekly earnings must be determined in accordance with reg 14(6) (as substituted and amended): see reg 14(5) (as so substituted).

In a case to which reg 14(6) (as substituted and amended) applies, the Secretary of State must require the claimant's employer to furnish him with an estimate of the claimant's likely earnings for the pay period for which he is or will normally be paid and the claimant's normal earnings must be determined by taking account of that estimate: see reg 14(6) (as so substituted; and amended by SI 1996/3137). For the purposes of the normal weekly earnings of employed earners<sup>8</sup> the earnings of a claimant to be taken into account are his average weekly net earnings and where an estimate of earnings has been made in his case, as estimated, and those weekly net earnings are to be determined in accordance with statutory provision<sup>9</sup>. A claimant's net earnings are<sup>10</sup> to be calculated by taking into account his gross earnings<sup>11</sup> from that employment, less:

- 549 (A) any amount deducted from those earnings by way of income tax, primary Class 1 contributions under the Social Security Act 1986; and
- 550 (B) one-half of any sum paid by the claimant in respect of a pay period by way of a contribution towards an occupational or personal pension scheme<sup>12</sup>; and
- 551 (C) the net amount of bonus or commission if any which is paid separately from his other earnings or is paid in respect of a period longer than the pay period relating to the other earnings with which it is paid and that net amount is the gross amount of that bonus or commission after deducting from it sums calculated in accordance with statutory provision<sup>13</sup>.

The average is then worked out on a formula basis<sup>14</sup>, with any fluctuations in net earnings having been removed, also on a formula basis<sup>15</sup>. There must be disregarded from a claimant's net earnings, any sum, where applicable, specified by statutory provision<sup>16</sup>.

1 There is, however, a disregard of child care charges up to a set maximum: see PARA 208 note 4 ante.

2 See generally EMPLOYMENT vol 40 (2009) PARA 712 et seq.

3 Ie any such sum as is referred to in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 112(3) (as amended): see PARA 33 note 23 ante.

4 As to statutory sick pay see EMPLOYMENT vol 39 (2009) PARA 498 et seq.

5 Ie subject to the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 19(3). Where living accommodation is provided for a claimant by reason of his employment, the claimant is treated as being in receipt of weekly earnings of an amount equal to:

64 (1) where no charge is made in respect of the provision of that accommodation, £12;

65 (2) where a charge is made and that weekly charge is less than £12, the amount of the difference, except that where the claimant satisfies the adjudication officer that the weekly value to him of the provision of that accommodation is an amount less than the amount in head (1) or head (2) supra, as the case may be, he is to be treated as being in receipt of that lesser value: see reg 19(3); and Decisions R(FC)2/90; R(FC)1/94.

6 This only applies to amounts paid by the employer in respect of expenses: Decision R(FC)1/90. Any amounts paid out by the claimant himself must be taken into account when calculating his net earnings under the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 20 (as amended); see notes 9-16 infra.

7 See ibid reg 19(2) (amended by SI 1993/315). For the meaning of 'employed earner' see PARA 32 ante.

8 Ie for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 14 (as substituted and amended): see PARA 208 ante.

9 Ie in accordance with ibid reg 20(2)-(6) (as added and amended): see reg 20(1) (substituted by SI 1992/573; and amended by SI 1996/3137).

10 Ie except where the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 20(4) (as amended) applies: see note 13 infra.

11 The use of the word 'earnings' means that there can be deducted from the gross income any amounts of expenses wholly, exclusively and necessarily incurred in the performance of the duties of the employment: Decision R(FC)1/90, applying Parsons v Hogg [1985] 2 All ER 897, sub nom Chief Adjudication Officer v Hogg [1985] 1 WLR 1100, CA, which was decided under the previous family income supplement legislation.

12 Where the claimant contributes to an occupational scheme and a personal scheme, half of each of the contributions is allowable: Decision R(FC)1/90. As to personal and occupational pension schemes see PARA 710 et seq post.

13 Ie in accordance with the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 20A(a)-(c) (as added and amended) (calculation of bonus or commission): reg 20(3) (amended by SI 1992/573; SI 1994/2139; and SI 1996/3137). As to the special provisions for the calculation of the average weekly net earnings where the claimant's earnings have had to be estimated see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 20(4) (as amended).

14 Where a claimant's average net earnings for his pay period have been calculated in accordance with ibid reg 20(5) (as added) and his pay period is:

66 (1) a week, a fortnight or four weeks, his average net earnings for his pay period are divided by the number of weeks in that period;

67 (2) a month, his average net earnings are multiplied by 12, the resulting product divided by 52;

68 (3) any shorter or longer period than those referred to in head (1) or head (2) supra, his average net earnings for his pay period are multiplied by seven and the product divided by the number equal to the number of days in his pay period, and the resulting amount is his average weekly net earnings: see reg 20(6) (added by SI 1992/573).

15 When a claimant's net earnings have been calculated in accordance with the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 20(3) (as amended), his average net earnings in respect of his pay period are to be calculated as follows (see reg 20(5)) (added by SI 1992/573):

69 (1) the net earnings in each of the pay periods in his assessment period are to be aggregated, that total is then to be divided by the number of pay periods in his assessment period and the resulting amount is the average net earnings for his pay period;

70 (2) where in respect of any pay period, a claimant's net earnings are 20% or more higher, or 20% or more lower, than his average net earnings, those net earnings and that pay period are to be omitted, his assessment period must be reduced accordingly and his average net earnings must, subject to head (3) infra, be re-calculated in accordance with head (1) supra;

71 (3) where the operation of head (2) supra results in no pay period remaining in a claimant's assessment period there must be omitted from the assessment period any pay period in which no earnings are received or in which the net earnings received are for a period longer than his normal pay period and his average net earnings must be re-calculated in accordance with head (1) supra;

72 (4) where the operation of head (3) supra results in no pay periods remaining, regs 14(6) (as substituted and amended) (normal weekly earnings of employed earners), and 20(4) (as amended) applies in his case.

Fluctuating earnings have always caused problems in family credit law; the initial approach was to deal with them largely on a discretionary basis, but that was replaced in 1992 by a formulaic approach which is simpler mathematically, but may produce a less realistic result, more dependent on the possibly fortuitous factors of when the claim was made and the earnings pattern immediately before that.

16 As specified in the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, Sch 1: see reg 20(2), Sch 1. The sums specified in Sch 1 are: (1) any earnings derived from employment which are payable in a country outside the United Kingdom where there is a prohibition against the transfer to the United Kingdom of those earnings; (2) any earnings of a child or young person; (3) where a payment of earnings is made in a currency other than sterling, any banking charge or commission payable in converting that payment to sterling.

'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/7. INCOME-RELATED BENEFITS/(3) FAMILY CREDIT/(iii) Income/210. Earnings of self-employed earners.

210. Earnings of self-employed earners.

Subject to statutory provision<sup>1</sup>, in the case of employment as a self-employed earner, 'earnings' means the gross receipts of the employment<sup>2</sup>.

The earnings of a claimant to be taken into account are<sup>3</sup> in the case of a self-employed earner who is engaged in employment on his own account<sup>4</sup>, the net profit derived from that employment<sup>5</sup>. For this purpose<sup>6</sup> the net profit of the employment is<sup>7</sup> to be calculated by taking into account the earnings of the employment received in the assessment period, less:

- 552 (1) subject to statutory provision<sup>8</sup>, any expenses wholly and exclusively defrayed<sup>9</sup> in that period for the purposes of that employment;
- 553 (2) an amount in respect of income tax and social security contributions<sup>10</sup>; and
- 554 (3) one-half of the amount in respect of any qualifying premium<sup>11</sup>.

With regard to expenses, it is provided that no deduction is to be made<sup>12</sup> in respect of:

- 555 (a) any capital expenditure;
- 556 (b) the depreciation of any capital asset<sup>13</sup>;
- 557 (c) any sum employed, or intended to be employed, in the setting up or expansion of the employment;
- 558 (d) any loss incurred before the beginning of the assessment period;
- 559 (e) the repayment of capital on any loan taken out for the purposes of the employment;
- 560 (f) any expenses incurred in providing business entertainment<sup>14</sup>.

A deduction is to be made under statutory provision<sup>15</sup> in respect of:

- 561 (i) the repayment of capital on any loan used for the replacement in the course of business of equipment or machinery, and the repair of an existing business asset except to the extent that any sum is payable under an insurance policy for its repair<sup>16</sup>;
- 562 (ii) the excess of any VAT paid over VAT received in the assessment period<sup>17</sup>;
- 563 (iii) any income expended in the repair of an existing business asset except to the extent that any sum is payable under an insurance policy for its repair<sup>18</sup>;
- 564 (iv) any payment of interest on a loan taken out for the purposes of the employment<sup>19</sup>.

On general principles, where expense is incurred partly for business purposes and partly for private purposes, it may be apportioned, preferably in a similar manner to that operated for income tax purposes<sup>20</sup>.

There is to be disregarded from a claimant's net profit any sum, where applicable, specified under statutory provision<sup>21</sup>.

Where a claimant is engaged in employment as a self-employed earner and he is also engaged in one or more other employments as a self-employed or employed earner any loss incurred in any one of his employments must not be offset against his earnings in any other of his employments<sup>22</sup>.

1     le subject to the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 21(2) (as amended), and reg 21(3) (as added): see note 2 infra.

2     See ibid reg 21(1) (amended by SI 1994/2139). For the meaning of 'self-employed earner' see PARA 32 ante.

The gross receipts of the employment include any allowance paid under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 (as substituted and amended) to the claimant for the purpose of assisting him in carrying on his business, unless at the date of claim the allowance has been terminated (see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 21(1) (as so amended)) but do not include any payments to which Sch 2 para 24 refers (see reg 21(3) (as added)) (any payment made by a health authority, local authority or voluntary organisation to the claimant in respect of a person who is not normally a member of the claimant's household but is temporarily in his care (see Sch 2 para 24)). On general principles, the receipts must be of an income nature, and so do not include capital receipts, including business loans or the proceeds of sale of capital items: Decision CFC/3/1992. As to the equivalent provisions in relation to income support see PARA 189 ante. If a dispute arises as to whether an item is income or capital, commercial accounting principles should be followed unless they conflict with the regulations: see Decision R(FC)1/91 para 38.

3     le for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 15 (as amended): see PARA 208 ante.

4     In the case of a self-employed earner whose employment is carried on in partnership or is that of a share fisherman within the meaning of the Social Security (Mariner's Benefits) Regulations 1975, SI 1975/529, there are provisions for calculating his share of the net profit: see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 22(1)(b), (4), (5) (as amended).

5     See ibid reg 22(1)(a).

6     le for the purpose of ibid reg 22(1)(a): see the text to note 5 supra.

7     le except where ibid reg 22(3A) (as added), reg 22(9) (as amended) or reg 22(10) (as substituted) applies.

8     le subject to ibid reg 22(5)-(7) (as amended).

9     A deduction may not be made under ibid reg 22(3)(a) (as amended), reg 22(3A)(a) (as added), reg 22(4) (as amended) or reg 22(4A) (as added), as the case may be, in respect of any sum unless it has been expended for the purposes of the business: reg 22(8)(a) (amended by SI 1988/1970). An adjudication officer must refuse to make a deduction in respect of any expenses under any of those provisions where he is not satisfied that expense has been defrayed or given the nature and the amount of the expense that it has been reasonably incurred: see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 22(7) (amended by SI 1988/1970).

10    As to the calculations for the amounts deductible for income tax and contributions see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 23 (as amended).

11    Ibid reg 22(3) (amended by SI 1988/1970; and SI 1994/527). As to the qualifying premium see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 22(13) (as added). As to the special provisions which apply where the claimant has provided a profit and loss account or a balance sheet or both under reg 15(1)(b) (as substituted) (see PARA 208 ante) see reg 22(3A) (as added and amended), reg 22(4A) (as added). As to the special provisions which apply where the claimant has only recently commenced employment as a self-employed earner see reg 22(10) (as substituted). 'Qualifying premium' means any premium which at the date of claim is payable periodically in respect of a retirement annuity contract or a personal pension scheme: reg 22(12)(a) (reg 22(12) substituted by SI 1993/2119; and amended by SI 1994/527). Its amount in relation to the assessment period is calculated under the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 22(13) (as added).

Where a claimant is engaged in employment as a child minder the net profit of the employment is one-third of the earnings of that employment less the usual deductions for income tax and social security contributions and qualifying premia: see reg 22(9) (as amended). As to the calculation of income on a weekly basis see reg 13 (as amended). As to the deduction of tax and contributions for self-employed earners see reg 23 (as amended).

12    le under ibid reg 22(3)(a) (as amended), reg 22(3A) (as added), reg 22(4) (as amended) or reg 22(4A) (as added) as the case may be.

13 Where, however, the claimant's earnings are being assessed from a profit and loss account or balance sheet, it is necessary to take into account opening and closing stock: Decision CFC/041/1993, following Decision CFC/019/1993, though cf Decision CFC/010/1993.

17 See the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 22(8)(b)(i).

18 See ibid reg 22(8)(b)(ii).

19 See ibid reg 22(8)(b)(iii).

20 Decision R(FC)1/91.

21 As specified in the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, Sch 1: see reg 22(2). As to the sums specified in Sch 1 see PARA 209 note 16 ante.

22 See ibid reg 22(11); Decision R(FC)1/93. However, before calculating any profit and loss in a case where there are two or more employments, it may be necessary to apportion the expenses incurred between those employments and this does not fall foul of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973 reg 22(11): see Decision CFC/836/1995.

UPDATE

202-217 [Working Families' Tax Credit]

Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) working families' tax credit (formerly 'family credit') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. ## 215. Notional capital.

The family credit legislation contains provisions deeming a claimant to have capital he does not actually possess ('notional capital')<sup>1</sup>, namely:

- 575 (1) a claimant is to be treated as possessing capital of which he has deprived himself for the purpose of securing entitlement to family credit or increasing the amount of that benefit<sup>2</sup>;
- 576 (2) any capital which would become available to the claimant upon application being made but which has not been acquired by him is to be treated as possessed by him<sup>3</sup>;
- 577 (3) any payment of capital, other than a payment of capital made under specified trusts or funds<sup>4</sup>, made:
- 53 62. (a) to a third party in respect of a member of the family (but not a member of the third party's family) is treated as possessed by that member of the family to the extent that it is used for specified purposes<sup>5</sup>;
- 63. (b) to a member of the family in respect of a third party (but not in respect of another member of the family) is to be treated as possessed by that member to the extent that it is kept by him or used on behalf of any member of the family<sup>6</sup>;
- 54 578 (4) where a claimant stands in relation to a company in a position analogous to that of a sole owner or partner in the business of that company, he is to be treated as if he were such sole owner or partner and in such a case:
- 55 64. (a) the value of his holding in that company must, notwithstanding statutory provision<sup>7</sup>, be disregarded; and
- 65. (b) he must, subject to statutory provision<sup>8</sup>, be treated as possessing an amount of capital equal to the value or, as the case may be, his share of the value of the capital of that company and prescribed provisions<sup>9</sup> must apply for the purposes of calculating that amount as if it were actual capital which he does possess<sup>10</sup>.

1 Where a claimant is treated as possessing capital under any of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 34(1)-(4) (as amended), the provisions of regs 28-33 (as amended) are to apply for the purposes of calculating its amount as if it were actual capital which he does possess: see reg 34(6). As to the similar circumstances covered by the income support legislation see PARA 196 ante.

2 See ibid reg 34(1) (amended by SI 1990/1774). This does not apply (1) where that capital is derived from a payment made in consequence of any personal injury and is placed on trust for the benefit of the claimant; or (2) to the extent that the capital which he is treated as possessing is reduced in accordance with the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 34A (as added and amended) (diminishing notional capital rule): see reg 34(1) (as so amended). A claimant is to be treated as possessing capital under reg 34(1) (as amended) only if the capital of which he has deprived himself is actual capital: reg 34(7) (added by SI 1988/660). As to the equivalent rule in the income support legislation and the case law see PARA 196 ante.

Where a claimant is treated as possessing capital under reg 34(1) (as amended) (see head (1) in the text), the amount which he is treated as possessing is to be reduced under a similar 'diminishing notional capital rule' to that applying for income support purposes. As to the diminishing notional capital rule see the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 34A (as so added and amended). As to the equivalent income support provision see PARA 196 ante.

3 See ibid reg 34(2) (amended by SI 1995/2303). This does not apply to: (1) a discretionary trust; (2) a trust derived from a payment made in consequence of a personal injury; or (3) any loan which would be obtainable only if secured against capital disregarded under Sch 3 (as amended); or (4) a personal pension scheme or retirement annuity contract: see reg 34(2) (as so amended); and PARA 196 ante. As to personal pension schemes see PARA 710 et seq post; and as to retirement annuity contracts see PARA 677 et seq post.

4 As to the specified trusts or funds see ibid reg 34(3) (as amended).

5 As to the specified purposes see ibid reg 34(3)(a) (as amended).

6 See ibid reg 34(3) (as frequently amended); and PARA 196 ante.

7 Ie notwithstanding ibid reg 29 (calculation of capital): see PARA 214 ante.

8 Ie subject to ibid reg 34(5): see note 10 infra.

9 Ie the provisions of ibid regs 28-33 (as amended) apply.

10 See ibid reg 34(4). For so long as the claimant undertakes activities in the course of the business of the company, the amount which he is treated as possessing under reg 34(4) must be disregarded: reg 34(5).

UPDATE

218-227 [Disabled Person's Tax Credit]

Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) disabled person's tax credit (formerly 'disability working allowance') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887 if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/7. INCOME-RELATED BENEFITS/(4) DISABILITY WORKING ALLOWANCE/(ii) Defining the Conditions of Entitlement/222. The disability qualification.

222. The disability qualification.

A person in Great Britain who has attained the age of 16 and qualifies by reason of the statutory provision in relation to qualifying benefits<sup>1</sup> is entitled to a disability working allowance if, when the claim for it is made or is treated as made he has a physical or mental disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job<sup>2</sup>.

On an initial claim<sup>3</sup>, a declaration by the claimant that he has a physical or mental disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job is conclusive, except in such circumstances as may be prescribed, that for the above purposes<sup>4</sup> he has such a disability<sup>5</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> He qualifies under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 129(2) (as amended) or s 129(2A) (as added): see PARA 221 ante. As to when a person attains a particular age see PARA 19 note 11 ante.

<sup>2</sup> See ibid s 129(1)(b) (amended by the Social Security (Incapacity for Work) Act 1994 s 10); and PARA 218 ante. For these purposes, a person has a disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job only if he satisfies prescribed conditions or prescribed circumstances exist in relation to him: s 129(3). A person has a disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job where: (1) in respect of an initial claim one or more of heads (1)-(20), (a)-(d) infra and the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, Sch 1 Pt III apply to him; (2) in respect of a repeat claim one or more of heads (1)-(20), (a)-(d) infra apply to him: see reg 3(1). The Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, Sch 1 Pt I (amended by SI 1995/2303) prescribes a list of 20 disabilities which put a person at a disadvantage in getting a job, as follows:

- 82 (1) when standing he cannot keep his balance unless he continually holds onto something;
- 83 (2) using any crutches, walking frame, walking stick, prosthesis or similar walking aid which he habitually uses, he cannot walk a continuous distance of 100 metres along level ground without stopping or without suffering severe pain;
- 84 (3) he can use neither of his hands behind his back as in the process of putting on a jacket or of tucking a shirt into trousers;
- 85 (4) he can extend neither of his arms in front of him so as to shake hands with another person without difficulty;
- 86 (5) he can put neither of his hands up to his head without difficulty so as to put on a hat;
- 87 (6) due to lack of manual dexterity he cannot, with one hand, pick up a coin which is not more than 2.5 cm in diameter;
- 88 (7) he is not able to use his hands or arms to pick up a full jug of one litre capacity and pour from it into a cup, without difficulty;
- 89 (8) he can turn neither of his hands sideways through 180 degrees;
- 90 (9) he is registered as blind or registered as partially sighted in a register compiled by a local authority under the National Assistance Act 1948 s 29(4)(g) (welfare services) or, in Scotland, has been certified as blind or as partially sighted and in consequence registered as blind or partially sighted in a register maintained by or on behalf of a regional or island council;
- 91 (10) he cannot see to read 16 point print at a distance greater than 20 cm, if appropriate, wearing the glasses he normally uses;
- 92 (11) he cannot hear a telephone ring when he is in the same room as the telephone, if appropriate, using a hearing aid he normally uses;

- 93 (12) in a quiet room he has difficulty in hearing what someone talking in a loud voice at a distance of 2 metres says, if appropriate, using a hearing aid he normally uses;
- 94 (13) people who know him well have difficulty in understanding what he says;
- 95 (14) when a person he knows well speaks to him, he has difficulty in understanding what that person says;
- 96 (15) at least once a year during waking hours he is in a coma or has a fit in which he loses consciousness;
- 97 (16) he has a mental illness for which he receives regular treatment under the supervision of a medically qualified person;
- 98 (17) due to mental disability he is often confused or forgetful;
- 99 (18) he cannot do the simplest addition and subtraction;
- 100 (19) due to mental disability he strikes people or damages property or is unable to form normal social relationships;
- 101 (20) he cannot normally sustain an eight hour working day or a five day working week due to a medical condition or intermittent or continuous severe pain.

The Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, Sch 1 Pt II prescribes circumstances where a person is at a disadvantage in getting a job as follows:

- 102 (a) there is payable to him (i) the highest or middle rate of the care component of disability living allowance (see PARA 104 ante); (ii) the higher rate of the mobility component of disability living allowance (see PARA 106 ante); (iii) an attendance allowance under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 65 (see PARA 114 ante); (iv) disablement benefit where the extent of the disablement is assessed at not less than 80% in accordance with s 103, Sch 6 (as amended) (see PARA 142 ante); (v) a war pension in respect of which the degree of disablement is certified at not less than 80%; and for these purposes 'war pension' means a war pension in accordance with the Social Security Act 1989 s 25(4) (see WAR AND ARMED CONFLICT vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 618); (vi) mobility supplement (see PARA 94 note 7 ante) or (vii) a benefit corresponding to a benefit mentioned in heads (i)-(vi) supra under any enactment having effect in Northern Ireland;
- 103 (b) subject to head (d) infra, for one or more of the 56 days immediately preceding the date when the initial claim for disability working allowance was made or treated as made, there was payable to him severe disablement allowance or a corresponding benefit under any enactment having effect in Northern Ireland;
- 104 (c) subject to head (d) infra, he has an invalid carriage or other vehicle provided by the Secretary of State under the National Health Service Act 1977 s 5(2)(a), Sch 2 (as amended) or under corresponding legislation for Scotland or Northern Ireland; but
- 105 (d) heads (a)-(c) supra are subject to the condition that no evidence is before the adjudication officer which gives him reasonable grounds for believing, whether in respect of an initial or a repeat claim, that none of heads (1)-(20) supra apply to the claimant, and in respect of an initial claim that the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, Sch 1 Pt III does not apply to him either.

Schedule 1 Pt III provides that a person is at a disadvantage in getting a job if as a result of an illness or accident he is undergoing a period of habilitation or rehabilitation: Sch 1 Pt III (para 25). See further HEALTH SERVICES vol 54 (2008) PARA 35.

3 'Initial claim' means a claim for a disability working allowance made by a person: (1) to whom it has not previously been payable; or (2) to whom it has not been payable during the period of two years immediately preceding the date on which the claim is made or is treated as made; and 'repeat claim' means any other claim for a disability working allowance: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 11(1). If (1) a repeat claim is made or treated as made not later than the end of the period of eight weeks commencing with the last day of the claimant's previous award; and (2) on the claim which resulted in that award he qualified under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 129(2) (as amended) (see PARA 221 ante) by virtue of s 129(2)(a) (as amended) (see PARA 221 head (1) ante), or by virtue of there being payable to him a benefit under an enactment having effect in Northern Ireland and corresponding to a benefit mentioned in that head, he is treated on the repeat claim as if he still so qualified: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 11(3).

4 le the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 129(1)(b) (as amended): see the text to note 2 supra.

5 le in accordance with regulations under ibid s 129(3): see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 11(2). On an initial claim, a declaration by the claimant that he has a physical or mental disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job is not conclusive that he has a disability which puts him at a disadvantage in getting a job, where the claim itself contains contrary indications, or the adjudication officer has before him other evidence which contradicts that declaration: see the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/3887, reg 4. Appeal from an adjudication officer's decision on this disability qualification, being a 'disability question', lies to a disability appeal tribunal, not to a social security appeal tribunal: Social Security (Adjudication) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/1801, reg 27(1), (2)(a). As to disability appeal tribunals see PARA 378 post.

218-227 [Disabled Person's Tax Credit]

Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) disabled person's tax credit (formerly 'disability working allowance') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887 if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

Subject to statutory provision<sup>2</sup>, where the claimant is paid weekly, his normal weekly earnings are to be determined by taking account of his earnings over five consecutive weeks in the six weeks immediately preceding the week in which the date of claim falls<sup>3</sup>. Subject to statutory provision<sup>4</sup>, where the claimant is paid monthly, his normal weekly earnings are to be determined by taking account of his earnings over a period of two months immediately preceding the week in which the date of claim falls<sup>5</sup>.

Subject to statutory provision<sup>6</sup>, whether or not the prescribed provision<sup>7</sup> applies, where a claimant's earnings fluctuate or are not likely to represent his weekly earnings, his normal weekly earnings must be determined by taking account of his weekly earnings over such other period preceding the week in which the date of claim falls as may, in any particular case, enable his normal weekly earnings to be determined more accurately<sup>8</sup>.

614 (1) the claimant:

86. (a) has been in his employment; or

87. (b) after a continuous period of interruption exceeding 13 weeks, has resumed his employment; or

615 (2) the period of his employment or the period since he resumed his employment or the period since the change in the number of hours took place, as the case may be, is less than the assessment period<sup>9</sup> appropriate in his case, his normal weekly earnings must be determined as follows<sup>10</sup>. The Secretary of State must require the claimant's employer to furnish an estimate of the claimant's average likely earnings for the period for which he will normally be paid and the claimant's normal weekly earnings must be determined by taking account of that estimate<sup>11</sup>.

'A period of short-time working' means a continuous period not exceeding 13 weeks during which the claimant is not required by his employer to be available to work the full number of hours normal in his case under the terms of his employment: Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, reg 16(9)(b).

Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) disabled person's tax credit (formerly 'disability working allowance') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887 if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

224-227 Income and Capital

The provisions of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, Pt V (regs 12-50), relating to the calculation of income and capital, are further amended: see PARA 220 NOTE 13. Such amendments generally follow those made to the analogous provisions of the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973. Following the structure of vol 44(2) (Reissue), detailed amendments are noted to paras 208-217, except where they differ from family credit or are peculiar to disability working allowance.

226. Capital.

The principal difference between the family credit provisions on capital<sup>1</sup> and those applying for disability working allowance purposes is that in the latter the capital limit, beyond which there is no entitlement to the allowance, is set at £16,000<sup>2</sup>, not £8,000<sup>3</sup>. Tariff income<sup>4</sup> still starts once the claimant has £3,000, but goes up to £16,000 (on the same basis of £1 of notional income for each £250 or part thereof)<sup>5</sup>. Other than that, the provisions are analogous with those in the family credit legislation<sup>6</sup>.

1. Introductory

The Tax Credits Act 2002 makes provision for (1) a tax credit to be known as child tax credit, and (2) a tax credit to be known as working tax credit<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> Tax Credits Act 2002 s 1(1) (in force for all purposes of Pt 1 (ss 1-48) and, as respects tax credits, Pt 3 (ss 58-70): SI 2002/1727). In the Tax Credits Act 2002 references to a tax credit are to either of those tax credits and references to tax credits are to both of them: s 1(2) (in force for all purposes of Pt 1 and, as respects tax credits, Pt 3: SI 2002/1727).

The following (which are superseded by tax credits) are abolished: (1) children's tax credit under the Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 257AA (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 996), (2) working families' tax credit (see PARA 202-217), (3) disabled person's tax credit (see PARA 218-227), (4) the amounts which, in relation to income support and income-based jobseeker's allowance, are prescribed as part of the applicable amount in respect of a child or young person, the family premium, the enhanced disability premium in respect of a child or young person and the disabled child premium (see PARAS 184, 272), (5) increases in benefits in respect of children under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 ss 80 (see PARA 122), 90 (see PARA 590) and the Social Security Contributions and Benefits (Northern Ireland) Act 1992 ss 80, 90, and (6) the employment credit under the schemes under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2(2) and the Employment and Training Act (Northern Ireland) 1950 s 1 known as 'New Deal 50plus' (see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(2) (Reissue) PARA 1240): Tax Credits Act 2002 s 1(3) (heads (1)-(3), (5), (6) in force: SI 2003/938, SI 2003/962); head (4) in force 31 December 2011: SI 2003/962 (amended by SI 2006/3369, SI 2008/3151). The Secretary of State may by order make any transitional provisions or savings which appear appropriate in connection with the commencement of the abolition of the increases referred to in the 2002 Act s 1(3)(e) (head (5)): s 62(1). See the Tax Credits Act 2002 (Transitional Provisions) Order 2005, SI 2005/773 (amended by SI 2006/3369). As to orders generally see 2002 Act s 65; and PARA 227A.47.

2. Functions of Board

The Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs are responsible for the payment and management of tax credits<sup>1</sup>.

3. Claims: general

Entitlement to a tax credit<sup>1</sup> for the whole or part of a tax year<sup>2</sup> is dependent on the making of a claim for it<sup>3</sup>. Where the Board<sup>4</sup> (1) decides<sup>5</sup> not to make an award of a tax credit on a claim, or (2) decides<sup>6</sup> to terminate an award of a tax credit made on a claim, (subject to any appeal) any entitlement, or subsequent entitlement, to the tax credit for any part of the same tax year is dependent on the making of a new claim<sup>7</sup>. A claim for a tax credit may be made (a) jointly by the members of a couple<sup>8</sup> both of whom are aged at least 16 and are in the United Kingdom, or (b) by a person who is aged at least 16 and is in the United Kingdom but is not entitled to make a claim under head (a) above (jointly with another)<sup>9</sup>. Entitlement to a tax credit pursuant to a claim ceases (i) in the case of a joint claim<sup>10</sup>, if the persons by whom it was made could no longer jointly make a joint claim, and (ii) in the case of a single claim<sup>11</sup>, if the person by whom it was made could no longer make a single claim<sup>12</sup>. Circumstances may be prescribed<sup>13</sup> in which a person is to be treated for the purposes of Part 1 of the Tax Credits Act 2002 as being, or as not being, in the United Kingdom<sup>14</sup>.

For the purposes of the 2002 Act Pt 1, two people of the same sex are to be regarded as living together as if they were civil partners if, but only if, they would be regarded as living together as husband and wife were they instead two people of the opposite sex: s 48(2) (added by Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 24 para 147(3)). See further MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

4. Claims: supplementary

The Board<sup>5</sup> may supply to a person who has made a claim for a tax credit (whether or not jointly with another) (a) any information relating to the claim, to an award made on the claim or to any change of circumstances relevant to the claim or such an award, (b) any communication made or received relating to such an award or any such change of circumstances, and (c) any other information which is relevant to any entitlement to tax credits pursuant to the claim or any such change of circumstances or which appeared to be so relevant at the time the information was supplied<sup>6</sup>.

5. Period of awards

Where a tax credit<sup>1</sup> is claimed for a tax year<sup>2</sup> by making a claim before the tax year begins, any award of the tax credit on the claim is for the whole of the tax year<sup>3</sup>. An award on any other claim for a tax credit is for the period beginning with the date on which the claim is made and ending at the end of the tax year in which that date falls<sup>4</sup>.

The above provisions<sup>5</sup> are subject to any decision by the Board<sup>6</sup> to terminate an award<sup>7</sup>.

6. Notifications of changes of circumstances

Regulations may provide that any change of circumstances of a prescribed<sup>1</sup> description which may increase the maximum rate at which a person or persons may be entitled to a tax credit<sup>2</sup> is to do so only if notification of it has been given<sup>3</sup>. Regulations<sup>4</sup> may provide (1) for notification of a change of circumstances given in prescribed circumstances to be treated as having been given on a prescribed date earlier or later than that on which it is given, (2) that, in prescribed circumstances, a notification of a change of circumstances may be given for a period wholly or partly after the date on which it is given, and (3) that, in prescribed circumstances, an amendment of an award of a tax credit in consequence of a notification of a change of circumstances may be made subject to the condition that the requirements for entitlement to the amended amount of the tax credit are satisfied at a prescribed time<sup>5</sup>. Regulations may require that, where a person has or persons have claimed a tax credit, notification is to be given if there is a change of circumstances of a prescribed description which may decrease the rate at which he is or they are entitled to the tax credit or mean that he ceases or they cease to be entitled to the tax credit<sup>6</sup>. Regulations under the above provisions may (a) require a notification to be given in a prescribed manner and within a prescribed time, (b) specify the person or persons by whom a notification may be, or is to be, given, and (c) provide that, in prescribed circumstances, one person may act for another in giving a notification<sup>7</sup>.

6 Ibid s 6(3).

7 Ibid s 6(4).

7. Income test

The entitlement of a person or persons of any description to a tax credit<sup>1</sup> is dependent on the relevant income<sup>2</sup> (1) not exceeding the amount determined in the manner prescribed for the purposes of this provision<sup>3</sup> in relation to the tax credit and a person or persons of that description (referred to in Part 1 of the Tax Credits Act 2002 as the income threshold), or (2) exceeding the income threshold by only so much that a determination<sup>4</sup> provides a rate of the tax credit in his or their case<sup>5</sup>.

For the purposes of Part 1 of the Tax Credits Act 2002 regulations have been made which make provision (a) as to what is, or is not, income, and (b) as to the calculation of income<sup>6</sup>. The regulations also provide that, for the purposes of Part 1 of the Tax Credits Act 2002, a person is to be treated (i) as having income which he does not in fact have, or (ii) as not having income which he does in fact have<sup>7</sup>.

The Board<sup>8</sup> may estimate the amount of the income of a person, or the aggregate income of persons, for any tax year for the purpose of making, amending or terminating an award of a tax credit; but such an estimate does not affect the rate at which he is, or they are, entitled to the tax credit for that or any other tax year<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tax credit' see PARA 227A.2.

2 In the Tax Credits Act 2002 Pt 1 (ss 1-48) 'the relevant income' means (1) if an amount is prescribed for the purposes of this provision and the current year income exceeds the previous year income by not more than that amount, the previous year income, (2) if an amount is prescribed for the purposes of this provision and the current year income exceeds the previous year income by more than that amount, the current year income reduced by that amount, (3) if an amount is prescribed for the purposes of this provision and the previous year income exceeds the current year income by not more than that amount, the previous year income, (4) if an amount is prescribed for the purposes of this provision and the previous year income exceeds the current year income by more than that amount, the current year income increased by that amount, and (5) otherwise, the current year income: s 7(3). See Tax Credits (Income Thresholds and Determination of Rates) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2008 (amended by SI 2004/941, SI 2006/963, SI 2007/828, SI 2008/1879, SI 2009/800). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 227A.3. As to regulations generally see Tax Credits Act 2002 s 65; and PARA 227A.47. As to parliamentary control of instruments see s 66; and PARA 227A.48. In Pt 1 'the current year income' means (a) in relation to persons by whom a joint claim for a tax credit is made, the aggregate income of the persons for the tax year to which the claim relates, and (b) in relation to a person by whom a single claim for a tax credit is made, the income of the person for that tax year: s 7(4). For the meaning of 'joint claim', 'tax year' and 'single claim' see PARA 227A.3. In Pt 1 'the previous year income' means (i) in relation to persons by whom a joint claim for a tax credit is made, the aggregate income of the persons for the tax year preceding that to which the claim relates, and (ii) in relation to a person by whom a single claim for a tax credit is made, the income of the person for that preceding tax year: s 7(5).

Regulations may provide that, for the purposes of Pt 1, income of a prescribed description is to be treated as being, or as not being, income for a particular tax year: s 7(6) (in force for the purpose of making regulations: SI 2002/1727). In particular, regulations may provide that income of a prescribed description of a person for the tax year immediately before the preceding tax year referred to in the Tax Credits Act 2002 s 7(5) is to be treated as being income of that preceding tax year (instead of any actual income of that description of the person for that preceding tax year): s 7(7).

3 le for the purposes of ibid s 7(1)(a).

4 In accordance with regulations under ibid s 13(2): see PARA 227A.13.

5 Ibid s 7(1). For the purposes of s 7(1)(a) (head (1) in the text), in the case of a person or persons entitled to working tax credit, the amount in relation to that tax credit is £5,060; and in the case of a person or persons entitled to child tax credit, the amount in relation to that tax credit is £13,230: see SI 2002/2008. As to working tax credit see generally PARA 227A.10. As to child tax credit see generally PARA 227A.8. The Tax Credits Act 2002 s 7(1) does not apply in relation to the entitlement of a person or persons to a tax credit for so long as the person, or either of the persons, is entitled to any social security benefit prescribed for the purposes of this provision in relation to the tax credit: s 7(2). As to the social security benefits prescribed for the purposes of s 7(2) see SI 2002/2008.

6 See Tax Credits Act 2002 s 7(8); and Tax Credits (Definition and Calculation of Income) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2006 (amended by SI 2003/732, SI 2003/742, SI 2004/762, SI 2004/2663, SI 2005/2919, SI 2006/766, SI 2007/824, SI 2007/1305, SI 2007/2538, SI 2008/604, SI 2008/2006, SI 2008/2169, SI 2009/697).

8. Child tax credit: entitlement

The entitlement of the person or persons by whom a claim for child tax credit<sup>1</sup> has been made is dependent on him, or either or both of them, being responsible for one or more children<sup>2</sup> or qualifying young persons<sup>3</sup>. Regulations make provision for the purposes of child tax credit as to the circumstances in which a person is or is not responsible for a child or qualifying young person<sup>4</sup>. Circumstances are prescribed in which a person is to be entitled to child tax credit for a prescribed period in respect of a child or qualifying young person who has died<sup>5</sup>.

1 See generally PARA 227A.1.

2 For the purposes of the Tax Credits Act 2002 Pt 1 (ss 1-48) a person is a child if he has not attained the age of 16; but regulations make provision for a person who has attained that age to remain a child for the purposes of Pt 1 after attaining that age for a prescribed period or until a prescribed date: s 8(3). See Child Tax Credit Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2007 (amended by SI 2003/738, SI 2003/742, SI 2003/2815, SI 2004/762, SI 2004/941, SI 2005/681, SI 2005/2919, SI 2005/3238, SI 2006/222, SI 2006/766, SI 2006/963, SI 2006/1163, SI 2007/828, SI 2007/2151, SI 2008/796, SI 2008/1879, SI 2008/2169, SI 2009/697, SI 2009/800). 3 Ibid 8(1). In Pt 1 'qualifying young person' means a person, other than a child, who (1) has not attained such age (greater than 16) as is prescribed, and (2) satisfies prescribed conditions: s 8(4).

4 See ibid s 8(2); SI 2002/2007; and NOTE 2. The entitlement of only the primary carer to child tax credit under SI 2002/2007 is not not unlawfully discriminatory against men: Humphreys v Revenue and Customs Comrs [2010] EWCA Civ 56, [2010] 1 FCR 630.

5 See Tax Credits Act 2002 s 8(5); SI 2002/2007; and NOTE 2.

The element specified in head (1) above is to be known as the family element of child tax credit and that specified in head (2) above is to be known as the individual element of child tax credit<sup>7</sup>. The prescribed manner of determination may involve the inclusion of such other elements as may be prescribed<sup>8</sup>. The prescribed manner of determination (a) may include provision for the amount of the family element of child tax credit to vary according to the age of any of the children or qualifying young persons or according to any such other factors as may be prescribed, (b) may include provision for the amount of the individual element of child tax credit to vary according to the age of the child or qualifying young person or according to any such other factors as may be prescribed, and (c) must include provision for the amount of the individual element of child tax credit to be increased in the case of a child or qualifying young person who is disabled and to be further increased in the case of a child or qualifying young person who is severely disabled<sup>9</sup>. If more than one claimant<sup>10</sup> may be entitled<sup>11</sup> to child tax credit in respect of the same child or qualifying young person, the prescribed manner of determination may include provision for the amount of any element of child tax credit included in the case of any one or more of them to be less than it would be if only one claimant were so entitled<sup>12</sup>.

12. Working tax credit: child care element

13. Rate

Where, in the case of a person or persons entitled to a tax credit<sup>1</sup>, the relevant income<sup>2</sup> does not exceed the income threshold<sup>3</sup>, the rate at which he is or they are entitled to the tax credit is the maximum rate for his or their case<sup>4</sup>. Regulations have made provision as to the manner of determining the rate (if any) at which a person is, or persons are, entitled to a tax credit in any other case<sup>5</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tax credit' see PARA 227A.2.

2 'The relevant income' has the meaning given by the Tax Credits Act 2002 s 7(3) (see PARA 227A.7): s 48.

3 Or his or their entitlement arises by virtue of ibid s 7(2) (see PARA 227A.7): s 13(1). 'The income threshold' has the meaning given by s 7(1)(a) (see PARA 227A.7 head (1)): s 48.

4 Ibid s 13(1).

5 See ibid s 13(2); and Tax Credits (Income Thresholds and Determination of Rates) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/2008 (see PARA 227A.7). As to regulations generally see Tax Credits Act 2002 s 65; and PARA 227A.47. As to parliamentary control of instruments see s 66; and PARA 227A.48. The manner of determination prescribed under s 13(2) (1) may involve the making of adjustments so as to avoid fractional amounts, and (2) may include provision for securing that, where the rate at which a person or persons would be entitled to a tax credit would be less than a prescribed rate, there is no rate in his or their case: s 13(3). See SI 2002/2008.

14. Initial decisions

On a claim for a tax credit<sup>1</sup> the Board<sup>2</sup> must decide (1) whether to make an award of the tax credit, and (2) if so, the rate at which to award it<sup>3</sup>. Before making its decision the Board may by notice (a) require the person, or either or both of the persons, by whom the claim is made to provide any information or evidence which the Board considers it may need for making its decision, or (b) require any person of a prescribed<sup>4</sup> description to provide any information or evidence of a prescribed description which the Board considers it may need for that purpose, by the date specified in the notice<sup>5</sup>. The Board's power to decide the rate at which to award a tax credit includes power to decide to award it at a nil rate<sup>6</sup>.

15. Revised decisions after notifications

Where notification of a change of circumstances increasing the maximum rate at which a person or persons may be entitled to a tax credit<sup>1</sup> is given<sup>2</sup>, the Board<sup>3</sup> must decide whether (and, if so, how) to amend the award of the tax credit made to him or them<sup>4</sup>. Before making its decision the Board may by notice (1) require the person by whom the notification is given to provide any information or evidence which the Board considers it may need for making its decision, or (2) require any person of a prescribed<sup>5</sup> description to provide any information or evidence of a prescribed description which the Board considers it may need for that purpose, by the date specified in the notice<sup>6</sup>.

16. Other revised decisions

Where, at any time during the period for which an award of a tax credit<sup>1</sup> is made to a person or persons, the Board<sup>2</sup> has reasonable grounds for believing (1) that the rate at which the tax credit has been awarded to him or them for the period differs from the rate at which he is, or they are, entitled to the tax credit for the period, or (2) that he has, or they have, ceased to be, or never been, entitled to the tax credit for the period, the Board may decide to amend or terminate the award<sup>3</sup>. Where, at any time during the period for which an award of a tax credit is made to a person or persons, the Board believes (a) that the rate at which a tax credit has been awarded to him or them for the period may differ from the rate at which he is, or they are, entitled to it for the period, or (b) that he or they may have ceased to be, or never been, entitled to the tax credit for the period, the Board may give a notice<sup>4</sup>. A notice<sup>5</sup> may (i) require the person, or either or both of the persons, to whom the tax credit was awarded to provide any information or evidence which the Board considers it may need for considering whether to amend or terminate the award<sup>6</sup>, or (ii) require any person of a prescribed<sup>7</sup> description to provide any information or evidence of a prescribed description which the Board considers it may need for that purpose, by the date specified in the notice<sup>8</sup>.

17. Final notice

Where a tax credit<sup>1</sup> has been awarded for the whole or part of a tax year<sup>2</sup> (1) for awards made on single claims<sup>3</sup>, the Board<sup>4</sup> must give a notice relating to the tax year to the person to whom the tax credit was awarded, and (2) for awards made on joint claims<sup>5</sup>, the Board must give such a notice to the persons to whom the tax credit was awarded (with separate copies of the notice for each of them if the Board considers appropriate)<sup>6</sup>. The notice must either (a) require that the person or persons must, by the date specified<sup>7</sup> for these purposes, declare that the relevant circumstances<sup>8</sup> were as specified or state any respects in which they were not, or (b) inform the person or persons that he or they will be treated as having declared in response to the notice that the relevant circumstances were as specified unless, by that date, he states or they state any respects in which they were not<sup>9</sup>.

Regulations may (i) provide that, in prescribed<sup>10</sup> circumstances, one person may act for another in response to a notice under the above provisions, and (ii) provide that, in prescribed circumstances, anything done by one member of a couple<sup>11</sup> in response to a notice given under the above provisions is to be treated as also done by the other member of the couple<sup>12</sup>.

- 9 Ibid s 17(2).

The notice must either (1) require that the person or persons must, by the date specified for these purposes, declare that the amount of the current year income or estimated current year income (depending on which is specified) was the amount, or fell within the range, specified or comply with s 17(5), or (2) inform the person or persons that he or they will be treated as having declared in response to the notice that the amount of the current year income or estimated current year income (depending on which is specified) was the amount, or fell within the range, specified unless, by that date, he complies or they comply with s 17(5): s 17(4). 'The current year income' has the meaning given by s 7(4) (see PARA 227A.7): s 48. ## 18. Decisions after final notice

After giving a notice<sup>1</sup> the Board<sup>2</sup> must decide (1) whether the person was entitled, or the persons were jointly entitled, to the tax credit<sup>3</sup>, and (2) if so, the amount of the tax credit to which he was entitled, or they were jointly entitled, for the tax year<sup>4</sup>, but<sup>5</sup> that decision must not be made before a declaration or statement has been made in response to the relevant provisions<sup>6</sup> of the notice<sup>7</sup>. If a declaration or statement has not been made in response to the relevant provisions of the notice on or before the date specified<sup>8</sup>, that decision may be made after that date<sup>9</sup>. If the person or persons to whom a notice<sup>10</sup> is given is or are within specified provisions<sup>11</sup>, the Board must decide again (a) whether the person was entitled, or the persons were jointly entitled, to the tax credit, and (b) if so, the amount of the tax credit to which he was entitled, or they were jointly entitled, for the tax year<sup>12</sup>.

Before exercising a function imposed or conferred on them<sup>13</sup>, the Board may by notice require the person, or either or both of the persons, to whom the notice<sup>14</sup> was given to provide any further information or evidence which the Board considers it may need for exercising the function by the date specified in the notice<sup>15</sup>.

It is provided that a final decision is conclusive as to the entitlement of the person or persons to whom it relates, subject to certain provisions<sup>16</sup>.

7 Ibid s 18(2).

8 For the purposes of ibid s 17(4): see PARA 227A.17.

If a statement has not been made in response to the provision included in the notice by virtue of s 17(8) on or before the date specified for the purposes of s 17(8), that decision may be made after that date: s 18(8). Where the Board makes a decision under s 18(6) on or before the date referred to in s 18(8), it may revise it if a new statement is made on or before that date: s 18(9).

19. Power to inquire

The Board<sup>1</sup> may inquire into (1) the entitlement of a person, or the joint entitlement of persons, to a tax credit<sup>2</sup> for a tax year<sup>3</sup>, and (2) the amount of the tax credit to which he was entitled, or they were jointly entitled, for the tax year, if it gives notice to the person, or each of the persons, during the period allowed for the initiation of an inquiry<sup>4</sup>. As part of the inquiry the Board may by notice (a) require the person, or either or both of the persons, to provide any information or evidence which the Board considers it may need for the purposes of the inquiry, or (b) require any person of a prescribed<sup>5</sup> description to provide any information or evidence of a prescribed description which the Board considers it may need for those purposes, by the date specified in the notice<sup>6</sup>. On an inquiry the Board must decide (i) whether the person was entitled, or the persons were jointly entitled, to the tax credit, and (ii) if so, the amount of the tax credit to which he was entitled, or they were jointly entitled, for the tax year<sup>7</sup>. Provision is made with respect to the period allowed for beginning an inquiry<sup>8</sup>. A return becomes final (A) if it is inquired into<sup>9</sup>, when the inquiries are completed<sup>10</sup>, or (B) otherwise, at the end of the period specified<sup>11</sup> in relation to the return<sup>12</sup>. An inquiry is completed at the time when the Board gives notice to the person or persons of its decision<sup>13</sup>; but if the Board gives notice to the persons at different times the inquiry is completed at the later of those times<sup>14</sup>. The person, or either of the persons, to whom the inquiry relates may at any time before such notice is given apply for a direction that the Board must give such a notice<sup>15</sup>. Such an application must be heard and determined in the same way as an appeal against a decision<sup>16</sup>; and the General Commissioners<sup>17</sup> or Special Commissioners<sup>18</sup> hearing the application must give the direction applied for unless satisfied that the Board has reasonable grounds for not making the decision or giving the notice<sup>19</sup>. Where the entitlement of a person, or the joint entitlement of persons, to a tax credit for a tax year has been inquired into under the above provisions, it is not the subject of a further notice<sup>20</sup>.

It is provided that a decision on an inquiry is conclusive as to the entitlement to a tax credit, subject to certain provisions<sup>21</sup>.

20. Decisions on discovery

Where in consequence of a person's income tax liability being revised<sup>1</sup> the Board<sup>2</sup> has reasonable grounds for believing that a conclusive decision<sup>3</sup> relating to his entitlement to a tax credit for a tax year (whether or not jointly with another person) is not correct, the Board may decide to revise that decision<sup>4</sup>. Where the Board has reasonable grounds for believing that (1) a conclusive decision relating to the entitlement of a person, or the joint entitlement of persons, to a tax credit for a tax year is not correct, and (2) that is attributable to fraud or neglect on the part of the person, or of either of the persons, or on the part of any person acting for him, or either of them, the Board may decide to revise that decision<sup>5</sup>.

Where the Board so decides the overpayment (or part of the overpayment) carries interest at a prescribed<sup>5</sup> rate from the date 30 days after the appropriate date<sup>6</sup>. The Board must give notice of a decision<sup>7</sup> to the person, or each of the persons, to whom it relates; and the notice must state the date on which it is given and include details of the right to appeal against the decision<sup>8</sup>. A penalty<sup>9</sup> carries interest at the prescribed rate from the date on which it becomes due and payable; but the Board may in its discretion mitigate any interest or entirely remit any interest which would otherwise be carried by a penalty<sup>10</sup>.

An appeal<sup>7</sup> is to the General Commissioners<sup>8</sup> but the appellant may elect<sup>9</sup> to bring the appeal before the Special Commissioners<sup>10</sup> instead<sup>11</sup>. Subject to transitional provisions and savings (see SI 2003/962) disabled person's tax credit (formerly 'disability working allowance') is abolished and replaced: see Tax Credits Act 2002; and PARA 227A.

For the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887 if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425). If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Disability Working Allowance (General) Regulations 1991, SI 1991/2887, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April

Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/228. Payments out of the social fund.

8. THE SOCIAL FUND

228. Payments out of the social fund.

The social fund<sup>1</sup> is maintained under the control and management of the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>, and payments out of it are made by him<sup>3</sup>. Payments may be made out of the social fund, in accordance with the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992<sup>4</sup>:

- 616 (1) of prescribed amounts, whether in respect of prescribed items or otherwise, to meet, in prescribed circumstances, maternity expenses and funeral expenses<sup>5</sup>; and
- 617 (2) to meet other needs<sup>6</sup> in accordance with directions given or guidance issued by the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup>;
- 618 (3) of a prescribed amount or a number of prescribed amounts to prescribed descriptions of persons, in prescribed circumstances to meet expenses for heating which appear to the Secretary of State to have been or to be likely to be incurred in cold weather<sup>8</sup>.

Adjudication in relation to head (1) above or head (3) above is by adjudication officers<sup>9</sup>, with appeal lying to a social security appeal tribunal and then to a social security commissioner<sup>10</sup>. The question whether a payment such as is mentioned in head (2) above is to be awarded and how much it is to be is determined by a social fund officer<sup>11</sup>. A social fund officer may determine that an award is payable in specified instalments at specified times<sup>12</sup>. This decision is then subject to a system of internal reviews by another such officer and then by a social fund inspector<sup>13</sup>.

In determining whether to make an award to the applicant or the amount or value to be awarded a social fund officer is to have regard, subject to statutory provision<sup>14</sup>, to all the circumstances of the case and, in particular:

- 619 (a) the nature, extent and urgency of the need<sup>15</sup>;
- 620 (b) the existence of resources from which the need may be met<sup>16</sup>;
- 621 (c) the possibility that some other person or body may wholly or partly meet it<sup>17</sup>;
- 622 (d) where the payment is repayable, the likelihood of repayment and the time within which repayment is likely<sup>18</sup>;
- 623 (e) any relevant allocation under statutory provision<sup>19</sup>.

A social fund officer must determine any question in accordance with any general directions issued by the Secretary of State and in determining any question must take account of any general guidance issued by him<sup>20</sup>. In determining a question a social fund officer must take account<sup>21</sup> of any guidance issued by the social fund officer nominated for his area<sup>22</sup>. Social Fund Directions issued by the Secretary of State restrict the permissible payments to three categories: (i) budgeting loans; (ii) crisis loans; and (iii) community care grants<sup>23</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> As to provisions relating to allocations from and payments into and out of the fund see PARA 11 ante. As to the benefits which may be paid out of the fund see PARA 229 et seq post. This fund was established by the Social Security Act 1986 s 32(1) (repealed) and is continued in being by the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s

As to the principles of determination see notes 14-20 infra. A social fund payment such as is mentioned in s 138(1)(b) may be awarded to a person only if an application for such a payment has been made by him or on his behalf in such form and manner as may be prescribed: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 12(1). The Secretary of State may by regulations (1) make provision with respect to the time at which an application for such a social fund payment is to be treated as made; (2) prescribe conditions that must be satisfied before any determination in connection with such an application may be made or any award of such a payment may be paid; (3) prescribe circumstances in which such an award becomes extinguished: s 12(2). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such regulations had been made but, by virtue of the Social Security (Consequential Provisions) Act 1992 s 2(2), the Social Fund (Applications) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/524 (as amended); and the Social Fund (Miscellaneous Provisions) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/1788, have effect as if so made. Without prejudice to the generality of s 140(2), the Secretary of State may issue directions under s 140(2) for the purpose of securing that a social fund officer or group of social fund officers must not in any specified period make awards of any specified description which in the aggregate exceed the amount, or a specified portion of the amount, allocated to that officer or group of officers under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 168(1)-(4) for payments under awards of that description in that period: see the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140(3). Without prejudice to the generality of s 140(2), the power to issue general directions conferred on the Secretary of State by s 140(2) includes power to direct:

- 106 (1) that in circumstances specified in the direction a social fund officer must not determine an application and, without prejudice to the generality of this provision, that a social fund officer must not determine an application which is made before the end of a specified period after the making of an application by the same person for a payment such as is mentioned in s 138(1)(b) to meet the same need and without there having been any relevant change of circumstances since the previous application;

TEXT AND NOTE 11--Replaced. Whether a payment mentioned in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 138(1)(b) (see TEXT AND NOTES 4-7) is to be awarded, and how much it is to be, is to be determined by an appropriate officer, that is to say, an officer of the Secretary of State who, acting under his authority, is exercising functions of the Secretary of State in relation to payments so mentioned: s 139(1) (substituted by the 1998 Act Sch 7 para 72(1) (in force except for certain purposes: SI 1999/3178)).

TEXT AND NOTES 14-19--Subject to the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140(2) (see TEXT AND NOTE 20), in determining whether to make an award of a budgeting loan to the applicant, or the amount or value to be awarded, a social fund officer must have regard to (i) such of the applicant's personal circumstances as are of a description specified in directions issued by the Secretary of State, and (ii) the criteria specified in s 140(1)(b), (d) and (e): s 140(1A) (added by the 1998 Act s 71(2); and amended by Welfare Reform Act 2007 s 54, Sch 8).

An appropriate officer must review a social fund determination if an application for a review is made, within such time and in such form and manner as may be prescribed, by or on behalf of the person who applied for the payment to which the determination relates; and a social fund determination which has been reviewed must be further reviewed by a social fund inspector if an application is made, within such time and in such form and manner as may be prescribed, by or on behalf of the person who applied for the payment to which the determination relates: 1998 Act s 38(1)(a), (3) (in force except for certain purposes: SI 1999/528, SI 1999/3178).

The question of the applicant's need should be assessed before any budgetary restraints are considered; in general, if the need has been assessed at a level for which funds have been allocated, an award ought to be made if it will help the applicant to remain in the community rather than to enter institutional or residential care: R v Social Fund Inspector, ex p Taylor (1997) 41 BMLR 31.

TEXT AND NOTE 14--For 'an award' read 'an award of a community care grant or a crisis loan': Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140(1) (amended by the 1998 Act s 71(1)).

3. Procedure

Where before 31 December 2004 the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> thinks that a person is entitled to an age-related payment<sup>2</sup>, the Secretary of State must make the payment before that date, without a claim being required<sup>3</sup>. A person who is entitled to an age-related payment and who does not receive it before 31 December 2004 may claim the payment<sup>4</sup>. Such a claim must (1) be in writing to the Secretary of State; (2) be received by the Secretary of State before 31 March 2005; (3) specify (a) the claimant's name, address, date of birth and national insurance number (if he has one); and (b) the date on which the claim is sent to the Secretary of State; and (4) include a declaration that the claimant was ordinarily resident in Great Britain on at least one day in the relevant week<sup>5</sup>. If the Secretary of State thinks that a person making such a claim is entitled to an age-related payment, the Secretary of State must make the payment<sup>6</sup>.

No account is to be taken of entitlement to an age-related payment in considering a person's liability to tax, entitlement to benefit under an enactment relating to social security (irrespective of the name or nature of the benefit), or entitlement to a tax credit<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1.

6 Ibid s 5(4). The provisions of the Social Security Act 1998 Pt I Ch II (ss 8-39) (see PARA 356A) apply to a decision of the Secretary of State about a person's entitlement to a payment under the Age-Related Payments Act 2004 s 2 or 3, whether or not following a claim, as they apply to a decision of the Secretary of State under the Social Security Act 1998 s 8: Age-Related Payments Act 2004 s 5(5).

7 Ibid s 6.

4. Power to provide for payments

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> may make regulations providing for the making of payments by him to persons who have attained the age of 60 years<sup>2</sup>. Such regulations may provide for payments to be made to persons in a specified class (which may be defined by reference to age or otherwise), and in specified circumstances<sup>3</sup>. Such regulations may, in particular (1) provide for payments to be made only once, at specified times or over a specified period; (2) provide for exceptions; (3) apply (with or without modifications) an enactment relating to social security (including, in particular, an enactment relating to claims, payments, evidence, revision of decisions, appeals or recovery of payment in error); and (4) make different provision for different cases or circumstances<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1.

2 Age-Related Payments Act 2004 s 7(1). Regulations made under s 7 must be made by statutory instrument and may not be made unless a draft has been laid before and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: s 7(4). See the Age-Related Payments Regulations 2005, SI 2005/1983 (amended by SI 2008/1554), which provides for a one-off lump sum payment.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/232. Application for a discretionary social fund payment.

232. Application for a discretionary social fund payment.

Payments may be made out of the social fund<sup>1</sup> to meet needs other than those relating to maternity, funerals or cold weather, in accordance with directions given or guidance issued by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>.

Every application for a payment out of the social fund must be made in writing, on a form approved by the Secretary of State and completed in accordance with the instructions on that form, or in such other manner, being in writing, as the Secretary of State may accept as sufficient in the circumstances of any particular case<sup>3</sup>. Every application is to be delivered or sent to an office of the Department of Social Security<sup>4</sup>. The time at which an application is to be treated as made is the date on which it is received in such an office<sup>5</sup>.

A social fund officer<sup>6</sup> may decide that an award is to be repayable<sup>7</sup>. An award that is to be repayable is repayable upon such terms and conditions as before the award is paid the Secretary of State notifies to the person by or on behalf of whom the application for it was made<sup>8</sup>. Before a payment of an award out of the social fund<sup>9</sup> is made for a category of need which is specified in directions given by the Secretary of State to be repayable, the person by or on behalf of whom the application was made must notify the Secretary of State in writing of his agreement to the terms and conditions of which he has been notified by the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> within 14 days of the date on which that notification was issued to that person<sup>11</sup>.

A repeat application in respect of the same item of service may not be made within 26 weeks of a previous application being allowed or refused, unless (1) there has been a relevant change in the applicant's circumstances or (2) the application is for a budgeting loan and at the time of the previous application the applicant had not been in receipt of benefit for long enough<sup>12</sup>.

3    See the Social Fund (Applications) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/524, reg 2(1). Where it appears to the Secretary of State that an application which has been submitted is (1) incomplete in that the form approved has been used but it has not been completed in accordance with the instructions given on that form, the Secretary of State may return the form to the person making the application for proper completion by him; or (2) contains insufficient particulars to enable any material question to be determined, the Secretary of State may request that person to furnish in writing or by attendance at the appropriate office such further particulars as may reasonably be required to complete the application: see reg 2(5). The time at which an application to which reg 2 applies is to be treated as made is in the case of an application which does not meet the requirements of reg 2(1), but where the person complies with the requirements of the Secretary of State pursuant to reg 2(5), the date on which the application was received in an office of the Department of Social Security in the first instance: see reg 3(b) (reg 3 as added); and the Transfer of Functions (Health and Social Security) Order 1988, SI 1988/1843, art 5(3).

The time specified in reg 2(1) may be extended by the Secretary of State for special reasons, even though the time so specified may already have expired: reg 2(2). An award of a payment out of the social fund under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 138(1)(b) is extinguished where (1) the person by or on behalf of whom the application was made fails to satisfy the condition in the Social Fund (Miscellaneous Provisions) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/1788, reg 2(1), within the time there specified or as extended under reg 2(2), as the case may be; or (2) the payment has been made to the person by or on behalf of whom the application was made or to a third party but the person or the third party, as the case may be, has failed to present for payment the instrument of payment within 12 months of its issue: see reg 3.

232 Application for a discretionary social fund payment

TEXT AND NOTES 1-5, 9-11--SI 1988/524, SI 1990/1788 replaced: Social Fund (Applications and Miscellaneous Provisions) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/2265 (amended by SI 2009/2655, SI 2009/3033).

TEXT AND NOTES 6, 7--Repealed: Social Security Act 1998 Sch 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/233. Budgeting loans.

233. Budgeting loans.

A social fund payment may be awarded to assist an applicant<sup>1</sup> to meet important intermittent expenses<sup>2</sup> for which it may be difficult to budget<sup>3</sup>. Minimum and maximum amounts are set out<sup>4</sup> and the applicant must be likely to be able to repay the amount awarded<sup>5</sup>. There is a capital limit on eligibility<sup>6</sup>.

1 To be eligible, the applicant must be in receipt of income support, have been so for each of the 26 weeks immediately preceding the date of determination of the application, and not be subject to a trade dispute disqualification (as to which see PARA 178 ante): see the Social Fund Directions, Direction 8. As to the making of such directions see PARA 228 ante.

2 See ibid Direction 12, which contains 16 types of expenditure for which a loan may not be made; these include education-related expenses, court or legal expenses, removal charges, domestic assistance, property repairs, work expenses, mains fuel costs, housing costs and council taxes. Also excluded is 'a medical, surgical, optical, aural or dental item or service'; in relation to this, an item is not a medical item only because the need for it arises from a medical condition: R v Social Fund Inspector, ex p Connick [1994] COD 75, DC (incontinence pads).

3 See the Social Fund Directions, Direction 2.

4 See ibid Direction 10.

5 See ibid Direction 11. Any award must include a determination that it is repayable: see Direction 5.

6 See ibid Direction 9. Where an applicant or partner is aged 60 or over and his or their total capital resources exceed £1,000, or the applicant and any partner is or are under 60 and his or their total capital resources exceed £500, a budgeting loan can only be awarded if, and to the extent that, the amount of the award is more than the excess: Direction 9.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/234. Crisis loans.

234. Crisis loans.

A social fund payment may be awarded to assist an applicant<sup>1</sup> to meet expenses<sup>2</sup>:

- 636 (1) in an emergency, or as a consequence of a disaster, provided that the provision of such assistance is the only means by which serious damage or serious risk to the health and safety of that person or to a member of his family may be prevented; or
- 637 (2) where the expenses are rent in advance payable to a landlord (who is not a local authority) and a community care grant<sup>3</sup> is also being made to help the person re-establish himself in the community<sup>4</sup>.

Maximum amounts are set out<sup>5</sup> and the applicant must be likely to be able to pay the amount awarded<sup>6</sup>.

1 To be eligible, an applicant must be aged 16 or over and without sufficient resources to meet the immediate short-term needs of himself or his family or both: see the Social Fund Directions, Direction 14. A crisis loan may not be awarded to: (1) a resident in a nursing or care home or a hospital in-patient (unless the person is to be discharged within two weeks); (2) a prisoner (including on temporary licence); (3) a person who is a member of and fully maintained by a religious order; or (4) a person not entitled to income support because in full-time relevant education: see Direction 15. Where the applicant is not entitled to income support because he is a student or a person from abroad, a crisis loan may only be made in order to alleviate the consequences of a disaster: see Direction 16. Where the applicant or his partner is or would be subject to the trade dispute disqualification, a crisis loan may only be made in respect of expenses which are a consequence of a disaster, or other expenses in relation to items required only for the purpose of cooking or space heating (including fireguards): see Direction 17. As to the trade dispute disqualification see PARA 178 ante.

2 A crisis loan is subject to most of the same exclusions as a budgetary loan (see PARA 233 note 2 ante). In addition, there are exclusions in respect of expenses for a telephone, mobility needs, holidays, television or radio and garaging, purchasing or running a car: see ibid Direction 23.

3 See PARA 235 post.

4 See the Social Fund Directions, Direction 3.

5 See ibid Directions 18-21.

6 See ibid Direction 22. Any award must include a determination that it is repayable: see Direction 5.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/235. Community care grants.

235. Community care grants.

A social fund payment may be awarded to promote community care:

638 (1) by assisting an applicant<sup>1</sup> with expenses<sup>2</sup> (including expenses of travel within the United Kingdom) where such assistance will:

100. (a) help the applicant, a member of his family or other person for whom he or they will be providing care to re-establish himself in the community following a stay in institutional or residential care<sup>3</sup>; or

101. (b) help such a person to remain in the community rather than enter institutional or residential care; or

102. (c) Ease exceptional pressures on the applicant and his family; or

103. (d) allow the applicant or his partner to care for a prisoner or young offender on release on temporary licence; or

639 (2) by assisting an applicant and one or more members of his family (or any of those persons) with travel including any reasonable charges for overnight accommodation within the United Kingdom in order to:

85

104. (a) visit someone who is ill; or

105. (b) attend a relative's funeral; or

106. (c) Ease a domestic crisis; or

107. (d) visit a child who is with the other parent pending a court decision; or

108. (e) move to suitable accommodation<sup>4</sup>.

A minimum amount for an award is set out<sup>5</sup>. A community care grant is not repayable<sup>6</sup>. There is a capital limit on eligibility<sup>7</sup>.

1 To be eligible, the applicant must be in receipt of income support (or, where about to be discharged from institutional or residential care within six weeks, be likely to receive income support upon discharge): see the Social Fund Directions, Direction 25. The purposes for which a grant may be made are significantly narrowed where the applicant or his partner is or would be affected by the trade dispute disqualification: see Direction 26. As to the trade dispute disqualification see PARA 178 ante.

2 A community care grant is subject to most of the same exclusions as a budgetary loan (see PARA 233 note 2 ante); in addition, there are exclusions in respect of expenses for a telephone, expenses to be met by a local authority, fuel costs, housing costs, council tax and other charges and any daily living expenses such as food and groceries (except where such expenses are incurred in caring for a prisoner or young offender on release on temporary licence, or where a crisis loan cannot be awarded for such expenses because the maximum for such a loan has already been reached): see ibid Direction 29.

3 The crucial factor here is the re-establishment in the community, which must be shown on the facts: R v Social Fund Inspector, ex p Ibrahim [1994] COD 260, DC. It is not enough that the person is moving between institutions: R v Social Fund Inspector and the Secretary of State for Social Security, ex p Healey, Stitt and Ellison [1992] COD 335, CA. A person cannot re-establish himself in the community if he has not previously been established in the community (because coming from abroad): R v Social Fund Inspector, ex p Waris Ali [1993] COD 263, DC.

4 See the Social Fund Directions, Direction 4.

- 5 See ibid Direction 28.
- 6 See ibid Direction 6.
- 7 See ibid Direction 27. Cf the terms applying to a budgetary loan: see PARA 233 note 6 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/8. THE SOCIAL FUND/236. Recovery of social fund loans.

236. Recovery of social fund loans.

A social fund award which is repayable<sup>1</sup> is recoverable by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>. Without prejudice to any other method of recovery, the Secretary of State may recover an award by deduction from prescribed benefits<sup>3</sup>. The Secretary of State may recover an award:

- 640 (1) from the person to or for the benefit of whom it was made;
- 641 (2) where that person is a member of a married or unmarried couple<sup>4</sup>, from the other member of the couple;
- 642 (3) from a person who is liable to maintain<sup>5</sup> the person by or on behalf of whom the application for the award was made or any person in relation to whose needs the award was made<sup>6</sup>.

1 Budgetary loans and crisis loans are repayable but community care grants are not: see PARAS 233-235 ante.

2 Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(1). Recovery can continue even after the bankruptcy of the claimant: Mulvey v Secretary of State for Social Security [1997] TLR 145, HL.

3 Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(2). The long list of benefits from which an award from the social fund may be recovered by deduction is set out in the Social Fund (Recovery by Deductions from Benefits) Regulations 1988, SI 1988/35, reg 3 (subject to frequent amendment). Where a jobseeker's allowance is payable to a person from whom an award is recoverable and that person is subject to a bankruptcy order, a sum deducted from that benefit is not treated as income of his for the purposes of the Insolvency Act 1986 (see generally BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(3A) (added by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 32(2)). As to jobseeker's allowance see PARA 258 et seq post.

4 For the purposes of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78 (as amended) 'married couple' means a man and woman who are married to each other and are members of the same household; and 'unmarried couple' means a man and woman who are not married to each other but are living together as husband and wife (see PARA 83 ante) otherwise than in circumstances prescribed under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 132 (as amended) (council tax benefit: see generally RATING AND COUNCIL TAX vol 39(1B) (Reissue) PARA 371 et seq): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(5).

5 For the purposes of ibid s 78 (as amended): (1) a man is liable to maintain his wife and any children of whom he is the father; (2) a woman is liable to maintain her husband and any children of whom she is the mother; (3) a person is liable to maintain another person throughout any period in respect of which the first-mentioned person has, on or after 23 May 1980 (the date of the passing of the Social Security Act 1980 (repealed)) and either alone or jointly with a further person, given an undertaking in writing in pursuance of immigration rules within the meaning of the Immigration Act 1971 to be responsible for the maintenance and accommodation of the other person: see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(6)(a)-(c). 'Child' includes a person who has attained the age of 16 but not the age of 19 and in respect of whom either parent, or some person acting in the place of either parent, is receiving income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance: s 78(6)(d) (amended by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 41(4), Sch 2 para 51). For these purposes, any reference to children of whom the man or the woman is the father or the mother is to be construed in accordance with the Family Law Reform Act 1987 s 1 (see CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS vol 5(3) (2008 Reissue) PARA 125): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 78(7). A document bearing a certificate which (a) is signed by a person authorised in that behalf by the Secretary of State and (b) states that the document apart from the certificate is, or is a copy of, such an undertaking as is mentioned in head (3) supra, is conclusive of the undertaking in question for these purposes; and a certificate purporting to be so signed is deemed to be so signed until the contrary is proved: s 78(9).

8A. HEALTH IN PREGNANCY GRANT

236A. Entitlement to health in pregnancy grant.

A woman who satisfies prescribed conditions in relation to a pregnancy of hers is entitled to payment of a lump sum (to be known as 'health in pregnancy grant'): Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140A(1) (s 140A added by the Health and Social Care Act 2008 s 131). A condition prescribed under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140A(1) may, in particular, require a woman to have reached a specified stage of her pregnancy: s 140A(2). The conditions so prescribed are that, she must, at the time of her claim: (1) be pregnant; (2) have reached the 25th week of her pregnancy; (3) have received advice from a health professional on matters relating to her maternal health; and (4) have a due date on or after 6 April 2009: Health in Pregnancy Grant (Entitlement and Amount) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/3108, reg 2.

A woman is not entitled to health in pregnancy grant unless (a) she has received advice on matters relating to maternal health from a health professional; and (b) she is in Great Britain at the time she makes a claim for the grant in accordance with the Social Security Administration Act 1992: Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140A(3). Circumstances may be prescribed in which a woman is to be treated as being, or as not being, in Great Britain: s 140A(4). As to the circumstances which have been prescribed, see SI 2008/3108 regs 4-7. For these purposes 'health professional' has such meaning as may be prescribed; 'prescribed' means prescribed by regulations; and 'woman' means a female of any age: Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140A(5). For the purposes of s 140A(5), 'health professional' means a person who provides maternity care to the woman and who is either a practicing midwife, who is registered with the Nursing and Midwifery Council; or an obstetrician or General Practitioner, who is registered with the General Medical Council: SI 2008/3108 reg 3.

The power to make regulations under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140A is exercisable by the Treasury: s 140A(6).

No person is entitled to health in pregnancy grant unless she claims it in the manner, and within the time, prescribed in relation to health in pregnancy grant by regulations under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 5 (see PARA 330): s 12A(1) (s 12A added by the Health and Social Care Act 2008 s 132(3)). As to the regulations which have been made see the Health in Pregnancy Grant (Administration) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/3109. No person is entitled to health in pregnancy grant unless the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 12A(3) or (4) is satisfied in relation to her: s 12A(2). Section 12A(3) is satisfied in relation to a person if her claim for health in pregnancy grant is accompanied by a statement of her national insurance number and information or evidence establishing that that number has been allocated to her, or information or evidence enabling the national insurance number that has been allocated to her to be ascertained: s 12A(3). Section 12A(4) is satisfied in relation to a person if she makes an application for a national insurance number to be allocated to her which is accompanied by information or evidence enabling a national insurance number to be allocated to her: s 12A(4). The Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs may by regulations make provision disapplying s 12A(2) in the case of prescribed descriptions of persons making a claim: s 12A(5). See SI 2008/3109 reg 5 which disapplies the Security Administration Act 1992 s 12A(2) where women are under the age of 16 at the time they make the claim.

As to offences in connection with fraudulently or negligently claiming health in pregnancy grant, see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 113C, Sch 3A; and PARA 404.

The Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs are responsible for the payment and management of health in pregnancy grant: Health and Social Care Act 2008 s 138(1).

Different amounts may be prescribed in relation to different cases: Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 140B(2). CHILD BENEFIT/(1) IN GENERAL/237. Nature of child benefit.

(1) IN GENERAL

237. Nature of child benefit.

Child benefit<sup>1</sup> is a weekly, flat rate<sup>2</sup>, non-means-tested benefit payable in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions<sup>3</sup> to a person responsible for one or more children<sup>4</sup>. The payment of child benefit is not treated as income for any purpose of the Income Tax Acts<sup>5</sup>. Every assignment of or charge on child benefit, and every agreement to assign or charge it is void; and, on the bankruptcy of a beneficiary, the benefit does not pass to any trustee or other person acting on behalf of his creditors<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to child benefit see PARA 238 et seq post.

2 As to the rate of child benefit see PARA 256 post. At the date at which this volume states the law there are, in addition to the basic flat rate, extra amounts if the child is an only or eldest child, or if the claimant is a lone parent: see PARA 256 post.

3 The relevant statutory provisions are the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt IX (ss 141-147) (as amended) and the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965 (as amended).

238. Entitlement.

A person who is responsible for one or more children<sup>1</sup> in any week<sup>2</sup> is entitled<sup>3</sup> to child benefit for that week in respect of the child or each of the children for whom he is responsible<sup>4</sup>. There are residence requirements relating to both the child and the claimant which are subject to modification by regulations<sup>5</sup>.

Subject to any provision made by regulations<sup>6</sup>, references<sup>7</sup> to any condition being satisfied or any facts existing in a week are to be construed as references to the condition being satisfied or the facts existing at the beginning of that week<sup>8</sup>.

Nothing in the statutory provisions relating to child benefit<sup>9</sup> is to be construed as conferring a right to child benefit on any body corporate<sup>10</sup>, but regulations may confer such a right on voluntary organisations<sup>11</sup> and for that purpose may make such modifications<sup>12</sup> as the Secretary of State thinks fit<sup>13</sup>.

Regulations may provide for adjusting child benefit payable in respect of any child in respect of whom any benefit is payable under the legislation of any member state other than the United Kingdom<sup>14</sup>.

Subject to the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 17 (as amended) a voluntary organisation is for the purposes of benefit regarded as a person with whom a child is living, and the only person with whom that child is living, for any week in which that child is: (1) living in premises which are provided or managed by the voluntary organisation, being premises which are required to be registered with a government department or local authority or which are otherwise regulated under or by virtue of any enactment relating to England and Wales or Scotland; or (2) boarded out by the voluntary organisation in the home of any person in accordance

As to the transfer of functions in relation to child benefit see the Tax Credits Act 2002 Pt 2 (ss 49-57); and PARA 257A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/9. CHILD BENEFIT/ (2) DEFINING THE CONDITIONS OF ENTITLEMENT/239. Meaning of 'child'.

(2) DEFINING THE CONDITIONS OF ENTITLEMENT

239. Meaning of 'child'.

For the purposes of child benefit<sup>1</sup>, a person is to be treated as a child for any week<sup>2</sup> in which:

- 643 (1) he is under the age of 16<sup>3</sup>; or
- 644 (2) he is under the age of 18, not receiving full-time education<sup>4</sup> and prescribed conditions<sup>5</sup> are satisfied in relation to him<sup>6</sup>; or
- 645 (3) he is under the age of 19 and receiving full-time education either by attendance at a recognised educational establishment<sup>7</sup> or, if the education is recognised by the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup>, elsewhere<sup>9</sup>.

In determining for the purposes of head (3) above whether a person is receiving full-time education, not being advanced education, no account is taken of a period (whether beginning before or after the person concerned attains the age of 16) of up to six months of any interruption to the extent to which it is accepted that the interruption is attributable to a cause which is reasonable in the particular circumstances of the case, and where the interruption or its continuance is attributable to the illness or disability of mind or body of the person concerned, the period of six months may be extended for such further period as is accepted as being reasonable in the particular circumstances of the case<sup>10</sup>.

A person who ceases to receive full-time education, not being advanced education may, if:

- 646 (a) he is under the age of 16 when he so ceases, from the date on which he attains that age; or
- 647 (b) he is 16 or over when he so ceases, from the date on which he so ceases,

For these purposes, education is treated as full-time education if it is received by a person attending a course of education at a recognised educational establishment and in the pursuit of that course, the time spent receiving instruction or tuition, undertaking supervised study, examination or practical work or taking part in any exercise, experiment or project for which provision is made in the curriculum of the course, exceeds 12 hours per week, so however that in calculating the time spent in pursuit of the course, no account is to be taken of time occupied by meal breaks or spent on unsupervised study, whether undertaken on or off the premises of the educational establishment: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 5 (substituted by SI 1987/357); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b); and see note 7 infra.

- 130 (3) the extension period which applies in the case of that person has not expired (reg 7D(1)(c) (as so added));

- 132 (5) the person who is responsible for him has made a written request to the Department for the payment of benefit during the extension period (reg 7D(1)(e) (as so added)).

Child benefit is not payable by virtue of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 142(1)(b) in respect of a child aged 16 or over for any week in which he is engaged in training under the youth training scheme; or he is entitled to income support or income-based jobseeker's allowance within the meaning of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 1(4): Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7D(3) (as so added; amended by SI 1996/1345); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

7 'Recognised educational establishment' means an establishment recognised by the Secretary of State as being, or as comparable to, a university, college or school: Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 147(1).

8 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1 ante.

9 Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 142(1)(c). The Secretary of State may recognise education provided otherwise than at a recognised educational establishment for a person who, in his opinion, could reasonably be expected to attend such an establishment only if he is satisfied that education was being so provided for that person immediately before he attained the age of 16: s 142(2). In spite of the apparent width of the wording, it may be that education at home does not come within s 142(1)(c), if the Secretary of State does not recognise it as education 'elsewhere', since the child cannot be said to 'attend' (for example) a correspondence course: Decision R(F)2/95. In determining for the purposes of head (3) in the text whether a person is receiving full-time education as mentioned in that head, no account is taken of such interruptions as may be prescribed: see the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 142(4). Regulations may provide that child benefit is not payable by virtue of s 142(1)(b) (see head (2) in the text) and regulations made under it; or of s 142(1)(c) (see head (3) in the text), in such cases as may be prescribed: see s 144(1). Schedule 9 has effect for excluding entitlement to child benefit in other cases: s 144(2); and see PARAS 244-249 post.

10 Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 6(1) (amended by SI 1977/534; and SI 1980/1045); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). These provisions do not apply to any period of interruption of a person's full-time education which is likely to be followed immediately or which is followed immediately by a period during which: (1) provision is made for the training of that person, and for an allowance to be payable to that person, under the youth training scheme; or (2) he is receiving education by virtue of his employment or of any office held by him: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 6(2) (added by SI 1980/1045; and amended by SI 1988/1227).

11 In the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7 (as amended) the 'terminal date' means: (1) the first Monday in January; or (2) the Monday following Easter Monday; or (3) the first Monday in September, whichever first occurs after the date on which the person's education ceased: reg 7(2) (reg 7 substituted by SI 1980/1054).

12 Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(1) (as substituted (see note 11 supra); and amended by SI 1982/470; SI 1987/357); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). In the case of a person specified in either head (a) or head (b) in the text who had not attained compulsory school age when he ceased to receive full-time education, the terminal date in his case is the date specified in the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(2) (reg 7 as substituted) which next follows the date on which he would have attained that age: reg 7(1A) (added by SI 1987/357). In the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7 (as amended) 'compulsory school age' means in England and Wales, the upper limit of compulsory school age: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(2A)(a) (reg 7(2A) added by SI 1987/357). Benefit is not payable to any person entitled to benefit in respect of a child by virtue of the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7 (as amended) for any week in which that child is engaged in remunerative work: reg 7(3) (added by SI 1982/470; and amended by SI 1988/1227).

Subject to the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(3) (as added and amended), and reg 7(6) (as added), a person whose name was entered as a candidate for any external examination in connection with full-time education not being advanced education, which he was receiving at that time, is so long as his name continued to be so entered before ceasing to receive such education to be treated as a child for any week in the period specified in reg 7(5) (as added): see reg 7(4) (added by SI 1987/357). Subject to the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(6) (as added), the period specified for the purposes of reg 7(4) (as added) is the period beginning with the date when that person ceased to receive such education and ending with: (1) whichever of the dates in reg 7(2)(a), (b), and (c) (as substituted) first occurs after the conclusion of the examination (or last of them, if there are more than one); or (2) the expiry of the week which includes the last Monday before his nineteenth birthday, whichever is the earlier: see reg 7(5) (added by SI 1987/357). The period specified in the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 7(5) (as added) is to begin, in the case of a person who has not attained the age of 16 when he so ceased, with the date on which he attained that age: see reg 7(6) (added by SI 1987/357).

Regulations may provide that a person who in any week ceases to fall within the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 142(1) is treated as continuing to do so for a prescribed period; but no person is by virtue of any such regulations to be treated as continuing to fall within s 142(1) for any week after that in which he attains the age of 19: s 142(5).

TEXT AND NOTES--Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 142 substituted as follows. For the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt 9 a person is a child if he has not attained the age of 16: s 142(1) (substituted by Child Benefit Act 2005 s 1(2)). In the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt 9 'qualifying young person' means a person, other than a child, who (1) has not attained such age (greater than 16) as is prescribed by regulations made by the Treasury, and (2) satisfies conditions so prescribed: s 142(2) (as so substituted).

NOTE 6--Now head (1)(c) in England and Wales, a person with whom the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the National Assembly for Wales, has made arrangements under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 10(1), or a local education authority to whom a direction has been given by the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales under s 10(2); and head (1)(d) in Scotland, a person with whom the Scottish ministers have made arrangements under s 10(1), or an education authority to whom a direction has been given by the Scottish ministers under s 10(2): SI 1976/965 reg 7D(1)(a); SI 2000/2891.

SI 1976/965 reg 7D(3) (amended by SI 2000/2891) also excludes a child entitled to incapacity benefit.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/9. CHILD BENEFIT/ (2) DEFINING THE CONDITIONS OF ENTITLEMENT/240. Person responsible for child.

240. Person responsible for child.

For the purposes of child benefit law<sup>1</sup> a person is treated as responsible for a child<sup>2</sup> in any week<sup>3</sup> if:

- 648 (1) he has the child living with him in that week<sup>4</sup>; or
- 649 (2) he is contributing to the cost of providing for the child at a weekly rate which is not less than the weekly rate of child benefit payable in respect of the child for that week<sup>5</sup>.

Where a person has had a child living with him at some time before a particular week he is treated as having the child living with him in that week notwithstanding their absence from one another unless, in the 16 weeks preceding that week, they were absent from one another for more than 56 days<sup>6</sup>. For this purpose, a day of absence is disregarded if it is due solely to the child's:

- 650 (a) receiving full-time education by attendance at a recognised educational establishment<sup>7</sup>;
- 651 (b) undergoing medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution<sup>8</sup>; or
- 652 (c) being, in such circumstances as may be prescribed<sup>9</sup>, in residential accommodation<sup>10</sup>.

The number of days that may be disregarded under head (b) or head (c) above in the case of any child must not exceed the prescribed number unless the person claiming to be responsible for the child regularly incurs expenditure in respect of the child<sup>11</sup>.

Where spouses are residing together<sup>12</sup> a contribution made or expenditure incurred by one of them in respect of a child is, if they so agree, or in default of such agreement if the Secretary of State in his discretion so determines, to be treated as made or incurred by the other<sup>13</sup>. Where two or more people are contributing to the cost of providing for the same child and the aggregate weekly amount of their contributions is, but the weekly amount of their individual contributions is not, of an amount not less than the weekly rate of child benefit<sup>14</sup>, the aggregate weekly amount of their contributions is treated as having been contributed by such one of them as they by agreement nominate in writing or, in default of agreement, by such one of them as the Secretary of State may, in his discretion determine<sup>15</sup>.

4    Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 143(1)(a). 'Living with' is not statutorily defined; it is to be given its ordinary and natural meaning and is not synonymous with 'residing together' nor 'presence under the same roof'; care and control is a factor but not a necessary test: Decision R(F)2/79 (child spending part of his school holidays living with each of his divorced parents is 'living with' each of them); however, the presence of a child at home for a few hours each weekend does not constitute 'living with' the parent 'in that week': Decision R(F)2/81. As to priority between persons entitled to child benefit see PARA 241 post.

9 The prescribed circumstances for the purposes of ibid s 143(3)(c) are any circumstances in which a child: (1) who has attained the age of 18 is in residential accommodation pursuant to arrangements made under the National Health Service Act 1977 Sch 8 para 2 (as amended); or (2) is in residential accommodation pursuant to arrangements made under the Children Act 1989 s 17(1) and is a child to whom s 17(10)(b) (impairment of health or development) applies because his health is likely to be significantly impaired, or further impaired, without the provision of services for him; or s 17(10)(c) (disability) applies: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 3 (amended by SI 1991/2105); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

11 See the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 143(4). The prescribed number of days under s 143(4) is 84 consecutive days: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 4(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). Two or more distinct relevant periods (ie periods to which Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 143(3)(b) or (c) applies) separated by one or more intervals each not exceeding 28 days, are treated as a continuous period equal in duration to the total of such distinct periods and ending on the last day of the latter or last of such periods: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 4(2), (3).

14 Ie the weekly rate of child benefit which would be payable in respect of that child had the aggregate weekly amount of their contributions been contributed by only one of them: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 2(1).

15 See ibid reg 2(1) (amended by SI 1976/1758). Where pursuant to nomination or determination under reg 2(1) (as amended) a person is awarded benefit in respect of a child, the nomination ceases to have effect in the week following that in which benefit was awarded to that person, and accordingly that person is himself required to satisfy the requirement in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 143(1)(b) (see the text to note 5 supra), namely, that he is contributing to the cost of providing for the child at a weekly rate which is not less than the weekly rate of benefit payable in respect of the child: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 2(2).

Where two or more persons would be entitled to child benefit<sup>1</sup> in respect of the same child<sup>2</sup> for the same week<sup>3</sup>, one of them only is entitled, and the question which of them is entitled is determined in accordance with the following statutory provisions<sup>4</sup>:

- 653 (1) as between a person claiming child benefit in respect of a child for any week and a person to whom child benefit in respect of that child for that week has already been awarded when the claim is made, the latter is entitled<sup>5</sup>, but this does not confer any priority where the week to which the claim relates is later than the third week following that in which the claim is made<sup>6</sup>;
- 654 (2) subject to head (1) above, a person entitled for any week by virtue of having the child living with him in that week<sup>7</sup> is entitled to child benefit over a person entitled by virtue of the fact that he is contributing to the cost of providing for the child<sup>8</sup> at the prescribed rate<sup>9</sup>;
- 655 (3) subject to heads (1) and (2) above, as between a husband and wife residing together the wife is entitled<sup>10</sup>;
- 656 (4) subject to heads (1) to (3) above, as between a person who is and one who is not a parent of the child the parent is entitled<sup>11</sup>, and as between two persons residing together who are parents of the child but not husband and wife, the mother is entitled<sup>12</sup>.

As between persons not falling within heads (1) to (4) above, such one of them is entitled as they may jointly elect or, in default of election, as the Secretary of State<sup>13</sup> may in his discretion determine<sup>14</sup>. Regulations may provide for exceptions from and modifications of the provisions of Sch 10 paras 1-5 (text and notes 5-14 supra) in relation to such cases as may be prescribed: Sch 10 para 6(2). Any such election may be superseded by another subsequent election made in accordance with reg 3: reg 13(3).

15 See ibid reg 14; Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). Where a person has claimed benefit in respect of a child in respect of whom he would be entitled to benefit but for the fact that under the provisions of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Sch 10 some other person is entitled to benefit in respect of that child in priority to him, if that other person gives the Secretary of State notice in writing at an office of the department that he does not wish to have priority of title to benefit in respect of that child the provisions of Sch 10 will, subject to the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 14(2), have effect with the modification that that other person does not have such priority: reg 14(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). Such a notice has effect unless and until the other person, subsequent to the giving of the notice, makes a further claim to benefit in respect of the child; but is not effective as respects any week in respect of which benefit in respect of the child is paid to the other person or to a person on his behalf: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 14(2).

242. Meaning of 'residing together'.

Where a person is married<sup>1</sup>, he and his spouse are treated for the purposes of child benefit law as residing together during any period of absence on which:

- 657 (1) they are separated under an order of a court of competent jurisdiction or deed of separation; or
- 658 (2) they have been absent the one from the other for at least 91 consecutive days, and for any part of that period of absence from one another from the date on which they are separated as specified in head (1) above or have already been absent from one another as specified in head (2) above, the spouses are treated as not residing together where such absence is likely to be permanent but as residing together where such absence is not likely to be permanent<sup>2</sup>. Spouses are treated as residing together during any period in which any absence the one from the other is by reason only of the fact that either of them is, or they both are, undergoing medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution whether such absence is temporary or not<sup>3</sup>. Where two persons are parents<sup>4</sup> of a child<sup>5</sup> but not husband and wife they are treated as residing together during any period of temporary absence the one from the other where they would be so treated but for such temporary absence<sup>6</sup>.

Regulations may prescribe the circumstances in which persons are or are not to be treated for the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt IX (ss 141-147) (as amended) as residing together: s 147(4). A decree nisi of divorce means that the parties are separated under a court order, even if they live under the same roof but in separate households: Decision R(F)1/81. In Grove v Insurance Officer, CA (reported as an appendix to Decision R(F)4/85) it was held that a couple could be held to reside together (on the basis of their absence not being permanent) even where they had never in fact lived together (prison visitor marrying prisoner still serving his imprisonment; held to be residing together).

For the purposes of child benefit<sup>1</sup>, a polygamous marriage<sup>2</sup> is treated as having the same consequences as a monogamous marriage<sup>3</sup> for any day, but only for any day, throughout which the polygamous marriage is in fact monogamous<sup>4</sup>.

1 See the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt IX (ss 141-147) (as amended) and any regulations under it: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 12(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). 2 'Polygamous marriage' means a marriage celebrated under a law which, as it applies to the particular ceremony and to the parties thereto, permits polygamy: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 12(2)(a).

3 'Monogamous marriage' means a marriage celebrated under a law which does not permit polygamy: ibid reg 12(2)(b).

4 See ibid reg 12(1); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). A polygamous marriage is referred to as being in fact monogamous when neither party to it has any spouse additional to the other (reg 12(2)(c)); and the day on which a polygamous marriage is contracted, or on which it terminates for any reason, is treated as a day throughout which that marriage was in fact monogamous if at all times on that day after it was contracted, or as the case may be, before it terminated, it was in fact monogamous (reg 12(2)(d)). Regulations may make provision as to the circumstances in which a marriage during the subsistence of which a party to it is at any time married to more than one person is to be treated for the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt IX (as amended) as having, or not having, the same consequences as any other marriage: s 147(5) (amended by the Private International Law (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1995 s 8(2), Schedule para 4(1), (3)).

237-257 Child Benefit

SI 1976/965 now replaced by Child Benefit (General) Regulations 2006/223 (amended by SI 2007/2150, SI 2008/1879, SI 2008/2683, SI 2009/3268).

As to the transfer of functions in relation to child benefit see the Tax Credits Act 2002 Pt 2 (ss 49-57); and PARA 257A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/9.
CHILD BENEFIT/ (3) EXCLUSIONS/244. General exclusions.

(3) EXCLUSIONS

244. General exclusions.

No person is entitled to child benefit<sup>1</sup> in respect of a child<sup>2</sup> for any week<sup>3</sup> if in that week the child is:

- 659 (1) undergoing imprisonment or detention in legal custody<sup>4</sup>;
- 660 (2) (in Scotland) subject to a supervision requirement<sup>5</sup> and is residing in a residential establishment<sup>6</sup>; or
- 661 (3) in the care of a local authority in such circumstances as may be prescribed<sup>7</sup>.

A person is not disentitled to benefit in respect of a child for any week by virtue of the fact that head (1), head (2) or head (3) above applies to that child unless that week is the ninth or a subsequent week in a series of consecutive weeks in which any of those heads have applied to that child<sup>8</sup> or notwithstanding that that week is the ninth or a subsequent week in a series of consecutive weeks in which any of those heads have applied to that child, if that week satisfies prescribed conditions<sup>9</sup> as to actual residence of the child with the person for certain numbers of consecutive days<sup>10</sup>.

1 He except where regulations otherwise provide: see the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 144(2), Sch 9 para 1. As to entitlement to child benefit see PARA 238 ante. As to priority between persons entitled to child benefit see PARA 241 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'child' see PARA 239 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'week' see PARA 238 note 2 ante. Contrary to the normal rule (see PARA 238 text to note 8 ante), references here to any condition being satisfied or any facts existing in a week are to be construed as references to the condition being satisfied or the facts existing throughout any day in that week: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(1) (as amended); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

4 Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Sch 9 para 1(a). For the purposes of Sch 9 para 1(a), a child is not regarded as undergoing imprisonment or detention in legal custody in any week unless in connection with a charge brought or intended to be brought against him in criminal proceedings at the conclusion of those proceedings or, in the case of default of payment of a sum adjudged to be paid on conviction, in respect of such default, a court imposes a penalty upon him: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(2); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). 'Court' means any court in the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(2)(a). 'Penalty' means, in the case of any court in Great Britain: (1) a sentence of imprisonment or detention in a young offender institution; (2) a sentence of detention under the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 s 53 (as amended) or the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1975 s 206 (as substituted and amended); or (3) an order for detention in a remand centre, a young offender institution or made under or by virtue of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1975 s 198 (repealed), ss 406, 413 (as substituted and amended), and in the case of any court not in Great Britain, any comparable sentence or order: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(2)(b) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1988, s 123(6), Sch 8 paras 1, 2, 3 (as amended)). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 15 note 4 ante.

The Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Sch 9 para 1(a) does not apply to a child in respect of any week in which that child is liable to be detained in a hospital or similar institution in Great Britain as a person suffering from mental disorder unless, subsequent to the imposition of a penalty: (a) he has undergone detention in a prison, a young offender institution or, if not in Great Britain, any comparable place; (b) he was removed to the hospital or similar institution while still liable to be detained as a result of that penalty and, in the case of a person who is liable to be detained in the hospital or similar institution by virtue of any provisions of the Mental Health Act 1983 or corresponding legislation for Scotland, a direction restricting his discharge has been given under either of those Acts and is still in force, and in the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(3) (as amended) 'hospital or similar institution' means a place (not being a prison, a young offender institution, a remand centre or, if not in Great Britain, any comparable place and not being at or in any such place) in which persons suffering from mental disorder are or may be received for care or treatment; 'mental disorder' is construed as including references to any mental disorder within the meaning of the Mental Health Act 1983 or corresponding legislation for Scotland; and a person who is liable to be detained by virtue of any provision of that Act or that legislation is treated as if a direction restricting his discharge had been given under those Acts if he is to be so treated for the purposes of either of them: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(3) (amended by the Criminal Justice Act 1988, s 123(6), Sch 8 paras 1, 2, 3 (as amended)); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

Where, as respects a child in relation to whom each of the conditions specified in heads (1), (b) supra is satisfied, a certificate given by or on behalf of the Home Secretary or the Secretary of State for Scotland shows the earliest date on which that child would have been expected to be discharged from detention pursuant to the said penalty if he had not been transferred to a hospital or similar institution, the statutory conditions are deemed not to be satisfied in relation to that child as from the day next following that date: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(4).

5     le under the Social Work (Scotland) Act 1968 s 44 (as amended).

6     le within the meaning of ibid s 44 (as amended): see the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Sch 9 para 1(b).

7     Ibid Sch 9 para 1(c). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 239 note 5 ante. This may refer to voluntary care as well as to care under a care order: McLavey v Secretary of State for Social Services [1996] TLR 288, CA. For the prescribed circumstances for these purposes see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(5) (amended by SI 1983/3; SI 1984/337; SI 1987/357; and SI 1991/2105).

8     See the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(6)(a); the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). The Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(6) (as amended) does not apply to a person in relation to a child for any week in which a child is boarded out by a local authority in the home of any person in accordance with the provisions of the relevant regulations: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(8) (amended by SI 1987/357). Living with other relatives under a care order may not be enough to constitute 'boarding out': see Decision CF/025/1994. The Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(6) (as amended) does not apply in respect of any child in the care of a local authority who has been placed for adoption in the home of a person proposing to adopt him, provided that a local authority is making a payment in respect of either the child's accommodation or maintenance or both, under the Children Act 1989 s 23 (as amended) or the Social Work (Scotland) Act 1968 s 21 (as amended): Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(9) (added by SI 1987/357; and amended by SI 1991/2105). For the purposes of the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(9) (as added and amended), placing for adoption means placing for adoption in accordance with the Adoption Agencies Regulations 1983, SI 1983/1964, or the corresponding regulations for Scotland: Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(10) (added by SI 1987/357).

9     The prescribed conditions are: (1) that week is one in which falls the first day in a period of seven consecutive days in which the child lives with that person for at least a part of the first day and throughout the following six days; or (2) that week is one in which falls the first day in a period of seven consecutive days throughout which the child lives with that person, being a period of seven consecutive days which immediately follows either a similar period of seven consecutive days or the period of seven consecutive days referred to in head (1) supra; or (3) that week is one in which falls the day, or the first day in a period of less than seven consecutive days, throughout which the child lives with that person, being a day or days which immediately follow the period of seven consecutive days referred to in head (1) supra or a period of seven consecutive days referred to in head (2) supra; (4) as at that week that person establishes that he is a person with whom the child, while heads (1), (2) and (3) in the text apply to him, ordinarily lives throughout at least one day in each week: see the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(6)(b) (amended by SI 1983/3); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

10    See the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 1976, SI 1976/965, reg 16(6)(b) (as amended: see note 9 supra). For the purposes of reg 16(6) (as amended), a person is not regarded as having a child living with him throughout any day or week unless he actually has that child living with him throughout that day or week (reg 16(7)); thus, where the child was at home but the parent was in a convalescent home, the child was not 'actually living with' the parent (Decision R(F)1/81).

(5) RATE OF BENEFIT

255. Prescribed rates.

Child benefit<sup>1</sup> is payable at such weekly rate as may be prescribed<sup>2</sup>. Different rates may be prescribed in relation to different cases, whether by reference to the age of the child<sup>3</sup> in respect of whom the benefit is payable or otherwise<sup>4</sup>. No rate prescribed in place of a rate previously in force may be lower than the rate that it replaces<sup>5</sup>. The Secretary of State must in each tax year review the sums specified<sup>6</sup> in order to determine whether they have retained their value in relation to the general level of prices obtaining in Great Britain estimated in such manner as the Secretary of State thinks fit<sup>7</sup>.

The scheme has traditionally set a flat rate for each child, with a higher rate for an only, elder or eldest child, and a further amount payable where the person responsible for the child or children was a lone parent<sup>8</sup>. However, as from 7 April 1997, there are substituted composite rates to cover these two long-standing increases<sup>9</sup>. There remains the standard flat rate<sup>10</sup>. Where the standard flat rate does not apply, the weekly rate of child benefit payable in respect of a child<sup>11</sup> is, subject to statutory provision<sup>12</sup>:

- 686 (1) in a case where in any week a child (not being a child to whom head (2) below applies) is the only child or, if not the only child, the elder or eldest child in respect of whom child benefit is payable to a person, the prescribed middle rate<sup>13</sup>;
- 687 (2) in a case where in any week that child is the only child or, if not the only child, the elder or eldest child of a lone parent<sup>14</sup> in respect of whom child benefit is payable to a person, the prescribed higher rate<sup>15</sup>.

An order under s 145(3) may be varied or revoked at any time before the date specified thereby: s 145(6). Any such order must be laid before Parliament after being made: s 145(7).

For these purposes, a person is a member of a polygamous marriage if during the subsistence of the marriage any party to it is married to more than one person; and the ceremony of marriage took place under the law of a country which permits polygamy: reg 2(6) (added by SI 1991/502). Child benefit is not payable at the rate specified in head (1) or head (2) in the text where the person to whom child benefit is payable is a voluntary organisation: see the Child Benefit and Social Security (Fixing and Adjustment of Rates) Regulations 1976, 1976/1267, reg 2(2ZB) (as added and amended). 14 For the purpose of ibid reg 2(1)(a)(ii) (as amended) 'lone parent' means a person who is living with a child and, in any week, that person (1) either has no spouse, or is not residing with his spouse; and (2) is not living with any other person as his spouse: reg 2(2) (substituted by SI 1996/1803). As to the general rules as to when a couple are considered to be living together as husband and wife see PARA 83 ante.

15 See the Child Benefit and Social Security (Fixing and Adjustment of Rates) Regulations 1976, 1976/1267, reg 2(1)(a)(ii) (as amended). ## 10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE

(1) IN GENERAL

(i) Replacement of Unemployment Benefit

258. The introduction of jobseeker's allowance.

Unemployment benefit was, together with sickness benefit, one of the original forms of social security, dating back to 1912<sup>1</sup>; its original basis of specific compulsory insurance was modernised in 1946 when it was incorporated into the general national insurance system<sup>2</sup>, but it retained its contributory nature. It was a non-means-tested benefit, payable at flat rates with certain dependants' increases, for a maximum period of one year. As an independent benefit, it had its own rules as to eligibility and such fundamental matters as the definition of unemployment, part-time working, terminal payments and disqualification. An unemployed claimant with responsibilities not covered by the amount of the benefit (in particular in relation to children and mortgage liabilities) could also claim income support to make the benefit up to the appropriate applicable amount. However, as part of the modern social security reforms<sup>3</sup>, the Jobseekers Act 1995 abolished unemployment benefit completely (subject to transitional provisions)<sup>4</sup> as from October 1996 and replaced it with jobseeker's allowance. The reform in fact goes further, since the new allowance also replaces income support for persons who are required to be available for work as a condition of entitlement<sup>5</sup>. This is achieved by creating two forms of the allowance: (1) contribution-based jobseeker's allowance (the equivalent of the former unemployment benefit, though restricted to the first six months of unemployment); and (2) income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>6</sup>.

The replacement of unemployment benefit with jobseeker's allowance has two important basic consequences. First, because the existing income support model is adopted for most purposes, so that most of the old unemployment benefit rules are not re-enacted<sup>7</sup>, and even the contribution-based allowance is more subject to rules (for example in relation to income, and hours which may lawfully be worked) which evolved in the means-tested context of income support, rather than in the national insurance context of unemployment benefit, the former case law on unemployment benefit is now largely obsolete. Second, the income-based allowance is so closely modelled on income support that its basic rules<sup>8</sup> are in effect identical<sup>9</sup>.

The principal innovations in the jobseeker's allowance scheme lie in the areas of the extended jobseeking requirements and the 'back to work' schemes<sup>10</sup>.

1 Unemployment benefit was introduced by the National Insurance Act 1911 (repealed): see PARA 1 ante.

2 See PARA 2 ante.

3 See PARAS 4-6 ante.

4 The Secretary of State was given power to make, by regulations, such transitional provision, consequential provision or savings as he considered necessary or expedient for the purposes of or in connection with the coming into force of any provision of the Jobseekers Act 1995 or the operation of any enactment repealed or amended by any such provision during any period when the repeal or amendment was not wholly in force: see s 40(1). Such regulations may in particular make provision: (1) for the termination or cancellation of awards of unemployment benefit or income support; (2) for a person whose award of unemployment benefit or income support has been terminated or cancelled under regulations made by virtue of head (1) supra to be treated as having been awarded a jobseeker's allowance (a 'transitional allowance') of such a kind, for such period, of such an amount and subject to such conditions, as may be determined in accordance with the regulations; (3) for a person's continuing entitlement to a transitional allowance to be determined by reference to such provision as may be made by the regulations; (4) for the termination of an award of a transitional allowance; (5) for the review of an award of a transitional allowance; (6) for a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance not to be payable for a prescribed period where a person is disqualified for receiving unemployment benefit; (7) that days which were days of unemployment for the purposes of entitlement to unemployment benefit, and such other days as may be prescribed, are to be treated as having been days during which a person was, or would have been, entitled to a jobseeker's allowance; (8) that days which were days of entitlement to unemployment benefit, and such other days as may be prescribed, are to be treated as having been days of entitlement to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance; (9) that the rate of a contribution-based transitional allowance is to be calculated by reference to the rate of unemployment benefit paid or payable: s 40(2). As to the exercise of this power see the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567 (as amended). There are further transitional provisions covering certain persons in receipt of income support on the change to income-based jobseeker's allowance in the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 87 (as amended).

5 Income support is now, therefore, a residual means-tested benefit for those not entitled to the income-based jobseeker's allowance because not required to be available for work; the categories of persons still entitled to income support are set out in the Income Support (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1967, Sch 1B (as added and amended): see PARA 177 ante.

6 See PARA 259 post.

7 Thus eg jobseeker's allowance rules no longer contain a basic definition of 'unemployment', concentrating instead on the (income support) concepts of 'remunerative work' and the deduction of any income earned. The principal area where the old unemployment benefit rules are carried over in substantially the same form is the area of disqualifications for the allowance (see PARA 301 et seq post); here, the existing case law will largely continue to be applicable.

8 Contained in the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207 (as amended).

9 Given that there are also rules on (in particular) income, capital, the treatment of families and the treatment of students in separate regulations for family credit and disability working allowance, again modelled largely on the income support rules, the amount of duplication of regulations in modern social security law (not to mention parallel provisions relating to housing benefit and council tax benefit) is remarkable.

10 See PARA 275 et seq, 310 et seq post.

(ii) Entitlement to Jobseeker's Allowance

259. The nature of jobseeker's allowance.

Jobseeker's allowance comprises:

- 692 (1) a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance, which is a flat rate<sup>1</sup>, contributory<sup>2</sup> benefit, payable for a maximum of 182 days in any one period<sup>3</sup>; and
- 693 (2) an income-based jobseeker's allowance, which is a means-tested<sup>4</sup> non-contributory benefit (based on income support)<sup>5</sup>, which may be payable at the end of entitlement to the contribution-based allowance, or to a person who does not satisfy the contribution-based conditions for that allowance, or in addition to that allowance where the claimant's needs exceed the amount of the flat rate payable in respect of that allowance<sup>6</sup>.

There are basic conditions of entitlement applicable to either<sup>7</sup>, and then further, specific conditions in the case of each<sup>8</sup>.

The allowance is payable in respect of a week<sup>9</sup>, through with formulae for determining any amount payable in respect of a part week<sup>10</sup>. As with the previous unemployment benefit, nothing is payable for the first three 'waiting days' of a claim<sup>11</sup>.

Every assignment of or charge on a jobseeker's allowance is void<sup>12</sup>.

1 There are three rates, depending on the claimant's age, and no increases for dependants or other responsibilities: see PARA 268 post.

2 The contribution-based conditions are set out in PARA 266 post.

3 For the duration of the allowance see PARA 267 post.

4 As to the calculation of the applicable amount in a particular claimant's case see PARA 272 post.

5 See PARA 258 ante.

6 Jobseeker's allowance is payable in accordance with the provisions of the Jobseekers Act 1995: s 1(1).

7 See ibid s 1(2)(a)-(c), (e)-(i); and PARA 260 post.

8 See ibid ss 1(2)(d), 2, 3; and PARAS 266, 271 post.

9 Ibid s 1(3).

10 Regulations may make provision in relation to entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance, or the amount payable by way of such an allowance, in respect of any period of less than a week: see ibid s 21, Sch 1 para 5; and the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, regs 150-155 (amended by SI 1996/1516).

11 Except in prescribed circumstances, a person is not entitled to a jobseeker's allowance in respect of a prescribed number of days at the beginning of a jobseeking period: see the Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 4; and PARA 261 post.

12 See the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 187(1)(aa) (added by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 41(4), Sch 2 para 72).

TEXT AND NOTES 1-9--Authority for text is ibid s 1(2) (amended by Welfare Reform Act 2007 Sch 3 para 12(2)).

Subject to the provisions of the 1995 Act, a claimant who is not a member of a joint-claim couple is entitled to a jobseeker's allowance if he satisfies (1) the conditions set out in s 1(2)(a)-(c), (e)-(i); and (2) the conditions set out in s 3 (as amended by 2007 Act Sch 3 para 12(3)): 1995 Act s 1(2A) (s 1(2A)-(2D) added by the Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 paras 1, 2(1), (3)). Subject to the provisions of the 1995 Act, a joint-claim couple are entitled to a jobseeker's allowance if (a) a claim for the allowance is made jointly by the couple; (b) each member of the couple satisfies the conditions set out in s 1(2)(a)-(c), (e)-(i); and (c) the conditions set out in s 3A (see PARA 260A) are satisfied in relation to the couple: s 1(2B). Regulations may prescribe circumstances in which s 1(2A) is to apply to a claimant who is a member of a joint-claim couple: s 1(2C). Regulations may, in respect of cases where a person would (but for the regulations) be a member of two or more joint-claim couples, make provision for only one of those couples to be a joint-claim couple; and the provision which may be so made includes provision for the couple which is to be the joint-claim couple to be nominated (i) by the persons who are the members of the couples; or (ii) in default of one of the couples being so nominated, by the Secretary of State: s 1(2D).

'A joint-claim couple' means a couple who are not members of any family whose members include a person in respect of whom a member of the couple is entitled to child benefit, and who are of a prescribed description: ss 1(4), 35(1) (amended by the 1999 Act Sch 7 paras 1, 2(1), (4)(b), 15(1), (3); and the Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 24 para 118). For the purposes of the 1995 Act s 1(4), a joint-claim couple includes any joint-claim couple within the meaning given in s 1(4) where at least one member is aged 18 or over and was born after 28 October 1947, unless a member of the couple is treated as responsible for a child or young person under the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 77(3), or the couple has care of a child or young person in one or more of the circumstances mentioned in reg 78(4), or a child or young person is living with either member of the couple in the circumstances mentioned in reg 78(8): reg 3A(1) (reg 3A added by SI 2000/1978, reg 3A(1) amended by SI 2001/518, SI 2002/1701, SI 2008/13). For the purposes of the 1995 Act, two people of the same sex are to be regarded as living together as if they were civil partners if, but only if, they would be regarded as living together as husband and wife were they instead two people of the opposite sex: s 35(1A) (added by the 2004 Act Sch 24 para 124(5)). See further MATRIMONIAL AND CIVIL PARTNERSHIP LAW.

For the meaning of 'joint-claim jobseeker's allowance' see PARA 260A.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(1) IN GENERAL/(ii) Entitlement to Jobseeker's Allowance/261. Waiting days, the jobseeking period and the linking rule.

261. Waiting days, the jobseeking period and the linking rule.

A person is not entitled to a jobseeker's allowance in respect of the three days at the beginning of a jobseeking period<sup>1</sup>; and a jobseeking period is any period throughout which the claimant<sup>2</sup> satisfies, or is treated as satisfying, the basic conditions<sup>3</sup> for a jobseeker's allowance<sup>4</sup>.

In order to prevent the three waiting days applying repeatedly where there are separate but closely linked periods of unemployment, there is a 'linking rule' which is that two or more jobseeking periods are to be treated as one where they are separated by a period comprising only:

- 710 (1) any period of not more than 12 weeks;
- 711 (2) a linked period<sup>5</sup>;
- 712 (3) any period of not more than 12 weeks falling between any two linked periods or a jobseeking period and a linked period;
- 713 (4) a period in respect of which the claimant is summoned for jury service and is required to attend court<sup>6</sup>.

1 Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 4; Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 46(2). This does not apply where (1) the person's entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance commences within 12 weeks of an entitlement of his to income support, incapacity benefit or invalid care allowance coming to an end; or (2) the claim falls within the severe hardship provisions relating to young persons (ie the person falls within the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 3(1)(f)(ii): see PARA 271 post); Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 46(1). For the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(4)(b)(i) (see PARA 266 post) and for determining any waiting days, (a) where a linked period (see note 5 infra) commenced before 7 October 1996 and is still current on 1 December 1997, any days of unemployment which form part of a period of interruption of employment where the last day of unemployment in that period of interruption of employment was no more than eight weeks before the date upon which that linked period commenced; (b) where a jobseeking period or a linked period commenced on 7 October 1996, any period of interruption of employment ending within the eight weeks preceding that date; or (c) where a jobseeking period or a linked period commences after 7 October 1996, any period of interruption of employment ending within the 12 weeks preceding the day the jobseeking period or linked period commenced, is treated as a jobseeking period; and for the purposes of head (a) supra, a day is treated as being, or not being, a day of unemployment in accordance with the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 25A (repealed) and with any regulations made under that section as in force on 6 October 1996: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 47A (added by SI 1996/2538; amended by SI 1997/2677).

2 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

3 Ie the conditions set out in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 1(2)(a)-(c), (e)-(i): see PARA 260 ante.

4 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 47(1). For these purposes, a claimant who does not satisfy any of the requirements of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 1(2)(a)-(c) but to whom a jobseeker's allowance is payable on the grounds of hardship (see PARAS 318-321 post) is deemed to satisfy those requirements for the period in question (see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 47(2)); as is a person entitled to a transitional allowance (see reg 47(2A) (added by SI 1996/2538)). Where a claimant over 60 but under pensionable age is refused jobseeker's allowance because he has exhausted his entitlement to the contribution-based allowance, or he does not satisfy the contribution-based conditions, or he is entitled to a contribution-based allowance but the amount is reduced to nil because of deductions for pension payments, that claimant is still to be treated as satisfying the requirements of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s1(2)(a)-(c), (e)-(i) for the purposes of determining the jobseeking period: see reg 49(1), (2) (reg 49(2) substituted by SI 1996/1517). Where, however, a person is employed as an employed earner or a self-employed earner for a period of more than 12 weeks, then no day which falls within or follows that period is a day on which the person is treated as satisfying those conditions; but this does not prevent him from being treated as satisfying them if he makes a claim for a jobseeker's allowance after that period: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996,

SI 1996/207, reg 49(3) (amended by SI 1996/1517). Nor is any day which is, for the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 30C (as added) (see PARA 63 ante), a day of incapacity for work falling within a period of incapacity for work a day on which the person is treated as satisfying those conditions: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 49(4). For the meaning of 'employed earner' and 'self-employed earner' see PARA 32 ante.

The following are not part of a jobseeking period: (1) any period in respect of which no claim has been made; (2) any period before a claim is made (including a case where there is backdating for good cause); (3) any period in respect of which backdating of the claim is not permitted; (4) any period during which a claimant is disentitled under reg 25 (entitlement ceasing on a failure to comply: see PARAS 291, 293 post); (5) any week in which the claimant is disentitled under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14 (trade disputes: see PARAS 301-302 post): Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 47(3).

5 Regulations may provide for jobseeking periods which are separated by not more than a prescribed number of weeks to be treated as one jobseeking period and for prescribed periods ('linked periods') to be linked to any jobseeking period: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 21, Sch 1 para 3. 'Linked periods' are any of the following: (1) any period throughout which the claimant is entitled to invalid care allowance (to the extent that such linking enables him to satisfy contribution-based conditions for entitlement to a contribution-based allowance which he would otherwise be unable to satisfy); (2) any period throughout which he is incapable of work, or treated as such, under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt XIA (ss 171A-171G) (as added) (see PARA 65 et seq ante); (3) any period throughout which she was entitled to maternity allowance (as to which see PARAS 76-79 ante); (4) any period throughout which he was engaged in training for which a training allowance is payable; (5) a period which includes 6 October 1996 during which the claimant attends court in response to a summons for jury service and which was immediately preceded by a period of entitlement to unemployment benefit: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 48(2), (3) (amended by SI 1996/2538; SI 1997/454). A period is a linked period for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(4)(b)(ii) (contribution-based conditions: see PARA 266 post) only where it ends within 12 weeks or less of the commencement of a jobseeking period or of some other linked period: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 48(2A) (added by SI 1996/2538).

of the New Deal (see PARA 304); or (b) in the Voluntary Sector Option of the New Deal (see PARA 304), in the Environment Task Force Option of the New Deal (see PARA 304), in the Intensive Activity Period specified in SI 1996/207 reg 75(1)(a)(iv) and was not entitled to a jobseeker's allowance because, as a consequence of his participation, the claimant was engaged in remunerative work or failed to satisfy the condition specified in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(1)(c) or 3(1)(a); (8) any period throughout which the claimant was participating in an employment zone programme and was not entitled to a jobseeker's allowance because, as a consequence of his participation in that programme, he was engaged in remunerative work or failed to satisfy the condition specified in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(1)(c) or in s 3(1)(a): SI 1996/207 reg 48(2)(bb), (f), (g) (reg 42(2)(bb) added by SI 2008/1554; SI 1996/207 reg 48(2)(f) added by SI 1997/2863; and amended by SI 2001/1029, SI 2008/698; SI 1996/207 reg 48(2)(g) added by SI 2000/724).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(1) IN GENERAL/(iii) Defining the Conditions of Entitlement/262. Remunerative work.

(iii) Defining the Conditions of Entitlement

262. Remunerative work.

For the purposes of jobseeker's allowance, 'remunerative work' has such meaning as may be prescribed<sup>1</sup> and regulations<sup>2</sup> may prescribe circumstances in which a person who is not engaged in remunerative work is to be treated as engaged in remunerative work or a person who is engaged in such work is to be treated as not so engaged<sup>3</sup>. For those purposes, 'remunerative work' means:

- 714 (1) in the case of the claimant<sup>4</sup>, work in which he is engaged or, where his hours fluctuate, is engaged on average, for not less than 16 hours per week<sup>5</sup>;
- 715 (2) in the case of any partner<sup>6</sup> of the claimant, work in which he is engaged or, where his hours of work fluctuate, is engaged on average, for not less than 24 hours per week<sup>7</sup>;
- 716 (3) in the case of a non-dependant<sup>8</sup>, or a child or young person (who, though not receiving full time education, is treated as receiving relevant education<sup>9</sup> and who is engaged in remunerative work), work in which he is engaged, or, where his hours of work fluctuate, is engaged on average, for not less than 16 hours per week<sup>10</sup>; and 'work' is work for which payment is made or which is done in expectation of payment<sup>11</sup>.

Special provisions deem certain persons to be engaged in remunerative work<sup>12</sup>, and others not to be so engaged<sup>13</sup>.

1 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 21, Sch 1 para 1(1). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 260 note 13 ante.

3 Ibid Sch 1 para 1(2). As to the exercise of this power see notes 12-13 infra.

4 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

5 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(1)(a). For the purposes of reg 5(1), the number of hours in which the claimant or his partner is engaged in work is to be determined (1) where no recognisable cycle has been established in respect of a person's work, by reference to the number of hours or, where those hours are likely to fluctuate, the average of the hours, which he is expected to work in a week; (2) where the number of hours for which he is engaged fluctuate, by reference to the average of hours worked over (a) if there is a recognisable cycle of work, and head (3) infra does not apply, the period of one complete cycle (including, where the cycle involves periods in which the person does not work, those periods but disregarding any other absences); (b) in any other case, the period of five weeks immediately before the date of claim or the date of review, or such other length of time as may, in the particular case, enable the person's average hours of work to be determined more accurately; (3) where the person works at a school or other educational establishment or at some other place of employment and the cycle of work consists of one year but with school holidays or similar vacations during which he does no work, by disregarding those periods and any other periods in which he is not required to work: reg 51(2). A person who had transitional protection under the Income Support (General) Amendment No 4 Regulations 1991, SI 1991/1559, reg 22 (revoked) when that statutory instrument reduced the hours in the definition of remunerative work from 24 to 16 per week continues to have such protection under this scheme: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(4), (5).

6 'Partner' means, where the claimant (1) is a member of a married or unmarried couple, the other member of that couple; (2) is married polygamously to two or more members of his household, any such member; and

'polygamous marriage' means any marriage during the subsistence of which a party to it is married to more than one person and the ceremony of marriage took place under the law of a country which permits polygamy: ibid reg 1(3). 'Married couple' means a man and woman who are married to each other and are members of the same household; and 'unmarried couple' means a man and woman who are not married to each other but are living together as husband and wife otherwise than in prescribed circumstances: see the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 35(1).

7 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(1)(b) (amended by SI 1996/1516). As to averaging the hours of work for income support purposes see Decision R(IS)8/95.

8 'Non-dependant' means any person, except a person to whom heads (1), (2) or (3) infra applies, who normally resides with the claimant or with whom the claimant normally resides, ie any such person except:

- 136 (1) any member of the claimant's family, or (a) a child or young person who is living with the claimant but who is not a member of his household by virtue of the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 78 (as amended) (circumstances in which a person is to be treated as being or not being a member of the household); or (b) a person who lives with the claimant in order to care for him or for the claimant's partner and who is engaged for that purpose by a charitable or voluntary organisation (other than a public or local authority) which makes a charge to the claimant or the claimant's partner for the care provided by that person; or (c) the partner of a person to whom head (b) supra applies;
- 137 (2) a person, other than a close relative of the claimant or the claimant's partner, (a) who is liable to make payments on a commercial basis to the claimant or the claimant's partner in respect of his occupation of the claimant's dwelling; (b) to whom the claimant or the claimant's partner is liable to make payments on a commercial basis in respect of his occupation of that person's dwelling; (c) who is a member of the household of a person to whom head (a) or head (b) supra applies;
- 138 (3) subject as follows, (a) a person who jointly occupies the claimant's dwelling and who is either a co-owner of that dwelling with the claimant or the claimant's partner (whether or not there are other co-owners) or jointly liable with the claimant or the claimant's partner to make payments to a landlord in respect of his occupation of that dwelling; or (b) a partner of a person to whom head (a) supra applies, but where a person is a close relative of the claimant or the claimant's partner, head (3) supra applies to him only if the claimant's, or the claimant's partner's, co-ownership, or joint liability to make payments to a landlord in respect of his occupation, of the dwelling arose either before 11 April 1988, or, if later, on or before the date upon which the claimant or the claimant's partner first occupied the dwelling in question: see reg 2(1)-(5). For these purposes, a person resides with another only if they share any accommodation except a bathroom, a lavatory or a communal area but not if each person is separately liable to make payments in respect of his occupation of the dwelling to the landlord; and 'communal area' means any area (other than rooms) of common access (including halls and passageways) and rooms of common use in sheltered accommodation: reg 2(6), (7). Cf the Income Support (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1967, reg 3 (as amended); and PARA 185 note 10 ante.

9 As to relevant education see PARA 264 post.

10 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(1)(c) (added by SI 1996/1516).

11 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(1) (amended by SI 1997/454). As to the meaning of 'done in expectation of payment' see PARA 179 note 4 ante. In determining the number of hours, there is to be included time allowed by the employer for a meal or refreshments (where the person is, or expects to be, paid earnings in respect of that time), but no account is to be taken of hours spent in disregarded activities (as to which see note 13 infra), or of hours in which the person is engaged (otherwise than in an employment as an earner) in caring for another person (who is in receipt of or has applied for certain disability-based benefits): see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 51(3) (amended by SI 1996/1516).

Participation in a local exchange trading system is regarded as work for the purposes of jobseeker's allowance and income support and the credits received are taken into account as actual income: see 299 HC Official Report (6th series), 30 July 1997, written answers col 370.

12 These are: (1) a person absent from work where the absence is either without good cause or by reason of a recognised, customary or other holiday (persons on maternity leave or absent through illness not coming within this) (see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 52(1)); (2) the partner of a claimant, where that partner is or was involved in a trade dispute and would not have been eligible for an income-based allowance because of that (this provision applying for seven days from the commencement of the stoppage of work or withdrawal of labour) (see reg 52(2)); (3) a person who was engaged in remunerative work and received a compensation payment or holiday pay (such person being deemed to be still in remunerative work for the period for which those payments are taken into account under the income rules) (see reg 52(3) (amended by SI 1996/1516)).

13 A person is to be treated as not engaged in remunerative work in so far as (1) he is engaged by a charity or voluntary organisation, or is a volunteer and has earnings which are disregarded; (2) he is engaged on a scheme for which a training allowance is being paid; (3) he is in employment and lives in a residential care home, nursing home or residential accommodation, and either he or his partner comes within the residential homes etc provisions relating to applicable amounts or allowances; (4) he is engaged in employment as a part-time member of the fire brigade, an auxiliary coastguard, a part-time lifeboat person or a member of any territorial or reserve forces; (5) he is performing duties as a councillor (within the meaning of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 171F(2) (as added) (see PARA 72 note 2 ante); (6) he is engaged in caring for a person who is accommodated with him, and is in receipt of certain payments; (7) he is the partner of the claimant, involved in a trade dispute, not covered by note 12 head (2) supra, and would have been subject to the trade dispute provisions had he claimed an allowance; (8) he is mentally or physically disabled, and by reason of that his earnings or hours of work are 75% or less of what a person without that disability would expect to earn for work in that employment or in comparable employment in that area: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 53 (amended by SI 1996/1516).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(1) IN GENERAL/(iii) Defining the Conditions of Entitlement/263. Capacity for work.

263. Capacity for work.

One of the conditions for eligibility for jobseeker's allowance is that the claimant must not be incapable of work<sup>1</sup>. The question whether a person is capable or incapable of work is to be determined in accordance with the generally applicable rules contained in Part XIIA of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992<sup>2</sup>.

Certain short periods of sickness can be overlooked; thus a person who would normally qualify for an allowance<sup>3</sup> and who proves to the satisfaction of the adjudication officer<sup>4</sup> that he is unable to work on account of specific disease or disablement is to be treated as still capable of work for a period of not more than two weeks, except where he states in writing that for the period of the disease or disablement he proposes to claim or has claimed incapacity benefit, severe disablement allowance or income support<sup>5</sup>.

1 See the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 1(2) (f); and PARA 260 ante.

2 See ibid s 21, Sch 1 para 2(1). References in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 PXIIA (ss 171A-171G) (as added) (see PARA 65 et seq ante) must be construed, where those provisions have effect for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 by virtue of Sch 1 para 2(1), as references to the purposes of the 1995 Act; and the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 171B (as added) (incapacity for work: the own occupation test: see PARA 67 ante) has effect, as so applied, as if for the references in s 171B(3), (4)(a) (as added) to any purpose of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 there were substituted references to any purpose of the Jobseekers Act 1995: Sch 1 para 2(2), (3).

3 For this purpose, the person need not (of necessity) continue to satisfy ibid s 1(2)(a), (c) or (f) (available for and actively seeking employment, and capable of work: see PARA 260 ante) and can be under a disqualification under s 19(5) or (6) (see PARAS 304-305 post): see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 55(1) (amended by SI 1996/1517).

4 The evidence required for this purpose is a declaration made by the claimant in writing, in a form approved by the Secretary of State, that he has been unfit for work from a date or for a period specified in the declaration: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 55(2). 'Adjudication officer' means an adjudication officer appointed under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 38 (see PARA 359 post): Jobseekers Act 1995 s 35(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1 ante.

5 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 55(1) (as amended: see note 3 supra). This may not apply to a claimant on more than two occasions in any one jobseeking period (see PARA 261 ante) or, where such a period exceeds 12 months, in each successive 12 months within that period; and for the purposes of calculating any period of 12 months, the first 12 months in the jobseeking period commences on the first day of the jobseeking period: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 55(3). It also does not apply to any person where the first day in respect of which he is unable to work falls within eight weeks of (1) an entitlement of his to incapacity benefit (see PARA 59 et seq ante), severe disablement benefit (see PARA 92 et seq ante) or statutory sick pay (see EMPLOYMENT vol 39 (2009) PARA 498 et seq); or (2) an entitlement to income support which included a disability premium: reg 55(4). Regulations may make provision for calculating periods for any purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995: s 21, Sch 1 para 15.

UPDATE

258-329 Jobseeker's Allowance

For the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. ## (2) CONTRIBUTION-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE

266. The contribution-based conditions.

In order to qualify for a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup>, the claimant<sup>2</sup> must satisfy the general conditions of entitlement<sup>3</sup> and also the specific conditions that he:

- 729 (1) has actually paid Class 1 contributions<sup>4</sup> in respect of one ('the base year') of the last two complete years before the beginning of the relevant benefit year<sup>5</sup>, and satisfies certain additional conditions<sup>6</sup>;
- 730 (2) has, in respect of the last two complete years before the beginning of the relevant benefit year, either paid Class 1 contributions or been credited with earnings and satisfies an additional condition relating to certain earnings factor requirements<sup>7</sup>;
- 731 (3) does not have earnings in excess of the prescribed amount<sup>8</sup>; and
- 732 (4) is not entitled<sup>9</sup> to income support<sup>10</sup>.

1 'A contribution-based jobseeker's allowance' means a jobseeker's allowance entitlement to which is based on the claimant's satisfying conditions which include those set out in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2 (see heads (1)-(4) in the text): ss 1(4), 35(1).

2 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

3 See PARA 260 ante.

4 As to Class 1 contributions see PARA 34 et seq ante.

5 For these purposes, 'the relevant benefit year' is the benefit year which includes (1) the beginning of the jobseeking period which includes the week for which a jobseeker's allowance is claimed; or (2) (if earlier), the beginning of any linked period: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(4)(b). A period is a linked period for this purpose only where it ends within 12 weeks or less of the commencement of a jobseeking period or of some other linked period: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 48(2A) (added by SI 1996/2538); and PARA 261 ante. For the meaning of 'jobseeking period' and 'linked period' generally see PARA 261 ante. 'Benefit year' means a period which is a benefit year for the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt II (ss 20-62) (as amended) (see PARA 55 note 7 ante) or such other period as may be prescribed for these purposes: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(4)(a). 'Year', except in the expression benefit year, means a tax year (ie the 12 months beginning with 6 April in any year): s 35(1). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

6 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(1)(a). The additional conditions are that (1) the contributions have been paid before the week for which the jobseeker's allowance is claimed; and (2) the earnings factor derived from earnings upon which primary Class 1 contributions have been paid or treated as paid is not less than the base year's lower earnings limit multiplied by 25: s 2(2). As to primary Class 1 contributions see PARA 36 ante; for the meaning of 'earnings factor' see PARA 56 ante; for the meaning of 'earnings' see PARA 33 ante; and for the meaning of 'lower earnings limit' see PARA 34 ante (definitions applied by s 2(4)(c)).

7 See ibid s 2(1)(b). The additional condition is that the earnings factor derived from earnings upon which primary Class 1 contributions have been paid or treated as paid or from earnings credited is not less, in each of the two complete years, than the lower earnings limit for the year multiplied by 50: s 2(3).

8 Ibid s 2(1)(c). As to calculation of the prescribed amount see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 56(1). Only the claimant's earnings are to be taken into account in the calculation: see reg 56(2).

9 For the meaning of 'entitled' see PARA 21 note 9 ante.

10 Jobseekers Act 1995 reg 2(1)(d). As to entitlement to income support see PARA 176 et seq ante.

NOTE 10--Ibid s 2(1) amended: Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(2) CONTRIBUTION-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/267. Duration of contribution-based jobseeker's allowance.

267. Duration of contribution-based jobseeker's allowance.

The period for which a person is entitled<sup>1</sup> to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>2</sup> may not exceed, in the aggregate, 182 days in any period for which his entitlement is established by reference<sup>3</sup> to the same two years<sup>4</sup>.

The fact that a person's entitlement to such an allowance ('his previous entitlement') has ceased through exhaustion of this maximum entitlement does not prevent his being entitled to a further such allowance if (1) he satisfies the contribution-based conditions<sup>5</sup>; and (2) the two years by reference to which he satisfies those conditions include at least one year which is later than the second of the two years by reference to which his previous entitlement was established<sup>6</sup>.

Regulations<sup>7</sup> may provide that a person who would be entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance but for the operation of prescribed provisions<sup>8</sup> is to be treated as if entitled to the allowance for these purposes<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'entitled' see PARA 21 note 9 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'contribution-based jobseeker's allowance' see PARA 266 note 1 ante.

3 I.e. under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(1)(b): see PARA 266 ante.

4 Ibid s 5(1). In determining this maximum duration, any day (1) which falls within a jobseeking period (see PARA 261 ante); and either (2) on which the claimant satisfies the conditions of entitlement (other than those in s 2(1)(c), (d)) (see PARA 266 ante) and on which a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance is not payable to the claimant by virtue of s 19 (disqualification: see PARAS 304-306 post); or (3) which falls within a period which is treated as a period in which the claimant satisfies the conditions specified in s 1(2)(a)-(c) (see PARA 260 ante), in accordance with the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 47(2) (see PARA 261 note 4 ante), is to be treated as if it were a day in respect of which the claimant was entitled to a contribution-based allowance: reg 47(4) (amended by SI 1996/1517). The principal importance of this is that if a claimant suffers a disqualification for a certain number of weeks, his eventual entitlement is shortened by that number of weeks.

5 'Contribution-based conditions' means the conditions set out in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2 (see PARA 266 ante): s 35(1).

6 Ibid s 5(2).

7 For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 260 note 13 ante.

8 I.e. provisions of, or made under, the Jobseekers Act 1995: s 5(3). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

9 Ibid s 5(3). As to the exercise of this power see note 4 supra.

268. The amount of a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance.

In the case of a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup>, the amount payable (referred to as the claimant's<sup>2</sup> 'personal rate') is calculated by:

- 733 (1) determining the age-related amount applicable to him<sup>3</sup>; and
- 734 (2) making prescribed deductions<sup>4</sup> in respect of earnings<sup>5</sup> and pension payments<sup>6</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'contribution-based jobseeker's allowance' see PARA 266 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

3 The age-related amount applicable to a claimant for these purposes must be determined in accordance with regulations: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4(2). The age-related amounts are a (flat rate) lower amount in the case of a person under 18, a middle amount in the case of a person who has attained the age of 18 but not the age of 25, and a higher rate in the case of a person of 25 or over: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 79 (subject to frequent amendment).

4 As to the prescribed deductions see PARA 269 post. For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

5 If the earnings exceed a prescribed amount, there is no entitlement to the allowance: see the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 2(1)(c); and PARA 266 ante. Subject to any regulations made for these purposes, in the Jobseekers Act 1995 generally, 'earnings' is to be construed in accordance with the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 3 (see PARA 33 ante) and the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 21, Sch 1 para 6 (as amended): s 35(3). 1    le under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4(1)(b): see PARA 268 ante.

2    For the meaning of 'earnings' see PARA 268 note 5 ante.

3    For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

4    See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 80(1) (amended by SI 1997/454). For these purposes, only the claimant's earnings are to be taken into account: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 80(2). The claimant's earnings are to be calculated under Pt VIII (regs 88-139) (as amended) (rules as to income and capital) (ie the same rules as to income that apply for the purposes of the income-based jobseeker's allowance: see PARA 273 post): reg 80(1) (as so amended).

'Benefit week' means a period of seven days ending on the day which corresponds with the day of the week specified in a notice given or sent to the claimant in accordance with reg 23 (attendance) (see PARA 291 post) requiring him to provide a signed declaration as referred to in reg 24(6) or, in the case of a claimant who is not normally required to attend in person, on the day which corresponds with the day of the week specified by the Secretary of State in accordance with reg 24(10) for the provision of a signed declaration, except (1) where (a) the Secretary of State requires attendance otherwise than at regular two weekly intervals, or in the case of a claimant who is paid benefit in accordance with the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, Pt III (regs 20-32) (as amended), other than reg 20A (as added), at the time he provides a signed declaration as referred to in the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 24(6), the 'benefit week' ends on such day as the Secretary of State may specify in a notice in writing given or sent to the claimant; (b) in accordance with an award of income support that includes the relevant day, the 'benefit week' ends on a Saturday, the benefit week for these purposes also ends on a Saturday, or on such other day as the Secretary of State may specify in a notice in writing given or sent to the claimant; or (c) in accordance with an award of unemployment benefit that includes the relevant day, the claimant is paid benefit in respect of a period of seven days ending on the week-day specified in a written notice given to him by the Secretary of State for the purpose of his claiming unemployment benefit, and that day is a Saturday, the 'benefit week' ends on a Saturday or on such other day as the Secretary of State may specify in a notice in writing given or sent to the claimant; (2) where the Secretary of State has set a day for payment of a jobseeker's allowance in respect of a claim, but no notice has yet been given or sent to the claimant in accordance with reg 23, the 'benefit week' means a period of seven days ending on the day which has been set; (3) for the purpose of calculating any payment of income in accordance with Pt VIII (as amended), 'benefit week' also means the period of seven days ending on the day before the first day of the benefit week following the date of claim or, as the case may be, the last day on which a jobseeker's allowance is paid if it is in payment for less than a week; and in this definition 'relevant day' has the meaning it has in the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1995, SI 1995/3276 (revoked): Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 1(2) (definition amended by SI 1996/1517; SI 1996/2538).

7 See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 81(1) (amended by SI 1996/1517). At the date at which this volume states the law, the prescribed amount was £50. In determining the amount of any pension payments, any pension payment payable to him which arose in accordance with the terms of a personal pension scheme on the death of a person who was a member of that scheme is to be disregarded: see Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 81(2) (as so amended). ## 270 Concurrent entitlement to income-based jobseeker's allowance

NOTE 1--In the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4(6)-(11), 'claimant' does not include (1) a joint-claim couple; or (2) a member of such a couple (other than a person to whom regulations under s 1(2C) apply (see PARA 260)); but s 4A (see PARA 272A), which contains corresponding provisions relating to joint-claim couples, applies instead: s 4(11A) (added by the Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 paras 1, 5(1), (4)).

TEXT AND NOTES 5-9, 12--For 'satisfies ... income-based conditions' read 'is entitled to both a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance and an income-based jobseeker's allowance'; and after 'amount payable' insert 'by way of jobseeker's allowance': 1995 Act s 4(6), (8) (both amended by the 1999 Act Sch 8 para 29(1), (2)).

(3) INCOME-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE

271. The income-based conditions.

In order to qualify for an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup>, the claimant must satisfy the general conditions of entitlement<sup>2</sup> and also the specific conditions that he:

- 737 (1) has an income that does not exceed the applicable amount<sup>3</sup> or has no income<sup>4</sup>;
- 738 (2) is not entitled to income support<sup>5</sup>;
- 739 (3) is not a member of a family<sup>6</sup> one of whose members is entitled to income support<sup>7</sup>;
- 740 (4) is not a member of a family one of whose members is entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>8</sup>;
- 741 (5) is not a member of a married or unmarried couple<sup>9</sup> the other member of which is engaged in remunerative work<sup>10</sup>; and
- 742 (6) is a person who has reached the age of 18, or in respect of whom a severe hardship direction is in force<sup>11</sup> or who has, in prescribed circumstances<sup>12</sup> to be taken into account for a prescribed period<sup>13</sup>, reached the age of 16 but not the age of 18<sup>14</sup>.

Regulations may prescribe circumstances in which a person may be entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance without being available for employment<sup>15</sup>, having entered into a jobseeker's agreement<sup>16</sup> or actively seeking employment<sup>17</sup> and may provide for an income-based jobseeker's allowance to which a person is entitled by virtue of such regulations to be payable at a prescribed rate and for a prescribed period<sup>18</sup>.

In such circumstances as may be prescribed, a claimant<sup>19</sup> may be treated as being entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance before his claim for a jobseeker's allowance has been determined<sup>20</sup> and an income-based jobseeker's allowance must be payable to a claimant even though payment to him of a jobseeker's allowance has been suspended<sup>21</sup>; but an allowance is to be so payable only if the claimant has complied with such requirements as to the provision of information as may be prescribed for these purposes<sup>22</sup>.

1 'An income-based jobseeker's allowance' means a jobseeker's allowance entitlement to which is based on the claimant's satisfying conditions which include those set out in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 3 (see heads (1)-(6) in the text): ss 1(4), 35(1). As to the treatment of young persons see further PARA 323 post.

13 For these purposes 'period' includes a period of a determinate length, a period defined by reference to the happening of a future event, and a period of a determinate length but subject to earlier determination upon the happening of a future event: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 3(3).

14 Ibid s 3(1)(f). Regulations may provide for one or both of the following conditions to be included in the income-based conditions, in the case of a person to whom head (6) in the text applies in respect of whom a severe hardship direction is in force or who has not reached the age of 18, ie (1) a condition that the claimant must register for employment; (2) a condition that the claimant must register for training: s 3(2). 'Training' has the meaning prescribed for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 and, in relation to prescribed provisions, if regulations so provide, includes assistance to find training or employment, or to improve a person's prospects of being employed, of such a kind as may be prescribed: s 35(1). Thus such a young person must register with the Careers Service (or, in certain circumstances, with the Employment Service) for both employment and training: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996 SI 1996/207, reg 62. NOTE 12--SI 1996/207 reg 58 substituted: SI 2000/1978. SI 1996/207 reg 60 amended: SI 2009/2655. SI 1996/207 reg 61 amended: SI 2000/1978, SI 2001/652, SI 2008/1554.

The requirement to register is now generally extended to young persons in joint-claim couples: see SI 1996/207 reg 62 (amended by SI 2000/1978). For the meaning of 'joint-claim couple' see PARA 260.

TEXT AND NOTES 15-18--Regulations may prescribe circumstances in which a joint-claim couple (see PARA 260) may be entitled to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance without each member of the couple satisfying all the conditions referred to in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 1(2B)(b) (see PARA 260): Sch 1 para 8A(1) (Sch 1 para 8A added by Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 paras 1, 16(1), (2)). Regulations may prescribe circumstances in which, and a period for which, a transitional case couple may be entitled to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance without having jointly made a claim for it: Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 8A(2). 'A transitional case couple' means a joint-claim couple a member of which is entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance on the coming into force of the Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7; and 'period' is to be construed in accordance with the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 3(3): Sch 1 para 8A(3). Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 9 amended: Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 16(3).

Regulations may make provision about the entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance of persons ('ex-members') who cease to be members of a joint-claim couple: Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 9A(1) (Sch 1 paras 9A-9D added by Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 16(4)). Regulations under the Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 9A may, in particular, provide (1) for treating each or either of the ex-members as having made any claim made by the couple or, alternatively, for any such claim to lapse; (2) for any award made in respect of the couple to be replaced by an award (a 'replacement award') in respect of each or either of the ex-members of the couple or, alternatively, for any such award to lapse: Sch 1 para 9A(2). Regulations may make provision about the entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance of persons ('ex-members') who, having ceased to be members of a joint-claim couple, again become the members of a joint-claim couple: Sch 1 para 9B(1)). Regulations under Sch 1 para 9B may, in particular, provide (a) for any claim made by the ex-members when they were previously a joint-claim couple to be revived or otherwise given effect as a claim made by the couple; (b) for any award made in respect of the ex-members when they were previously a joint-claim couple to be restored; (c) for any such award, or any replacement award (within the meaning of Sch 1 para 9A) made in respect of either of them, to be replaced by an award (a 'new award') in respect of the couple: Sch 1 para 9B(2). Regulations may make provision about the entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance of persons who become members of a joint-claim couple as a result of the couple of which they are members becoming a joint-claim couple: Sch 1 para 9C(1) (amended by Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 24 para 125). Regulations under the Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 9C may, in particular, provide (i) for any claim made by either member of the couple before the couple became a joint-claim couple to be given effect as a claim made by the couple; (ii) for any award, or any replacement award (within the meaning of Sch 1 para 9A), made in respect of either member of the couple before the couple became a joint-claim couple to be replaced by an award (a 'new award') in respect of the couple: Sch 1 para 9C(2). Regulations may provide, in relation to any replacement award (within the meaning of Sch 1 para 9A) or new award (within the meaning of Sch 1 para 9B or 9C) (A) for the award to be of an amount determined in a prescribed manner; (B) for entitlement to the award to be subject to compliance with prescribed requirements as to the provision of information and evidence: Sch 1 para 9D(1). In Sch 1 paras 9A-9D 'award' means an award of a jobseeker's allowance; and 'claim' means a claim for a jobseeker's allowance: Sch 1 para 9D(2).

TEXT AND NOTES 19, 20--In such circumstances as may be prescribed (1) a claimant for a jobseeker's allowance other than a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; (2) a joint-claim couple claiming a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; or (3) a member of such a couple, may be treated as being entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance before his or (as the case may be) the couple's claim for the allowance has been determined: Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 10(1) (substituted by Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 paras 1, 16(1), (5)).

TEXT AND NOTE 21--Now, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, an income-based jobseeker's allowance is payable in respect of (1) a claimant for a jobseeker's allowance other than a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; (2) a joint-claim couple claiming a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; or (3) a member of such a couple, even though payment to him or (as the case may be) the couple of a jobseeker's allowance has been suspended by virtue of regulations under the Social Security Act 1998 s 21(2): Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 10(2) (amended by Social Security Act 1998 Sch 7 para 146; and Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 16(6), Sch 8 para 29 (7)).

TEXT AND NOTE 22--Now refers to the claimant or the couple or the member of the couple: Jobseekers Act 1995 Sch 1 para 10(3) (amended by Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 16 (7)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(3) INCOME-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/272. The amount of an income-based jobseeker's allowance.

272. The amount of an income-based jobseeker's allowance.

As with income support, the amount of an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup> is calculated by reference to the claimant's income<sup>2</sup> (if any) and the applicable amount<sup>3</sup> prescribed in his case<sup>4</sup>. The amount payable is (1) if the claimant<sup>5</sup> has no income, the applicable amount; (2) if the claimant has income, the amount by which the applicable amount exceeds his income<sup>6</sup>; and except in prescribed circumstances, a jobseeker's allowance is not payable where the amount otherwise payable would be less than a prescribed minimum<sup>7</sup>. The applicable amount in a particular claimant's case is the aggregate of whichever of the following apply to him:

- 743 (a) an amount in respect of himself or, if he is a member of a couple<sup>8</sup>, an amount in respect of both of them<sup>9</sup>;
- 744 (b) an amount in respect of any child<sup>10</sup> or young person<sup>11</sup> who is a member of the claimant's family<sup>12</sup>, except where the child or young person has capital exceeding the prescribed amount<sup>13</sup>;
- 745 (c) where the claimant or a member of his family aged 16 or over is in residential care accommodation, a further amount<sup>14</sup>;
- 746 (d) where the claimant is a member of a family with at least one child or young person, the family premium<sup>15</sup>;
- 747 (e) the amounts of any premiums which apply in his case<sup>16</sup>;
- 748 (f) any housing costs<sup>17</sup>.

These provisions replicate those applying to income support<sup>18</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'income-based jobseeker's allowance' see PARA 271 note 1 ante.

2 In the case of an income-based allowance (unlike a contribution-based allowance, as to which see PARA 266 ante) the relevant income includes that of the claimant's partner and children (if any): see the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 13(2).

3 The applicable amount is such amount, or the aggregate of such amounts, as may be determined in accordance with regulations; and regulations may provide that in prescribed cases an applicable amount is to be nil: ibid s 4(5), (12). For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 260 note 13 ante; and for the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

4 For the equivalent provisions relating to income support see PARA 183 et seq ante.

5 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

6 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4(3).

7 Ibid s 4(4).

8 For the meaning of 'couple' and 'unmarried couple' see PARA 265 note 3 ante.

9 See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 83(a), Sch 1 para 1 (subject to frequent amendment). As with income support, particular provision is made for (1) polygamous marriages (see reg 84 (amended by SI 1996/1516)); (2) special cases, including prisoners, persons from abroad and refugees (see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 85, Sch 5); and (3) persons in residential care and nursing homes (see reg 86, Sch 4). All these provisions prescribe amounts which are subject to frequent amendment.

10 'Child' means a person under the age of 16: see the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 35(1).

- 11 For the meaning of 'young person' see PARA 264 note 4 ante.
- 12 For the meaning of 'family', and as to the treatment of families for the purposes of jobseeker's allowance, see PARA 265 note 6 ante.
- 13 See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 83(b), Sch 1 para 2 (subject to frequent amendment). The prescribed amount of capital at the date at which this volume states the law was £3,000.
- 14 See ibid reg 83(1), Sch 1 para 3 (subject to frequent amendment).
- 15 See ibid reg 83(d), Sch 1 Pt II (para 4) (subject to frequent amendment). With effect from 6 April 1998, new provisions prescribe the circumstances in which the applicable amount of income-based jobseeker's allowance will include the lone parent rate of family premium: see the Social Security (Lone Parents) (Amendment) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/1790, reg 13, amending the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, Sch 1 para 4.
- 16 See ibid reg 83(e), Sch 1 Pts II, IV (subject to frequent amendment). The general rule is that only one premium (the highest in amount) is payable where the claimant qualifies for more than one (see Sch 1 para 6), but there are exceptions in relation to the severe disability premium, the disabled child premium and the carer premium, each of which may be applicable in addition to any other premium (see Sch 1 para 7).
- 17 See ibid reg 83(f), Sch 2 (amended by, inter alia, SI 1997/2305). With effect from 22 October 1997, the Social Security (Miscellaneous Amendments) (No 4) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/2305, amend the relevant regulations relating to income support and income-based jobseeker's allowance so that where an amount in respect of mortgage interest is included in a person's or his partner's applicable amount for either benefit and the person concerned ceases to receive one of those benefits but becomes entitled to the other within a prescribed period (generally 12 weeks), or less, that amount forms part of his applicable amount with respect to the other benefit: see further PARAS 185-186 ante.
- 18 There are certain drafting differences in relation to the pensioner premiums (see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, Sch 1 paras 10-12), reflecting the fact that any necessary topping up of pensions on a means-tested basis is likely to be done through income support, not jobseeker's allowance (since for the latter the claimant, if not any partner, has to be under pensionable age: see PARA 260 head (8) ante).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(3) INCOME-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/272A. Amount payable in respect of joint-claim couple.

272A. Amount payable in respect of joint-claim couple.

The following provision applies where (1) a joint-claim couple<sup>1</sup> are entitled to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance<sup>2</sup>; and (2) one or each of the members of the couple is in addition entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>3</sup>. If a joint-claim couple falling within head (1) above have no income, the amount payable in respect of the couple by way of a jobseeker's allowance is (a) the applicable amount, if that is greater than the couple's personal rate<sup>4</sup>; and (b) the couple's personal rate, if it is not<sup>5</sup>. If a joint-claim couple falling within head (1) above have an income, the amount payable in respect of the couple by way of a jobseeker's allowance is (i) the amount by which the applicable amount exceeds the couple's income, if the amount of that excess is greater than the couple's personal rate; and (ii) the couple's personal rate, if it is not<sup>6</sup>.

The applicable amount of a joint-claim couple who are jointly claiming a jobseeker's allowance is the aggregate of such of the following amounts as may apply in their case (A) an amount in respect of the joint-claim couple<sup>7</sup>; (B) the amount of any premiums which may be applicable to either or both members of the joint-claim couple<sup>8</sup>; and (C) any housing costs<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'joint-claim couple' see PARA 260.

2 For the meaning of 'joint-claim jobseeker's allowance' see PARA 260A.

3 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4A(1) (s 4A added by the Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 para 6). In such a case the provisions of the 1995 Act s 4A have effect in relation to the couple in place of s 4(3A) (see PARA 272): s 4A(1). As to the contribution-based jobseeker's allowance see PARA 266 et seq.

4 'The couple's personal rate', in relation to a joint-claim couple, means (1) where only one member of the couple is entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance, that member's personal rate; (2) where each member of the couple is entitled to such an allowance, the aggregate of their personal rates: ibid s 4A(10).

5 Ibid s 4A(2). Where the amount payable in accordance with s 4A(2) is the applicable amount, the amount payable in respect of the couple by way of a jobseeker's allowance is to be taken to consist of two elements (1) one being an amount equal to the couple's personal rate; and (2) the other being an amount equal to the excess of the applicable amount over the couple's personal rate: s 4A(3). The element of a jobseeker's allowance mentioned in head (1) of the text, and that mentioned in NOTE 6 head (1), is treated, for the purpose of identifying the source of the allowance, as attributable (a) in a case where only one member of the joint-claim couple is entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance, to that member's entitlement to such an allowance; and (b) in a case where each member of the couple is entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance, rateably according to their individual entitlements to such an allowance: s 4A(8). The element of a jobseeker's allowance mentioned in head (2) of the text, and that mentioned in NOTE 6 head (2), is treated, for the purpose of identifying the source of the allowance, as attributable to the couple's entitlement to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance: s 4A(9). Where the amount payable in accordance with s 4A(2) is the couple's personal rate, then (i) if each member of the couple is entitled to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance, an amount equal to the member's own personal rate is payable in respect of the member by way of such an allowance; (ii) if only one of them is so entitled, an amount equal to that member's personal rate is payable in respect of the member by way of such an allowance; and in either case nothing is payable in respect of the couple by way of a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance: s 4A(4).

6 Ibid s 4A(5). Where the amount payable in accordance with s 4A(5) is the amount by which the applicable amount exceeds the couple's income, the amount payable in respect of the couple by way of a jobseeker's allowance is taken to consist of two elements (1) one being an amount equal to the couple's personal rate; and (2) the other being an amount equal to the amount by which the difference between the applicable amount and the couple's income exceeds the couple's personal rate: s 4A(6). See also s 4A(8), (9); and NOTE 5. Where the amount payable in accordance with s 4A(5) is the couple's personal rate, s 4A(4) (see NOTE 5) applies as it applies in a case where the amount payable in accordance with s 4A(2) is that rate: s 4A(7).

7 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207 reg 86A(a) (regs 86A-86C added by SI 2000/1978; and amended by SI 2001/3767, SI 2003/1121, SI 2009/3228; SI 1996/207 reg 86C amended by SI 2004/565, SI 2005/3360). The amount is determined in accordance with SI 1996/207, Sch 1 para 1(3) (amended by SI 2000/1978, SI 2007/719, SI 2008/1554, SI 2009/1575). Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(3) INCOME-BASED JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/273. Calculation of income.

273. Calculation of income.

In relation to a claim for a jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup>, the income and capital of a person must be calculated or estimated in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>2</sup>. A person's income in respect of a week<sup>3</sup> must be calculated in accordance with prescribed rules<sup>4</sup>, which may provide for the calculation to be made by reference to an average over a period (which need not include the week concerned)<sup>5</sup>. Circumstances may be prescribed in which:

- 749 (1) a person is treated as possessing capital or income which he does not possess;
- 750 (2) capital or income which a person does possess is to be disregarded;
- 751 (3) income is to be treated as capital;
- 752 (4) capital is to be treated as income<sup>6</sup>.

It is essential to be able to calculate any income of the claimant<sup>7</sup> in order to establish entitlement to, and calculate the amount of, an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>8</sup>, and the same rules are applied wherever it is necessary to establish a claimant's income for the purposes of a contribution-based allowance<sup>9</sup>. Where a person claiming an income-based allowance is a member of a family<sup>10</sup>, the income of any member of that family is, except in prescribed circumstances, to be treated as the income of the claimant<sup>11</sup>.

The rules relating to the calculation of income replicate those applying to income support<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to making a claim see PARA 338 post.

2 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 12(1). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

10 See PARA 265 note 6 ante.

11 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 13(2).

12 Both the Income Support (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1969 (as amended) and the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207 (as amended) make provision for the calculation of income; the calculation of earnings derived from employed earner's employment and income other than earnings; the calculation of earnings of self-employed earners; the date on which income is treated as paid; the calculation of weekly amounts of income; the earnings of employed earners; the calculation of net earnings of employed earners; the earnings of self-employed earners; the calculation of net profit of self-employed earners; the deduction of tax and contributions for self-employed earners; the calculation of income other than earnings; capital treated as income; notional income; modification in respect of children and young persons; sums to be disregarded in the calculation of earnings; sums to be disregarded in the calculation of income other than earnings; liable relative payments; and child support payments: see in relation to jobseeker's allowance the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, regs 88-106 (as amended). There are certain drafting differences in relation to the treatment of termination payments from an employer: see regs 94, 98 (as amended), which still reflect some of the superseded unemployment benefit rules, rather than simply adopting the income support rules.

274. The capital rule; the calculation of capital.

No person is entitled to an income-based jobseeker's allowance if his capital exceeds the prescribed amount<sup>1</sup>. At the date at which this volume states the law, the prescribed amount was £8,000, except in the case of a person living permanently in a residential care or nursing home (or other residential accommodation providing board and personal care by reason of the claimant's disablement, past or present dependence on alcohol or drugs or past or present mental disorder), in which case the limit was £16,000<sup>2</sup>.

Regulations<sup>3</sup> may provide that capital not exceeding the amount so prescribed, but exceeding a prescribed lower amount, is to be treated, to a prescribed extent, as if it were income of a prescribed amount<sup>4</sup>. As with the income support capital rule, provision has been made treating capital above a prescribed limit<sup>5</sup> as producing a 'tariff income' of £1 for each £250 or part thereof<sup>6</sup>.

The rules relating to the calculating of capital replicate those applying to income support<sup>7</sup>.

1 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 13(1). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

2 See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 107 (substituted by SI 1996/1516). The capital of a child or young person who is a member of the claimant's family is not to be treated as capital of the claimant (Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 109); however, where a child or young person has capital exceeding £3,000, no applicable amount is to be included in respect of him (see reg 83(b)). The capital of a spouse or partner is to be treated as capital of the claimant: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 13(2).

3 For the meaning of 'regulations' see PARA 260 note 13 ante.

4 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 13(3).

5 At the date at which this volume states the law, the normal limit was £3,000, but £10,000 in the case of a claimant in residential care, etc: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 116 (amended by SI 1996/1516; SI 1997/65).

6 See the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 116 (as amended: see note 5 supra).

7 Both the Income Support (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1969 (as amended) and the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207 (as amended) contain provisions relating to the capital limit; the calculation of capital; disregard of the capital of a child or young person; income treated as capital; the calculation of capital in the United Kingdom; the calculation of capital outside the United Kingdom; notional capital; the diminishing notional capital rule; capital jointly held; the calculation of tariff income from capital; and capital to be disregarded: see in relation to jobseeker's allowance the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, regs 107-116 (as amended).

(4) JOBSEEKING REQUIREMENTS

(i) Introduction

275. Changes to the jobseeking requirements.

Unemployment benefit, the predecessor to jobseeker's allowance, was always subject to a requirement that the claimant be available for employment, in order to ensure that it was only payable to the involuntarily unemployed. Originally such availability was left as a broad question of fact but, although that was held to include a positive element of looking for work (and not just being available if approached)<sup>1</sup>, it was considered that the test was not sufficiently rigorous and so changes were made in the legislation. In 1989 statutory criteria were added to the test for availability for employment<sup>2</sup> and there was added the further requirement that the claimant must be actively seeking employment. When the jobseeker's allowance replaced unemployment benefit in 1996 the two existing requirements (of availability for work<sup>3</sup> and actively seeking it<sup>4</sup>) were continued in amended form and there were added extended requirements on a claimant to attend when required and provide information and evidence to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup>, and a new requirement of entering into a jobseeker's agreement<sup>6</sup>. Sanctions are prescribed for claimants who fail to comply with these requirements<sup>7</sup>.

1 See Decision R(U) 5/80.

2 In the light of this (and the further emphasis on statutory criteria in the jobseeker's allowance rules on both availability and actively seeking work) the emphasis below is on the criteria themselves, not on previous unemployment benefit case law which arose before their introduction, when the test for availability was essentially one of fact.

(ii) Availability for Employment

276. The requirement of availability.

It is a general requirement for eligibility for a jobseeker's allowance that the claimant<sup>1</sup> is available for employment<sup>2</sup>. A person is available for employment if he is willing and able to take up immediately any employed earner's employment<sup>3</sup>; but this is subject to such provisions as may be made by regulations<sup>4</sup>; and those regulations may, in particular, provide that a person:

- 753 (1) may restrict his availability for employment in any week<sup>5</sup> in such ways as may be prescribed<sup>6</sup>; or
- 754 (2) may restrict his availability for employment in any week in such circumstances as may be prescribed (for example, on grounds of conscience, religious conviction or physical or mental condition or because he is caring for another person) and in such ways as may be prescribed<sup>7</sup>.

The following are examples of restrictions for which provision may be made by the regulations:

- 755 (a) restrictions on the nature of the employment for which a person is available;
- 756 (b) restrictions on the periods for which he is available;
- 757 (c) restrictions on the terms or conditions of employment for which he is available;
- 758 (d) restrictions on the locality or localities within which he is available<sup>8</sup>.

Regulations may also prescribe circumstances in which a person is or is not to be treated as available for employment<sup>9</sup> and may, in particular, provide for a person who is available for employment only in his usual occupation, only at a level of remuneration not lower than that which he is accustomed to receive, or only in his usual occupation and at a level of remuneration not lower than that which he is accustomed to receive, to be treated, for a permitted period, as available for employment<sup>10</sup>.

In order to be regarded as available for employment, a person must be willing and able to take up employment of at least 40 hours per week<sup>11</sup>. Where it has been determined ('the first determination') that a person is to be treated as available for employment in any week, the question whether he is available for employment in that week may be subsequently determined on a review of the first determination<sup>12</sup>.

For these purposes, 'permitted period', in relation to any person, means such period as may be determined in accordance with the regulations made under s 6(4); and regulations so made may prescribe, in relation to permitted periods, (1) the day on which any such period is to be regarded as having begun in any case; (2) the shortest and longest periods which may be determined in any case; (3) factors which an adjudication officer may take into account in determining the period in any case: s 6(7), (8).

11 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations, 1996 SI 1996/207, reg 6(1). This does not apply where the claimant has restricted his availability in accordance with reg 13(3), (4) or reg 17(2) (as added) (see PARAS 278, 284 post); and is also disapplied in relation to certain persons undertaking a workskill course (see the Jobseeker's Allowance (Workskill Courses) Pilot (No 2) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/1909, regs 6, 7). The person must also be willing and able to take up employment of less than 40 hours per week (but not for a greater number of hours than any number for which he is available in accordance with the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 13(3), (4) or reg 17(2) (as added)): reg 6(2).

277 Exceptions to the requirement to be available immediately

TEXT AND NOTES 1-3--Now head (1) subject to SI 1996/207 reg 5(1A), a person who is engaged in voluntary work or who has caring responsibilities is not required to be able to take up employment immediately, providing he is willing and able to take up employment on being given one week's notice and to attend for interview in connection with the opportunity of any such employment on being given 48 hours' notice: SI 1996/207 reg 5(1) (substituted by SI 2002/3072; and amended by SI 2006/1402, SI 2008/3051). In order to be regarded as available for employment, a person who has caring responsibilities in relation to a child is not required to take up employment or attend for interview within the periods referred to in SI 1996/207 reg 5(1) if those responsibilities make it unreasonable for him to do so, providing he is willing and able to take up employment on being given 28 days' notice; and to attend for interview in connection with the opportunity of any such employment on being given seven days notice; and, for this purpose, it is for the claimant to show that it is unreasonable for him to take up employment or attend for interview within the periods referred to in head (1): SI 1996/207 reg 5(1A), (1B) (added by SI 2008/3051).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(4) JOBSEEKING REQUIREMENTS/(ii) Availability for Employment/278. Restrictions on availability.

278. Restrictions on availability.

A person may not restrict the total number of hours for which he is available for employment to less than 40 hours in any week<sup>1</sup>. He may, however, restrict the total number of hours to 40 or more in any week, providing (1) the times at which he is available to take up employment (his 'pattern of availability') are such as to afford him reasonable prospects of securing employment<sup>2</sup>; (2) his pattern of availability is recorded in his jobseeker's agreement<sup>3</sup> and any variations in that pattern are recorded in a varied agreement; and (3) his prospects of securing employment are not reduced considerably by the restriction imposed by his pattern of availability<sup>4</sup>.

Subject to the hours requirements, any person may restrict his availability for employment by placing restrictions on the nature of the employment for which he is available, the terms or conditions or employment for which he is available (including the rate of remuneration) and the locality or localities within which he is available, providing he can show that he has reasonable prospects of securing employment<sup>5</sup> notwithstanding those restrictions<sup>6</sup>. However, after the expiry of the six month period beginning with the date of claim, a person may not restrict his availability for employment by placing restrictions on the level of remuneration in employment for which he is available<sup>7</sup>.

In addition to the above general rules, special provision as to availability is made in respect of certain persons; thus:

762 (a) a person may impose restrictions on the nature of employment for which he is available by reason of a sincerely held religious belief, or a sincerely held conscientious objection, providing he can show that he has reasonable prospects of securing employment notwithstanding those restrictions<sup>8</sup>;

763 (b) a person may restrict his availability in any way providing the restrictions are reasonable in the light of his physical or mental condition<sup>9</sup>;

764 (c) a person with caring responsibilities<sup>10</sup> may restrict the total number of hours for which he is available for employment to less than 40 hours in any week providing:

120. (i) in that week he is available for as many hours as his caring responsibilities allow and for the specific hours that those responsibilities allow<sup>11</sup>;

121. (ii) he has reasonable prospects of securing employment notwithstanding that restriction<sup>12</sup>; and

122. (iii) he is available for employment for at least 16 hours in that week<sup>13</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(4) JOBSEEKING REQUIREMENTS/(ii) Availability for Employment/279. Reasonable prospects of employment.

279. Reasonable prospects of employment.

Under the former law relating to unemployment benefit there were general tests, largely established by case law, as to whether any restrictions on availability were reasonable, in which the question whether there were still reasonable prospects of employment in the light of these restrictions naturally played a part<sup>1</sup>. However, the legislative approach now<sup>2</sup> is to seek to establish more precise, express rules governing such questions and so it is submitted that the correct approach of the adjudicating authorities in seeking to determine the question should be to apply the current statutory wording to the particular facts, rather than seeking guidance from older case law on the previous, superseded legislation<sup>3</sup>.

Where it is necessary to decide whether a person has reasonable prospects of securing employment<sup>4</sup>, it is provided that regard is to be had, in particular, to the following matters:

- 765 (1) his skills, qualifications and experience;
- 766 (2) the type and number of vacancies within daily travelling distance from his home;
- 767 (3) the length of time for which he has been unemployed;
- 768 (4) the job applications which he has made and their outcome;
- 769 (5) if he wishes to place restrictions on the nature of the employment for which he is available, whether he is willing to move home to take up employment<sup>5</sup>.

If a claimant<sup>6</sup> wishes to restrict his availability in the relevant ways<sup>7</sup>, it is for him to show that he has reasonable prospects of securing employment<sup>8</sup>.

1 See eg Decisions R(U) 25/51; R(U) 2/52.

2 This started with amendments to the law on unemployment benefit in 1989 to make the availability tests more precise and more stringent (see PARA 275 ante) and has become particularly important within the overall, major change to jobseeker's allowance in 1996.

3 One longstanding problem concerns restrictions which a newly-unemployed person may naturally wish to impose that he will only accept similar work to that which he has lost; again, a more general approach under the previous law (based on when it would be reasonable for the person to accept lesser work, akin to the common law test for mitigation of damage in a wrongful dismissal case (see EMPLOYMENT vol 40 (2009) PARA 786) has been replaced by more precise rules applying a 'permitted period' for looking for equivalent employment: see further PARA 280 post.

A full-time student is not regarded as undertaking a full-time course of advanced education or a full-time course of study for the period specified in reg 1(3E) if (i) at any time during an academic year, with the consent of the relevant educational establishment, he ceases to attend or undertake a course because he is engaged in caring for another person, or ill; (ii) he has subsequently ceased to be engaged in caring for that person or, as the case may be, he has subsequently recovered from that illness; and (iii) he is not eligible for a grant or a student loan (see PARA 324) in respect of the period specified in reg 1(3E): reg 1(3D) (as added). The period specified for the purposes of reg 1(3D) is the period beginning on the day on which he ceased to be engaged in caring for that other person or, as the case may be, the day on which he recovered from that illness and ending on the day before the day on which he resumes attending or undertaking the course, or the first day of the following academic year, whichever occurs first: reg 1(3E) (as added).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(4) JOBSEEKING REQUIREMENTS/(iii) Actively Seeking Employment/285. The requirement of actively seeking employment.

(iii) Actively Seeking Employment

285. The requirement of actively seeking employment.

It is a general requirement for eligibility for a jobseeker's allowance that the claimant is actively seeking employment<sup>1</sup>. A person is actively seeking employment in any week<sup>2</sup> if he takes in that week such steps as he can reasonably be expected to have to take in order to have the best prospects of securing employment<sup>3</sup>. Regulations<sup>4</sup> may make provision:

- 809 (1) with respect to steps which it is reasonable, for these purposes, for a person to be expected to have to take in any week<sup>5</sup>;
- 810 (2) as to circumstances (for example, his skills, qualifications, abilities and physical or mental limitations) which, in particular, are to be taken into account in determining whether, in relation to any steps taken by a person, the general requirements are satisfied in any week<sup>6</sup>;
- 811 (3) for acts of a person which would otherwise be relevant for these purposes to be disregarded in such circumstances (including circumstances constituted by, or connected with, his behaviour or appearance) as may be prescribed<sup>7</sup>.

Regulations also may prescribe circumstances in which a person is to be treated as actively seeking employment<sup>8</sup> and may, in particular, provide for a person who is actively seeking employment:

- 812 (a) only in his usual occupation;
- 813 (b) only at a level of remuneration not lower than that which he is accustomed to receive; or
- 814 (c) only in his usual occupation and at a level of remuneration not lower than that which he is accustomed to receive, to be treated, for the permitted period determined in his case<sup>9</sup>, as actively seeking employment during that period<sup>10</sup>. In addition, regulations may provide for these provisions, and any regulations made under them, to have effect in relation to a person who has reached the age of 16 but not the age of 18 as if 'employment' included 'training'<sup>11</sup>.

Extensive guidance has been laid down as to the steps which it is reasonable to expect and the circumstances to be taken into account when applying the general test<sup>12</sup>. It is further provided that:

- 815 (i) a person is expected to take more than one of these steps on one occasion in any week unless taking one step on one occasion is all that is reasonable for that person to do in that week<sup>13</sup>; and
- 816 (ii) any act of a person which would otherwise be relevant to the general test is to be disregarded:

- 123. (A) where, in taking the act, he acted in a violent or abusive manner;
- 124. (B) where the act comprised the completion of an application for employment and he spoiled the application; or

125. (C) where by his behaviour or appearance he otherwise undermined his prospects of securing the employment in question, unless any of these circumstances were due to reasons beyond his control<sup>14</sup>.

Where it has been determined ('the first determination') that a person is to be treated as actively seeking employment in any week, the question whether he is actively seeking employment in that week may subsequently be determined on a review of the first determination<sup>15</sup>.

In any case where the period beginning on the date of claim and ending on the day before the beginning of the first week after the date of claim is less than seven days, a person is actively seeking employment in that period if he takes in that period such steps as he can reasonably be expected to have to take in order to have the best prospects of securing employment; and in determining whether a person has taken such steps, the steps which it is reasonable for him to be expected to have to take include those referred to in the detailed guidance<sup>16</sup>, and regard must be had to all the circumstances<sup>17</sup> of the case<sup>18</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(4) JOBSEEKING REQUIREMENTS/(iv) Attendance, Information and Evidence/293. Provision of information and evidence.

293. Provision of information and evidence.

A claimant<sup>1</sup> must provide such information as to his circumstances, his availability for employment and the extent to which he is actively seeking employment as may be required by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> in order to determine the entitlement of the claimant to a jobseeker's allowance, whether that allowance is payable to him and, if so, in what amount<sup>3</sup>.

Where a jobseeker's allowance may be claimed by either member of a couple<sup>4</sup> (or the entitlement or amount of an allowance is or may be affected by the circumstances of either member of a couple or any member of a polygamous marriage<sup>5</sup>), the Secretary of State may require the member of the couple other than the claimant to certify in writing whether he agrees to the claimant's making the claim, or that he or any member of a polygamous marriage confirms the information given about his circumstances<sup>6</sup>.

A claimant must furnish such certificates, documents or other evidence as may be required by the Secretary of State for the determination of the claim<sup>7</sup>.

A claimant must notify the Secretary of State:

- 873 (1) of any change of circumstances which has occurred which he might reasonably be expected to know might affect his entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance or the payability or amount of such an allowance; and
- 874 (2) of any such change of circumstances which he is aware is likely so to occur, and must do so as soon as reasonably practicable after its occurrence or, as the case may be, after he becomes so aware, by giving notice in writing (unless the Secretary of State determines in any particular case to accept notice given otherwise than in writing) to the appropriate office<sup>8</sup>.

Finally, a claimant must, if the Secretary of State requires him to do so, provide a signed declaration to the effect that:

- 875 (a) since making the claim for a jobseeker's allowance or since he last provided such a declaration, he has either been available for employment or satisfied the circumstances to be treated as available for employment<sup>9</sup>, save as he has otherwise notified the Secretary of State;
- 876 (b) since making a claim or since he last provided such a declaration, he has either been actively seeking employment to the extent necessary to give him his best prospects of securing employment<sup>10</sup> or he has satisfied the circumstances to be treated as actively seeking employment<sup>11</sup>, save as he has otherwise notified the Secretary of State; and
- 877 (c) since making the claim or since he last provided such a declaration, there has been no change to his circumstances which might affect his entitlement to an allowance or the amount thereof, save as he has notified the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup>.

Entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance ceases if the claimant was required to provide such a signed declaration and he fails to provide it on the day on which he ought to do so<sup>13</sup>.

The claimant must also furnish such other information in connection with the claim or any question arising out of it as may be required by the Secretary of State: reg 24(2). In either case, the claimant must provide the information when he attends in accordance with a notice given under reg 23 (see PARA 291 ante) if so required by the Secretary of State, or within such period as the latter may require: reg 24(8).

In either case, the claimant must furnish the relevant material within seven days of being so required or such longer period as the Secretary of State may consider reasonable: reg 24(9).

8 Ibid reg 24(7). For the meaning of 'appropriate office' see PARA 292 note 3 ante. Failure to comply may lead to an overpayment of benefit; for the circumstances in which such an overpayment is repayable by the claimant see PARA 385 post.

13 Ibid reg 25(1)(c). The entitlement ceases on the earlier of (1) the day after the last day in respect of which the claimant has provided information or evidence which shows that he continues to be entitled to a jobseeker's allowance; or (2) the day on which he ought to have provided the signed declaration, provided that it is not to cease earlier than the day on which he last attended in compliance with a notice under reg 23: reg 26(a), (c) (respectively amended by SI 1996/1517; SI 1996/1516).

298. Commencement and duration of a jobseeker's agreement.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> may provide that, in prescribed circumstances<sup>2</sup>, a jobseeker's agreement<sup>3</sup> is to be treated as having effect on a date, to be determined in accordance with the regulations, before it would otherwise have effect<sup>4</sup>. Where a jobseeker's agreement is signed on a date later than the date of claim and there is no reference of that agreement to an adjudication officer<sup>5</sup>, the agreement is to be treated as having effect on the date of claim<sup>6</sup>.

Except in such circumstances as may be prescribed, a jobseeker's agreement entered into by a claimant<sup>7</sup> ceases to have effect on the coming to an end of a jobseeker's allowance made to him<sup>8</sup>. It is provided, however, that that is not to be the case:

- 890 (1) where a further claim for a jobseeker's allowance is made within a period not exceeding 14 days; or
- 891 (2) in respect of any part of a period of suspension, where:
- 103 133. (a) payment under an award of the allowance has been suspended by direction of the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> for a definite or indefinite period (on the ground that a question arises whether the conditions for entitlement to the allowance are or were fulfilled or the award ought to be revised); and
- 134. (b) subsequently that suspension expires or is cancelled in respect of a part only of the period for which it has been in force; and
- 135. (c) it is then determined that the award should be revised to the effect that there was no entitlement to the allowance in respect of all or any part of the period between the start of the period over which the award has been suspended and the date when the suspension expires or is cancelled; or
- 104 892 (3) for as long as the claimant satisfies the conditions of entitlement to national insurance credits<sup>10</sup>, other than any conditions relating to the existence of a jobseeker's agreement<sup>11</sup>.

299. Variation of a jobseeker's agreement.

A jobseeker's agreement<sup>1</sup> may be varied in the prescribed manner<sup>2</sup> by agreement between the claimant<sup>3</sup> and any employment officer<sup>4</sup>. Any such agreement to vary must be in writing and signed by both parties, on the proposal of the claimant or the employment officer<sup>5</sup>. A copy of the agreement as varied must be given to the claimant<sup>6</sup>.

An employment officer must not agree to a variation of a jobseeker's agreement unless, in his opinion, the conditions as to availability for employment and actively seeking employment<sup>7</sup> would continue to be satisfied with respect to the claimant if he were to comply with, or be treated as complying with, the agreement as proposed to be varied<sup>8</sup>.

An employment officer may, and if asked to do so by the claimant must forthwith, refer a proposed variation to an adjudication officer<sup>9</sup> for him to determine:

- 893 (1) whether, if the claimant were to comply with the agreement as proposed to be varied, he would satisfy the conditions relating to availability and actively seeking employment; and
- 894 (2) whether it is reasonable to expect the claimant to have to comply with the agreement as proposed to be varied<sup>10</sup>.

An adjudication officer to whom such a reference is made:

- 895 (a) must, as far as practicable, dispose of it before the end of a period of 14 days from the date of the reference;
- 896 (b) must give such directions as he considers appropriate as to whether the agreement should be varied and, if so, the terms on which the claimant and the employment officer are to enter into an agreement to vary it;
- 897 (c) may bring the jobseeker's agreement to an end where the claimant fails within a prescribed period<sup>11</sup> to comply with a direction under head (b) above;
- 898 (d) may direct that, if the jobseeker's agreement is varied and such conditions as he considers appropriate are satisfied, the agreement as varied is to be treated as having effect on such date, before it would otherwise have effect, as may be specified in the direction<sup>12</sup>.

Any such determination or direction must be notified to the claimant<sup>13</sup>; and any such determination is binding<sup>14</sup>.

(i) Trade Disputes

301. The trade dispute disqualification and the exceptions.

Where there is a stoppage of work<sup>1</sup> which causes a person not to be employed on any day and that stoppage is due to a trade dispute<sup>2</sup> at his place of work<sup>3</sup>, that person is not entitled<sup>4</sup> to a jobseeker's allowance for the week<sup>5</sup> which includes that day, unless he proves that he is not directly interested in the dispute<sup>6</sup>. The disqualification will normally last for as long as the stoppage lasts<sup>7</sup>; where the claimant is not taken back into employment at all (so that in his case there cannot be an ending of the dispute by a resumption of work in the normal way<sup>8</sup>), the disqualification can still end either if the employer ceases trading<sup>9</sup> or more generally when it becomes clear (if necessary with hindsight) that the employer's dismissal of the claimant (or possibly, the employee's resignation) was a final termination of that employment relationship and not just a tactic during the dispute<sup>10</sup>. In addition, the legislation establishes three circumstances in which the disqualification terminates during the currency of the dispute; if a person who is prevented under the trade dispute disqualification from being entitled to a jobseeker's allowance proves that during the stoppage:

- 899 (1) he became bona fide employed elsewhere<sup>11</sup>;
- 900 (2) his employment was terminated by reason of redundancy<sup>12</sup>; or
- 901 (3) he bona fide resumed employment with his employer but subsequently left for a reason other than the trade dispute<sup>13</sup>, the trade dispute disqualification is taken to have ceased to apply to him on the occurrence of the event referred to in head (1) or head (2) above or, as the case may be, the first event referred to in head (3) above<sup>14</sup>.

1 Even if there is no actual stoppage of work resulting, a person may still be disqualified on the basis of having withdrawn his labour on any day in furtherance of a trade dispute: see the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(2) (a person who withdraws his labour on any day in furtherance of a trade dispute but to whom s 14(1) does not apply is not entitled to a jobseeker's allowance for the week which includes that day).

2 'Trade dispute' means any dispute between employers and employees, or between employees and employees, which is connected with the employment or non-employment or the terms of employment or the conditions of employment of any persons, whether employees in the employment of the employer with whom the dispute arises, or not: ibid s 35(1). This is broad wording (based on the original definition of 'trade dispute' in the Trade Disputes Act 1906 (repealed), not the modern definition for the purposes of civil liability for industrial action which has been deliberately narrowed: see EMPLOYMENT vol 41 (2009) PARA 1404 et seq); it can cover the manner of performance of work (much as a 'go-slow' or overtime ban) and is not dependent on there being a formal dispute between employer and union: Decision R(U)5/87. The definition covers strikes and lockouts: Decisions R(U)17/52; R(U)5/59. The trade dispute need not be at the claimant's place of work, provided that it causes a stoppage there, for example by secondary picketing (Decision R(U)1/74); in such a case however, if the claimant was prevented from attending work and not otherwise involved in the dispute itself, he may be able to come within the 'direct interest' proviso (Decision R(U)3/69). A dispute over health and safety concerns can qualify as being connected with the employment or the conditions of employment: R v National Insurance Comr, ex p Thompson, DC (reported as an appendix to Decision R(U) 5/77).

3 'Place of work', in relation to any person, means the premises or place at which he was employed: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(4). Where separate branches of work which are commonly carried on as separate businesses in separate premises or at separate places are in any case carried on in separate departments on the same premises or at the same place, each of those departments is to be deemed to be separate premises or (as the case may be) a separate place: s 14(5). 'Department' may include an administrative as well as a physical or topographical division: Decision R(U)23/64. The onus is on the claimant to show that he works in a separate department (Decision R(U)1(70)) which may be more difficult in the case of an integrated plant (Decision R(U)4/62; see also Decisions R(U)24/57, R(U)4/58 and R(U)3/62).

4 As to entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance see PARA 259 et seq ante.

5 For the meaning of 'week' see PARA 273 note 3 ante.

6 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(1). The 'direct interest' proviso means that the disqualification can apply to employees not involved in the central dispute, but who are likely to be affected by the outcome of that dispute, not at a number of removes but virtually automatically: see Decision R(U)3/71, applied in Watt v Lord Advocate 1979 SC 120, 1979 SLT 137, Ct of Sess. There are two conditions for the disqualification to apply in such a case: (1) that the outcome of the dispute will be applied by the common employer not only to the group of workers belonging to the union participating in the dispute but also to the other groups of workers belonging to the other unions concerned; (2) this application of the outcome must come about automatically as a result of one of three things (a) a collective agreement which is legally binding; (b) a collective agreement which is not legally binding; or (c) established industrial custom and practice in the place of work concerned: see Presho v Insurance Officer [1984] AC 310 at 318, [1984] 1 All ER 97 at 101, HL, per Lord Brandon. A trade dispute does not have to be successful for there to be a direct interest; it is enough if there would have been a benefit to the claimant if the dispute had succeeded: Decision R(U)8/80.

7 See Cartlidge v Chief Adjudication Officer [1986] QB 360, [1986] 2 All ER 1, CA; this was applied to a casual worker in Decision R(U)12/80. A period of lay-off following a strike while a furnace had to be repaired due to the strike was held to be still a stoppage due to a trade dispute: see R v Chief National Insurance Comr, ex p Dawber, DC (reported as an appendix to Decision R(U)9/80).

8 Decision R(U)25/57.

9 In such a case the proximate cause of the claimant's loss of employment becomes the closure, not the dispute which may have caused it: Decision R(U)15/80.

10 This is because the 'direct interest' proviso is not restricted to only one application at the beginning of the dispute, but can also apply at its ending: Decision R(U)5/86, disapproving Decision R(U)4/79. The result is that once the claimant has been permanently dismissed he is no longer directly interested in the dispute and so can take advantage of the proviso: Decision R(U)1/87, where it was said with regard to resignation as opposed to dismissal that 'It seems to be immaterial whether the employment is terminated by the employee or the employer in so far as participation and direct interest are concerned'.

11 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(3)(a). 'Bona fide' here means genuine employment, not taken up just to evade the disqualification; it does not import a requirement that the replacement employment be permanent or long-term: Decision R(U)6/74 (work of a finite nature to dismantle certain equipment was held to qualify).

12 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(3)(b). 'Redundancy' here means redundancy within the meaning of the Employment Rights Act 1996 s 139(1): Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14(3)(b) (amended by the Employment Rights Act 1996 s 240, Sch 1 para 67(1), (2)). This provision was introduced to mitigate the harsh effects in a redundancy case of Cartlidge v Chief Adjudication Officer [1986] QB 360, [1986] 2 All ER 1, CA, cited in note 7 supra.

258-329 Jobseeker's Allowance

For the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

The 'self-employment route' means assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in (1) an employment zone programme; or (2) a programme provided or other arrangements made pursuant to the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2: SI 1996/207 reg 1(3) (amended by SI 2000/2910, SI 2001/652, SI 2001/1029, SI 2002/1411, SI 2004/963). Further, for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

302. Trade disputes; effect on other claimants.

In relation to a claimant for an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup> where a member of his family<sup>2</sup> ('A') is or would be prevented by the trade dispute provisions<sup>3</sup> from being entitled<sup>4</sup> to a jobseeker's allowance, for the purposes of calculating the claimant's entitlement to an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>5</sup>:

- 902 (1) any portion of the applicable amount<sup>6</sup> which is included in respect of A is to be disregarded<sup>7</sup>;
- 903 (2) where the claimant and A are a married or unmarried couple<sup>8</sup>, any portion of the applicable amount included in respect of them is to be reduced by one half for the period for which these provisions apply to the claimant<sup>9</sup>;
- 904 (3) there is to be treated as part of the claimant's income any amount which becomes available, or would become available on application duly made, to A by way of an income tax refund<sup>10</sup>, and any other payment which the claimant and any member of his family receives or is entitled to obtain because A is without employment for that period<sup>11</sup>;
- 905 (4) any payment by way of a jobseeker's allowance for that period or any part of it which would otherwise be made to the claimant must not be made, if the weekly rate of payment ('the rate') would be equal to or less than the prescribed sum<sup>12</sup>, and must be at a weekly rate equal to the difference between the rate and the prescribed sum, if the rate would be more than the prescribed sum<sup>13</sup>.

These restrictions do not apply in certain prescribed circumstances<sup>14</sup>.

Where A returns to work with the same employer after a period during which these restrictions applied to the claimant (whether or not his return is before the end of any stoppage of work in relation to which he is, or would be, prevented from being entitled to an allowance), the restrictions cease to apply to the claimant at the commencement of the day on which A returns to work<sup>15</sup>.

9 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 15(1), (2)(b). Where a reduction under s 15(2)(b) would not produce a sum which is a multiple of 5 pence, the reduction must be to the nearest lower sum which is such a multiple: s 15(3).

10 le by way of repayment of income tax deducted from A's emoluments in pursuance of the Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 s 203 (as amended) (PAYE: see INCOME TAXATION vol 23(1) (Reissue) PARA 754 et seq); Jobseekers Act 1995 s 15(2)(c).

11 Ibid s 15(1), (2)(c).

12 Where an order made under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 150 (as amended) (annual up-rating of benefits: see PARA 17 ante) has the effect of increasing the sum prescribed in regulations made under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 4(5) (see PARA 272 ante) as the personal allowance for a single person aged not less than 25 ('the personal allowance'), then for the sum prescribed in regulations made under s 15(2)(d) there must be substituted, from the time when the order comes into force, a sum arrived at by increasing the prescribed sum by the percentage by which the personal allowance has been increased by the order; and if the sum so arrived at is not a multiple of 50 pence, then any remainder of 25 pence or less must be disregarded and any remainder of more than 25 pence must be rounded up to the nearest 50 pence: s 15(6)-(8). The order must state the sum substituted for the sum prescribed in regulations made under s 15(2)(d); but nothing in s 15(7) prevents the making of further regulations under s 15(2)(d) varying the prescribed sum: s 16(9), (10). At the date at which this volume states the law, the prescribed sum was £26.50: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 172 (subject to frequent amendment). The origin of this 'prescribed sum' was to reflect notional strike pay, to put pressure on trade unions to make such payments, since it is deductible whether or not such payments are actually made (and even in a case where a union cannot make such payments, eg due to a sequestration of assets as in R v Chief Adjudication Officer, ex p Bland (1985) Times 6 February, DC). Any payments actually made by a trade union are disregarded when calculating income: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, Sch 7 para 36.

13 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 15(1), (2)(d). In relation to any period of less than a week, s 15(2) has effect subject to such modifications as may be prescribed: s 15(5). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 21 note 12 ante.

the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

(ii) Temporary Disqualifications

303. In general.

The temporary disqualifications, like the trade disputes provisions<sup>1</sup> largely taken from the previous law on unemployment benefit, exist primarily to protect the principle that only the involuntarily unemployed should have call on the National Insurance Fund<sup>2</sup>, though under the modern jobseeker's allowance legislation they are also used to enforce the requirements of undertaking training<sup>3</sup> and complying with jobseeker's directions<sup>4</sup>. The disqualifications fall into two categories, those carrying fixed periods of disqualification<sup>5</sup> and those carrying discretionary periods, up to a maximum of 26 weeks<sup>6</sup>. The latter category contains the two most controversial areas in practice, leading to the most appeals, namely disqualification for misconduct or for voluntary leaving without just cause. The question of the appropriate length of a discretionary disqualification period (as with the question of 'good cause' under several of the disqualifications) is primarily a question of fact in each case, but the modern tendency has been to seek to lay down factors which may or may not be relevant (though seldom to do so exclusively)<sup>7</sup>. Exceptional cases are established, in particular the provisions allowing certain claimants to take employment on, in effect, a trial basis and allowing them to leave if necessary without incurring a disqualification<sup>8</sup>. To avoid destitution in a disqualification case, the claimant is permitted to claim an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>9</sup> (covering any family responsibilities too), though this operates through the 'hardship' provisions and so is subject to a reduction in amount<sup>10</sup>.

304. Disqualification for a fixed period.

- 906 (1) has, without good cause<sup>4</sup>, refused or failed to carry out any jobseeker's direction<sup>5</sup> which was reasonable, having regard to his circumstances<sup>6</sup>;
- 907 (2) has, without good cause:

Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, SI 1996/207, reg 75(1)(a) (amended by SI 1997/367). In relation to persons to whom the Jobseeker's Allowance (Project Work Pilot Scheme) (No 2) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/984, reg 3 applies, 'employment programme' also includes Project Work: see reg 4. 8 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(1), (2), (5)(b).

NOTE 2--The prescribed period, for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 ss 19(2), 20A(3) (see PARA 304A), is (1) two weeks, in any case which does not fall within head (2), (3), (4), (5) or (6); (2) four weeks, in any case (other than a case where a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable in circumstances relating to the employment programme known as 'Gateway to Work' (see NOTE 7) or a case which falls within head (6) in which (a) a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c); and (b) one of the following circumstances applies, that is to say (i) where the determination in head (2)(a) does not relate to one of the New Deal options or the Intensive Activity Period (see PARA 261), or the Flexible New Deal, on a previous occasion the jobseeker's allowance was determined not to be payable to him in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c), or (ii) where the determination in head (2)(a) relates to one of the New Deal options, on a previous occasion the jobseeker's allowance was determined not to be payable to him in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) that relate to one of those options, or (iii) where the determination in head (2)(a) above relates to the Intensive Activity Period, on a previous occasion the jobseeker's allowance was determined not to be payable to him in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) that relate to any Intensive Activity Period, or (iv) where the determination in head (2)(a) relates to the Flexible New Deal, on a previous occasion the jobseeker's allowance was determined not to be payable to him in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) that relate to any element of that programme; and (c) the first date on which the jobseeker's allowance was not payable to him on that previous occasion falls within the period of 12 months preceding the date of the determination mentioned in head (2)(a); (3) 26 weeks in any case (other than a case where a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable in circumstances relating to the employment programme known as 'Gateway to Work' in which (a) a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and the determination relates to an act or omission in respect of one of the New Deal options; and (b) on two or more previous occasions a jobseeker's allowance has been determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and each such determination relates to one of the New Deal options; and (c) no more than 12 months have elapsed between the beginning of the day on which the determination mentioned in head (3)(a) is made and the beginning of the first day on which a jobseeker's allowance was not payable to the claimant as a result of the determination which most recently preceded it whether the preceding determination is either a determination falling within head (2)(a) to which the circumstances in head (2)(b)(ii) apply, or is itself an earlier determination falling within head (3)(a); (4) 26 weeks in any case (other than a case where a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable in circumstances relating to the employment programme known as 'Gateway to Work') in which (a) a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and the determination relates to an act or omission in respect of the Intensive Activity Period, and (b) on two or more previous occasions a jobseeker's allowance has been determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and each such determination relates to any Intensive Activity Period, and (c) no more than 12 months have elapsed between the beginning of the day on which the determination mentioned in head (4)(a) is made and the beginning of the first day on which a jobseeker's allowance was not payable to the claimant as a result of the determination which most recently preceded it whether the preceding determination is either (i) a determination falling within head (2)(a) to which the circumstances in head (2)(b)(iii) apply, or (ii) itself an earlier determination falling within head (4)(a); (5) subject to SI 1996/206 reg 69(1A), 26 weeks in any case (other than a case where a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable in circumstances relating to the employment programme known as 'Gateway to Work' in which (a) a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and the determination relates to an act or omission in respect of the Flexible New Deal; and (b) on two or more previous occasions a jobseeker's allowance has been determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within s 19(5) or 20A(2)(a)-(c) and each such determination relates to the Flexible New Deal; and (c) no more than 12 months have elapsed between the beginning of the day on which the determination mentioned in head (5)(a) is made and the beginning of the first day on which a jobseeker's allowance was not payable to the claimant as a result of the determination which most recently preceded it whether the preceding determination is either a determination falling within head (2)(b)(i) to which the circumstances in head (2)(b)(iv) apply, or itself an earlier determination falling within head (5)(a); (6) one week in a case where a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable in circumstances relating to a Back to Work Session; and falling within s 19(5)(a) or 20A(2)(a): SI 1996/207 reg 69(1) (reg 69 substituted by SI 2000/239; and amended by SI 2000/1370, SI 2000/1978, SI 2001/1029, SI 2009/480, SI 2009/2710). 'Back to Work Session' means a seminar or appointment referred to as 'a Back to Work Session' arranged by or on behalf of the Secretary of State, the purpose of which is to provide a person who attends with information, support and advice with a view to assisting him to find employment or to improve his chances of finding employment: SI 1996/207 reg 1(3) (definition added by SI 2009/480).

Where the Secretary of State is satisfied that the claimant has complied with the condition in SI 1996/207 reg 69(1B), head (5) applies as if the reference to 26 weeks were a reference to either 4 weeks, or the period beginning on the day specified in SI 1996/207 reg 69(2) and ending on the last day of the benefit week in which the claimant complies with the condition, whichever is the longer: reg 69(1A) (reg 69(1A), (1B) added by SI 2009/2710). The condition is that, after the date on which the determination mentioned in head (5)(a) is made, the claimant agrees in writing to undertake the activities specified in an action plan prepared in relation to the claimant: SI 1996/207 reg 69(1B).

The prescribed period begins where, in accordance with the Social Security (Claims and Payments Regulations) 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 26A(1), a jobseeker's allowance is paid otherwise than fortnightly in arrears, on the day following the end of the last benefit week in respect of which that allowance was paid, and, in any other case, on the first day of the benefit week following the date on which a jobseeker's allowance is determined not to be payable: SI 1996/207 reg 69(2). In a case falling within head (3) or (4) in which (A) for the first time a determination is made that for a period of 26 weeks a jobseeker's allowance is not payable to the claimant; and (B) no further such determination is made; and (C) the Secretary of State gives notice in writing to the claimant that he is no longer required to participate in any of the New Deal options or the Intensive Activity Period, or the Flexible New Deal, an income-based jobseeker's allowance is payable to the claimant during the specified period even though the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19 or 20A would otherwise prevent the payment of such an allowance: SI 1996/207 reg 69(3). The 'specified period' begins on either the day specified in a notice by the Secretary of State as being the day on which the claimant is or was no longer required to participate in any of the New Deal options, the Intensive Activity Period, or the Flexible New Deal, or the day four weeks after the first day on which a jobseeker's allowance was not payable as a result of the first determination mentioned in reg 69(3), whichever is the later; ends on the last day when a jobseeker's allowance was not payable as a result of the first determination mentioned in reg 69(3); but does not include any period during which a jobseeker's allowance is again determined not to be payable to the claimant in circumstances falling within the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(5) or (6) or 20A(2): SI 1996/207 reg 69(4). Regulation 69 is modified in relation to persons participating in the Jobseeker Mandatory Activity Pilot: see the Jobseeker's Allowance (Jobseeker Mandatory Activity) Pilot Regulations 2007, SI 2007/1082.

For the purposes of specified legislation, a person using facilities provided in pursuance of the employment programme known as the Flexible New Deal and receiving or entitled to receive a training allowance in connection with the use of those facilities (which include the provision of services) is to be treated for certain purposes as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and any payment made to such a person in connection with the use of those facilities, except a trading payment, is to be treated as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: Flexible New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2009, SI 2009/1562.

NOTE 7--The only programmes now included in the definition of 'employment programme' are (1) Gateway to Work, being a programme of up to two weeks' duration, consisting of advice and assistance on job search activity and the development of job search skills; (2) any one of the following programmes, available only to persons aged 18 or over and less than 26 immediately prior to entry, known as (a) the Self-Employed Employment Option of the New Deal, being a programme lasting for up to 26 weeks and including assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment; (b) the Voluntary Sector Option of the New Deal, being a programme lasting for up to six months and including employed earner's employment or a work placement combined in either case with training, support and job search; (c) the Environment Task Force Option of the New Deal, being a programme lasting for up to six months and including employed earner's employment or a work placement combined in either case with training, support and job search; (3) employment zone programme, being a programme established by the Secretary of State pursuant to Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 s 60 (see PARA 310A) for an employment zone designed to assist claimants for a jobseeker's allowance to obtain sustainable employment and subject to the Employment Zones Regulations 2000, SI 2000/721 (revoked) or the Employment Zones Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2438; (4) the Intensive Activity Period, that is to say, the programme known by that name and provided in pursuance of arrangements made by or on behalf of the Secretary of State under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2, being a programme lasting for up to 52 weeks for any one individual aged 25 years or over and less than 60 years, and consisting of any one or more of the following elements, namely assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment, education and training, work experience, assistance with job search, motivation and skills training; (5) the Flexible New Deal, being the programme known by that name and provided pursuant to arrangements made by the Secretary of State or on his behalf under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2, which lasts for up to 78 weeks for any individual and consisting for that individual of one or more of the following elements, (a) assisting in the completion of an action plan to record the activity that he will undertake while attending the programme in order to improve his employment prospects or to obtain employment; (b) a work placement, training or other work-related activity lasting for a continuous period of at least four weeks; (c) other work experience or training, guidance, support, motivation, assistance with job search or in pursuing self-employed earner's employment or other activity designed to assist him to select, train for, obtain and retain suitable employment: SI 1996/207 reg 75(1)(a) (amended by SI 1997/2863, SI 1998/1698, SI 1998/1174, SI 2000/721, SI 2000/1370, SI 2001/1029, SI 2002/2314, SI 2003/2438, SI 2004/959, SI 2006/909, SI 2007/1316, SI 2009/480).

In the definition of 'training scheme' for 'provided in England and Wales ... other name)' read 'secured by the Learning and Skills Council for England or by the Welsh Ministers'; and for 'directly or indirectly' read 'provided directly or indirectly'; and before 'Scottish Enterprise' add 'Skills Development Scotland': SI 1996/207 reg 75(1)(b) (amended by SI 1998/1698, SI 2001/652, SI 2005/3238, SI 2008/3157, SI 2009/583). 'Training scheme' also includes (A) the scheme, available only to persons aged 18 or over and less than 26 immediately prior to entry, known as the Full-Time Education and Training Option of the New Deal, being a scheme lasting for up to one year and including some or all of the following, namely education, training, work experience and support in job search skills; and (B) for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 ss 19(5)(b)(iii), (iv), (c), 20A(2)(b)(iii) in relation to a person who has been treated as available for employment to any extent under SI 1996/207 reg 17A(3) (see PARA 281A), the qualifying course in respect of which he has been so treated: reg 75(1)(b) (amended by SI 1997/2863, SI 1998/1274).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(5) DISQUALIFICATIONS AND SANCTIONS/(ii) Temporary Disqualifications/304A. Denial or reduction of joint-claim jobseeker's allowance.

304A. Denial or reduction of joint-claim jobseeker's allowance.

Provision is made in relation to a member of a joint-claim couple<sup>1</sup> if that member of the couple (1) has, without good cause, refused or failed to carry out any jobseeker's direction which was reasonable, having regard to his circumstances; (2) has, without good cause (a) neglected to avail himself of a reasonable opportunity of a place on a training scheme<sup>2</sup> or employment programme<sup>3</sup>; (b) after a place on such a scheme or programme has been notified to him by an employment officer as vacant or about to become vacant, refused or failed to apply for it or to accept it when offered to him; (c) given up a place on such a scheme or programme; or (d) failed to attend such a scheme or programme on which he has been given a place; (3) has lost his place on such a scheme or programme through misconduct; (4) has lost his employment<sup>4</sup> as an employed earner through misconduct; (5) has voluntarily left such employment without just cause; (6) has, without good cause, after a situation in any employment has been notified to him by an employment officer as vacant or about to become vacant, refused or failed to apply for it or to accept it when offered to him; or (7) has, without good cause, neglected to avail himself of a reasonable opportunity of employment<sup>5</sup>. Such a member of a joint-claim couple is subject to sanctions<sup>6</sup>. Where this provision applies to a member of a joint-claim couple by virtue of any of heads (1) to (3) above, the period for which he is to be subject to sanctions is such period (of at least one week<sup>7</sup> but not more than 26 weeks) as may be prescribed<sup>8</sup>. Where this provision applies to a member of a joint-claim couple by virtue only of any of heads (4) to (7) above, the period for which he is to be subject to sanctions is such period (of at least one week but not more than 26 weeks) as may be determined by the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup>. Even though the conditions for entitlement to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance<sup>10</sup> are satisfied in relation to a joint-claim couple (a) the allowance is not payable for any period during which both members of the couple are subject to sanctions; and (b) the amount of the allowance payable in respect of the couple for any period during which only one member of the couple is subject to sanctions is reduced to an amount calculated by the prescribed method ('the reduced amount')<sup>11</sup>. The method prescribed for calculating the reduced amount may, in particular, involve (i) deducting amounts from, or making percentage reductions of, the amount which would be the amount of the allowance if neither member of the couple were subject to sanctions; (ii) disregarding portions of the applicable amount; (iii) treating amounts as being income or capital of the couple<sup>12</sup>. During any period for which the amount of a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance payable in respect of a joint-claim couple is the reduced amount, the allowance is payable to the member of the couple who is not subject to sanctions<sup>13</sup>. Certain provisions of the general rules relating to the circumstances in which a jobseeker's allowance is not payable apply subject to modifications<sup>14</sup>.

The provision above<sup>15</sup> is not to be taken to apply to a member of a joint-claim couple merely because he has refused to seek or accept employment in a situation which is vacant in consequence of a stoppage of work due to a trade dispute<sup>16</sup> and nor does it apply to a member of a joint-claim couple by virtue of any of heads (1)-(3) above if (A) a severe hardship direction is in force<sup>17</sup> with respect to that member of the couple; and (B) he has acted in such a way as to risk either having that direction revoked<sup>18</sup>, or having the amount of the couple's entitlement to a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance reduced<sup>19</sup>. Regulations must make provision for the purpose of enabling any person of a prescribed description to accept any employed earner's employment without the provision above applying to him by virtue of head (5) or (7) above should he leave that employment voluntarily and without just cause at any time during a trial period<sup>20</sup>. In such circumstances as may be prescribed, a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance is payable in respect of a joint-claim couple even though head (a) above prevents payment of such a jobseeker's allowance to the couple<sup>21</sup>. Regulations may make provision for determining, for these purposes, the day on which a person's employment is to be regarded as commencing<sup>22</sup>.

A person is of a prescribed description for the purposes of s 20B(3) and does not fall within s 20A(2)(e) or (g) (see TEXT AND NOTE 5) if he has neither worked in employed earner's employment, nor has been a self-employed earner, nor been a full-time student nor been in relevant education, during the period of 13 weeks preceding the day of the commencement of the employment; for these purposes, a person will not be regarded as having (1) worked in employed earner's employment; or (2) been a self-employed earner; or (3) been a full-time student or been in relevant education, by reason only of any engagement in the manning or launching of a lifeboat, the performance of duty as a part-time member of a fire brigade or by his attendance for a period of up to 14 days at a work camp: SI 1996/207 reg 74(1)-(3) (amended by SI 2000/1978). A trial period in the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 20B(3) means a period of eight weeks beginning with the commencement of the fifth week of the employment in question and ending at the end of the twelfth week of that employment and for the purposes of this definition in determining the time at which the fifth week of the employment in question commences or at which the twelfth week of that employment ends, any week in which a person has not worked in the employment for at least 16 hours must be disregarded: SI 2000/1978 reg 74(4) (amended by SI 2000/1978).

21 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 20B(4). A jobseeker's allowance is payable by virtue of s 20B(4) only if the couple have complied with such requirements as to the provision of information as may be prescribed: s 20B(5). Regulations under s 20B(4) may, in particular, provide for a jobseeker's allowance payable by virtue of s 20B(4) to be (1) payable at a prescribed rate; (2) payable for a prescribed period (which may differ from the period during which both members of the couple are subject to sanctions for the purposes of s 20A): s 20B(6).

UPDATE

258-329 Jobseeker's Allowance

For the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self-employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. The 'self-employment route' means assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in (1) an employment zone programme; or (2) a programme provided or other arrangements made pursuant to the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2: SI 1996/207 reg 1(3) (amended by SI 2000/2910, SI 2001/652, SI 2001/1029, SI 2002/1411, SI 2004/963). The 'intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

304-306 Disqualification for a fixed period ... The period of disqualification

For regulations made under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19 see the Employment Zones Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2438; and PARA 310A.

Subject to the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 20A(9) (see PARA 304A), s 19 does not apply as regards a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance (but ss 20A, 20B (see PARA 304A) make, in relation to such an allowance, provision corresponding to that made by ss 19, 20): s 19(1A) (added by the Welfare Reform and Pensions Act 1999 Sch 7 paras 1, 12).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(5) DISQUALIFICATIONS AND SANCTIONS/(ii) Temporary Disqualifications/305. Disqualification for a discretionary period.

- 909 (1) has lost his employment<sup>5</sup> as an employed earner<sup>6</sup> through misconduct<sup>7</sup>;
- 910 (2) has voluntarily left<sup>8</sup> such employment without just cause<sup>9</sup>;
- 911 (3) has, without good cause<sup>10</sup>, after a situation has been notified to him by an employment officer<sup>11</sup> as vacant or about to become vacant, refused or failed to apply for it or to accept it when offered to him<sup>12</sup>; or
- 912 (4) has, without good cause, neglected to avail himself of a reasonable opportunity of employment<sup>13</sup>.

2 For these purposes, 'week' means any period of seven consecutive days: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 75(2).

3 As to the factors to be taken into consideration in determining the length of the disqualification see PARA 306 post. For the meaning of 'adjudication officer' see PARA 263 note 4 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'claimant' see PARA 260 note 1 ante.

5 The use of the broad phrase 'lost his employment' means that this head can cover not just dismissal but also certain cases of voluntary leaving, in particular a resignation as an alternative to impending dismissal: Decision R(U)17/64; R(U)2/76. To this extent there may be some overlap with the disqualification in head (2) in the text (voluntary leaving without just cause), placing the emphasis on whether a causal link with misconduct has been shown: see Decision R(U)14/57. This means that on appeal against a disqualification on one ground, the other may also be considered; if, however, this is done the tribunal must make the change particularly clear to the appellant: Decision R(U)2/71.

6 For the meaning of 'employed earner' see PARA 32 ante.

7 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(1), (3), (6)(a). Misconduct is not statutorily defined. The leading commissioner's decision states that it means conduct which is causally but not necessarily directly connected with employment, and having regard to the relationship of employer and employee and the rights and duties of both, can fairly be said to be blameworthy, reprehensible and wrong: Decision R(U)2/77. Normally it will refer to misconduct at work (where it may cover neglect as well as deliberate conduct: Decision R(U)8/57) but it can also apply to misconduct outside working hours if that misconduct impinges on the claimant's continued suitability for the job (Decision R(U)1/71 (gardener disqualified after dismissal for sexual offence outside his employment)); this may be particularly the case with an offence of dishonesty outside employment (Decisions R(U)10/53; R(U)20/59). A similar rule operates in the law of unfair dismissal: see EMPLOYMENT vol 40 (2009) PARA 735. A finding of an industrial tribunal in an unfair dismissal action concerning the same alleged misconduct may be relevant, but not binding (Decisions R(U)2/74; R(U)4/78); different issues may arise in each context, and so in this social security context it is better to avoid terms such as 'proper dismissal' or 'unfair dismissal' (Decision R(U)3/79). As the Civil Evidence Act 1968 s 11(2) does not apply to tribunals, a criminal conviction for the same misconduct is not binding by statute, but it has been held that a similar principle should apply by analogy, so that such a conviction (once proved by the adjudication officer) should have a strong bearing on the claim and shifts the burden of proof to the claimant to show, on a balance of probabilities, that he is entitled to the benefit: Decision R(S)2/80.

As a matter of timing, the misconduct must occur during the employment; in Decision R(U)26/56 an accountant committed fraud and was convicted of it before taking up the employment and when this was discovered and he was dismissed he was not subject to disqualification. This would also apply where the misconduct took place before the employment began but the conviction (on which he was dismissed) occurred during the employment: Decision R(U)1/58.

There are many reported decisions on specific types of misconduct, but ultimately these are a question of fact for the adjudicating authorities; moreover, where misconduct is established there is still much scope for argument and discretion as to the length of disqualification which that particular misconduct merits: see PARA 306 post.

8 The burden of proof is on the adjudication officer to prove the voluntary leaving, then on the claimant to show just cause: Decision R(U) 20/64. Voluntary leaving will usually take the form of resignation, but may in certain circumstances be more widely construed to cover cases where the employee brought termination on himself (Decision R(U)16/52), but it was later held that such cases must be treated restrictively since they involve an extension of the statutory language (see Decision R(U)2/77, particularly the review of the previous case law in PARAS 24-27). Resignation in the face of imminent dismissal may not be voluntary leaving: see note 5 supra. On the other hand, where the employee gives notice and the employer terminates the employment before expiry of that notice, that will probably still constitute voluntary leaving: Decision R(U)2/54, applied in Decision CU/151/1993.

The previous voluntary leaving provisions caused problems in the context of early leaving or retirement schemes, where the volunteer would normally be disqualified even though the leaving was in practice at the behest of the employer: Crewe v Social Security Comr [1982] 2 All ER 745, [1982] 1 WLR 1209, CA (though cf Decision R(U)1/83 where there was ad hoc pressure on one individual to leave, not as part of a scheme). In such circumstances as may be prescribed, however, including in particular where he has been dismissed by his employer by reason of redundancy within the meaning of the Employment Rights Act 1996 s 139(1) after volunteering or agreeing to be so dismissed, a person who might otherwise be regarded as having left his employment voluntarily is to be treated as not having left voluntarily: Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(7) (amended by the Employment Rights Act 1996 s 240, Sch 1 para 67(1), (2)). A claimant is not to be treated as having left his employment voluntarily (1) where he has been dismissed by his employer by reason of redundancy within the Employment Rights Act 1996 s 139(1) after volunteering or agreeing to be so dismissed; (2) where he has left his employment on a date agreed with his employer without being dismissed in pursuance of an agreement relating to voluntary redundancy; or (3) where he has been laid off or kept on short time (to the extent specified in s 148) and has complied with the requirements of s 148: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 71 (amended by SI 1996/1516). For the definition of redundancy and the rules on lay off and short time see EMPLOYMENT vol 40 (2009) PARAS 825, 830. The Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 71 (as amended) applies where employer and employee mutually agree severance, as well as where the employee is formally dismissed for redundancy: see Decision R(U)3/91.

9 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(6)(b). Regulations may (1) prescribe matters which are, or are not, to be taken into account in determining whether a person has, or does not have, good cause for any act or omission, or has, or does not have, just cause for any act or omission; or (2) prescribe circumstances in which a person is, or is not, to be regarded as having, or not having, good cause for any act or omission, or is, or is not, to be regarded as having, or not having, just cause for any act or omission; and subject to any such regulations, in determining whether a person has, or does not have, good cause or (as the case may be) just cause for any act or omission, any matter relating to the level of remuneration in the employment in question must be disregarded: s 19(8), (9). Apart from that statutory provision, the matter is principally one of fact for the statutory authorities; it is not practicable to lay down any hard and fast rules and each case must depend on its own circumstances: Decision R(U)14/52. The general principles are set out in extenso in Decision R(U)20/64, in which it was held that the disqualification requires a balance to be struck between the needs of the claimant and the interest of the National Insurance Fund and other contributors; thus, acting reasonably in his own interests (or even those of the employer) is not sufficient: see Crewe v Social Security Comr [1982] 2 All ER 745, [1982] 1 WLR 1209, CA. The test is a stringent one, and it has also been explained on the basis that just cause means having virtually no alternative but to leave (on the insurance analogy of a person who throws his baggage overboard to make room in a lifeboat being able to claim on his baggage insurance): Decision R(U)4/87. Normally a person leaving without other employment organised will have difficulty showing just cause, though (as with everything else) this is not a rule and there may be just cause if the new employment seemed certain but then fell through (though it is otherwise if the claimant merely thought he had good prospects of another job when he left): Decision R(U)20/64. Some feature of the existing employment may justify leaving immediately (Decisions R(U)15/53; R(U)38/53; R(U)18/57), but it must be pressing (such as where the employer threatens to break his contract, eg by imposing a change of terms or requiring work which is not under the contract: Decisions R(U)15/53; R(U)18/57). A similar approach applies in relation to pressing personal circumstances (Decisions R(U)14/52; R(U)19/52; R(U)31/59); the health of the claimant or someone living with him may be a factor in such cases (Decision R(U)20/64). To encourage a person to take up and try employment which may be suitable without running the risk of being disqualified under this heading if it proves to be unsuitable and the claimant leaves, a statutory trial period has been introduced: see PARA 308 post.

258-329 Jobseeker's Allowance

For the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3) (art 2 substituted by SI 1998/1425), Schedule. See further PARA 31-46.

Also for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 2 April 1999, a person is participating in the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus within the self-employment route and that person receives either a mandatory top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed and any such payments made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated as a grant and not as a training allowance: New Deal (25 plus) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1999, SI 1999/779, reg 2(1), (2), Schedule. The 'self-employment route' means assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in (1) an employment zone programme; or (2) a programme provided or other arrangements made pursuant to the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2: SI 1996/207 reg 1(3) (amended by SI 2000/2910, SI 2001/652, SI 2001/1029, SI 2002/1411, SI 2004/963). The 'intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995, the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, and the Jobseeker's Allowance (Transitional Provisions) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2567, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

306. The period of disqualification.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> may prescribe circumstances which an adjudication officer<sup>2</sup> is to take into account, and circumstances which he is not to take into account, in determining the length of a period of discretionary disqualification<sup>3</sup>. For those purposes, an adjudication officer is to take into account all the circumstances of the case and, in particular, the following circumstances:

- 913 (1) where the employment would have lasted less than 26 weeks, the length of time which it was likely to have lasted;
- 914 (2) in a misconduct case in which the employer has indicated an intention to re-engage the claimant, the date when he is to be re-engaged;
- 915 (3) where the claimant<sup>4</sup> has left employment voluntarily and the hours of work in that employment were 16 hours or less a week, the rate of pay and hours of work in the employment which he left; and
- 916 (4) where the claimant left his employment voluntarily or has neglected to avail himself of a reasonable opportunity of employment, any mitigating circumstances of physical or mental stress connected with his employment<sup>5</sup>.

Other than in relation to these specific provisions, the matter is a broad one of discretion for the statutory authorities, with scope for the consideration of mitigating factors which, although not sufficient to avoid a disqualification at all, may have an effect on the period that is considered appropriate<sup>6</sup>. On an appeal from a disqualification by an adjudication officer, a social security appeal tribunal may reconsider the question of the length of the disqualification, and is to give reasons for its decision<sup>7</sup>. Once a disqualification of a particular length is imposed, it continues to run for that length; if within that period the claimant gains new employment but then loses it again, he will still be disqualified until the terminal date of the original disqualification<sup>8</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(5) DISQUALIFICATIONS AND SANCTIONS/(ii) Temporary Disqualifications/307. Good cause.

307. Good cause.

For the purposes of deciding whether a person had good cause for refusing or failing to carry out a jobseeker's direction<sup>1</sup>, refusing or failing to apply for a job or refusing to accept it<sup>2</sup> or neglecting to avail himself of an opportunity of employment<sup>3</sup>, the matters which are to be taken into account include:

- 917 (1) any restrictions on availability which apply in the claimant's case, having regard to the extent of any disparity between those restrictions and the requirements of the vacancy in question<sup>4</sup>;
- 918 (2) any condition or personal circumstance of that person which indicates that a particular employment or carrying out a jobseeker's direction would be likely to, or did, cause significant harm to his health or subject him to excessive physical or mental stress;
- 919 (3) the fact that the failure to undertake a particular employment or to carry out the jobseeker's direction resulted from a religious or conscientious objection sincerely held;
- 920 (4) any caring responsibilities<sup>5</sup> making it unreasonable for the person to undertake a particular employment or carry out the jobseeker's direction;
- 921 (5) the time it took, or would normally take, for the person to travel from his home to the place of employment and back to his home by a route and means appropriate to his circumstances and to the employment or to the carrying out of the jobseeker's direction;
- 922 (6) the expenses which were or would be necessarily and exclusively incurred for the purposes of the employment or carrying out the jobseeker's direction (together with any travelling expenses) if those expenses did or would represent an unreasonably high proportion<sup>6</sup> of, in the case of employment, the remuneration which it is reasonable to expect that he would derive from it, or in any other case the income that he would receive while carrying out the jobseeker's direction<sup>7</sup>.

A person is not to be regarded as having good cause for those purposes if and to the extent that the reason for the act or omission in question relates to:

- 923 (a) his income or outgoings<sup>8</sup> (or those of any other member of the household<sup>9</sup>) or the income or outgoings which he or any other member of his household would have if he were to become employed or carry out the jobseeker's direction<sup>10</sup>;
- 924 (b) the time it took or would normally take for the person to travel from his home to the place of employment or a place mentioned in the jobseeker's agreement, and back to his home, where that time was or is normally less than one hour either way by a route and means appropriate to his circumstances and to the employment or direction, unless, in view of the health of the person or any caring responsibilities of his, that time was or is unreasonable<sup>11</sup>.

For the purposes of deciding whether a person had good cause in relation to refusal of, giving up or failure to attend a training scheme or employment programme<sup>12</sup>, a person is to be regarded as having good cause for any act or omission attributable to any of the following circumstances:

- 925 (i) the claimant was suffering from some disease or bodily or mental disablement on account of which he was not able to attend the relevant training scheme or employment programme in question or his attendance would have put at risk his health or the health of other persons;
- 926 (ii) the claimant's failure to participate resulted from a religious or conscientious objection sincerely held;
- 927 (iii) travelling time would have exceeded one hour in each direction (or, where no scheme or programme was available within one hour of his home, such greater time as was necessary in the particular circumstances of the nearest appropriate scheme or programme);
- 928 (iv) the claimant had caring responsibilities and no close relative<sup>13</sup> of the person he cared for and no other member of that person's household was available to care for him, and in the circumstances it was not practicable for the claimant to make other arrangements for the care of that person;
- 929 (v) the claimant was attending court as a party, witness or juror;
- 930 (vi) the claimant was arranging or attending the funeral of a close relative or close friend;
- 931 (vii) the claimant was engaged in the manning or launching of a lifeboat or the performance of duty as a part-time member of a fire brigade;
- 932 (viii) the claimant was required to deal with some domestic emergency;
- 933 (ix) the claimant was engaged during an emergency in duties for the benefit of others<sup>14</sup>;
- 934 (x) the claimant gave up a place on a training scheme or an employment programme and if he had continued to participate in it he would have, or would have been likely to have, put his health and safety at risk<sup>15</sup>.

As a general principle, and subject to any regulations to the contrary, in determining whether a person has, or does not have, good cause for any act or omission, any matter relating to the level of remuneration in the employment in question is to be disregarded<sup>16</sup>.

5 For the meaning of 'caring responsibilities' see PARA 277 note 1 ante.

6 For the purpose of applying this test, the principle is to apply that the greater the level of remuneration or income the higher the proportion thereof which it is reasonable should be represented by expenses: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 72(3).

7 See ibid reg 72(1), (2). A person who has undergone training for a particular kind of employment for at least two months has good cause for rejecting any other kind of employment for a period of four weeks beginning with the day on which the training ends: see reg 72(4). A person has good cause for any act or omission resulting from restriction on his availability under regs 16, 17 (as amended) (see PARAS 280, 284 ante) or from the fact that he is exempted from the availability requirement: see reg 72(5) (amended by SI 1997/454). A person is to be regarded as having good cause for any act or omission for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(6)(c), (d) if in a case where it has been agreed that the claimant may restrict his hours of availability to less than 24 hours a week, the employment in question is for less than 16 hours a week, or in any other case, the employment is for less than 24 hours a week: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 72(5A) (added by SI 1997/454; disappplied, in relation to certain persons undertaking a workskill course, by the Jobseeker's Allowance (Workskill Courses) Pilot (No 2) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/1909, reg 21(2)).

9 As to the members of a household see ibid reg 78 (as amended).

10 Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 72(6)(a). This does not apply where the claimant has agreed a restriction on the level of remuneration he was prepared to accept under regs 13(3), 16 (see PARAS 278, 280 ante), or where the employment is remunerated only by commission: reg 72(7).

11 Ibid reg 72(6)(b). With regard to good cause under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(6)(d) alone (neglect to avail) it is provided that there is to be no good cause if the situation is a 'qualifying former employment' of that person; this means where (1) it is an employment with an employer for whom he has previously worked (or with an employer who has succeeded that employer); (2) not more than 12 months have elapsed between the date when he last worked for that employer and the date of the conduct in question; and (3) the terms and conditions of employment in that situation are not less favourable than those in the situation which he held when he last worked for that employer: see reg 72(8), (9).

12 Ie for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 19(5)(b): see PARA 304 ante.

13 The prescribed meaning of 'close relative' (see PARA 277 note 1 ante) does not apply for these purposes: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 1(3).

14 For these purposes, a person is engaged in duties for the benefit of others while (1) providing assistance to any person whose life may be endangered or who may be exposed to the risk of serious bodily injury or whose health may be seriously impaired; (2) protecting property of substantial value from imminent risk of serious damage or destruction; or (3) assisting in measures being taken to prevent a serious threat to the health of the people, in each case as a member of a group of persons organised wholly or partly for the purpose of providing such assistance or, as the case may be, protection; and events which may give rise to an emergency include (a) a fire, flood or an explosion; (b) a natural catastrophe; (c) a railway or other transport accident; (d) a cave or mountain accident; (e) an accident at sea; (f) a person being reported missing and the organisation of a search for that person: ibid reg 73(3).

15 Ibid reg 73(1), (2) (amended by SI 1996/1516). Heads (i)-(x) in the text are without prejudice to any other circumstances in which a person may be considered to have good cause: Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 73(2) (as so amended). Additionally, a person to whom the Jobseeker's Allowance (Project Work Pilot Scheme) (No 2) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/984, regs 3, 4(2) apply is to be regarded as having good cause for any act or omission in relation to Project Work where there is no place available for him on Project Work or where he has already participated in Project Work for one continuous period of 13 weeks or two or more periods amounting in total to 13 weeks (reg 5); and a person to whom the Jobseeker's Allowance (Contract for Work) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/982, apply is to be regarded as having good cause for any act or omission in relation to Contract for Work where there is no place available for him on Contract for Work or he has already participated in Contract for Work for one continuous period of 26 weeks or for two or more periods amounting in total to 26 weeks (reg 6). ### 309. Benefit for those disqualified for jobseeker's allowance.

In such circumstances as may be prescribed<sup>1</sup>, an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>2</sup> is payable to a claimant<sup>3</sup> even though the disqualification provisions<sup>4</sup> prevent payment of a jobseeker's allowance to him<sup>5</sup>. A jobseeker's allowance is so payable only if the claimant has complied with such requirements as to the provision of information as may be prescribed for these purposes<sup>6</sup>. Regulations<sup>7</sup> under these provisions may, in particular, provide for a jobseeker's allowance so payable to be payable at a prescribed rate and for a prescribed period<sup>8</sup>.

Even though a person is disqualified for a jobseeker's allowance, there is provision for the payment of a reduced income-based jobseeker's allowance to him under the hardship provisions, provided that he continues to satisfy the conditions of entitlement to an income-based allowance<sup>9</sup>. If a person qualifies under one of the special categories as a 'person in hardship'<sup>10</sup> the reduced allowance may be paid immediately from the date of disqualification<sup>11</sup>; if he only qualifies under the general, residual category (where the adjudication officer is satisfied that the person will, unless an allowance is paid, suffer hardship)<sup>12</sup>, the reduced allowance is not payable in respect of the first 14 days of the period of disqualification<sup>13</sup>. The amount of the reduction is 40 per cent of the person's own appropriate personal allowance in the applicable amount, or 20 per cent where the claimant or any member of his family is either pregnant or seriously ill<sup>14</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(6) BACK TO WORK SCHEMES/(ii) The Back to Work Bonus/312. Qualification for the bonus.

312. Qualification for the bonus.

An applicant<sup>1</sup> who has served or is treating as having served a waiting period<sup>2</sup> is entitled to a bonus where he satisfies any one of four conditions<sup>3</sup>.

The first condition is that:

- 951 (1) he or his partner<sup>4</sup> has or had earnings of which a part only has been disregarded in determining the amount of those earnings for the purposes of a qualifying benefit<sup>5</sup>;
- 952 (2) he or his partner takes up or returns to or increases the number of hours in which he or his partner is engaged in employment, or the earnings from an employment in which he or his partner is engaged are increased ('the work condition'), as a result of which there is a cessation of an entitlement to a qualifying benefit (other than a partner's entitlement to a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance) in respect of himself, and where he has a partner, his family;
- 953 (3) he claims the bonus before the end of a period of 12 weeks immediately following that cessation; and
- 954 (4) in the case where the qualifying benefit was income support, he has not attained the day before the age of 60, or in a case where the qualifying benefit was a jobseeker's allowance, he has not attained the day before pensionable age, in either case as at the time the work condition was satisfied<sup>6</sup>.

The second condition is that:

- 955 (a) within 14 days of his ceasing to be entitled to a qualifying benefit he or his partner satisfies the work condition;
- 956 (b) had the work condition been satisfied on the day he was last so entitled, that entitlement would as a consequence have ceased;
- 957 (c) he satisfies heads (1) and (2) above in relation to the first condition; and
- 958 (d) he claims the bonus within 12 weeks of his ceasing to be entitled to a qualifying benefit<sup>7</sup>.

The third condition is that:

- 959 (i) within 12 weeks of ceasing to be entitled to a qualifying benefit or within 12 weeks of a connecting period ceasing, the applicant commences training;
- 960 (ii) within 14 days of the day he last attended training, he takes up or returns to or increases the number of hours in which he is engaged in employment, or where his hours fluctuate, is engaged on average, for not less than 16 hours per week, or he takes up employment or increases his earnings from his existing employment, as a result of which weekly earnings equal or exceed the amount of the training allowance payable to him in the last week of training;
- 961 (iii) he claims the bonus before the end of a period of 12 weeks immediately following the date on which the training ceased;
- 962 (iv) he satisfies head (1) above in relation to the first condition; and

- 963 (v) in a case where the qualifying benefit to which a person was entitled was income support, he satisfied the requirements in head (ii) above before he attained the age of 60, or in a case where the qualifying benefit was a jobseeker's allowance, he satisfied those requirements before he attained pensionable age<sup>8</sup>.

The fourth condition is that:

- 964 (A) the applicant was formerly one of a couple or of a polygamous marriage who have separated and the separation took place before the person attained the age of 60;
- 965 (B) at the date of separation, either the applicant or his partner was entitled to a qualifying benefit;
- 966 (C) within 14 days of the separation he takes up or returns to or increases the number of hours in which he is engaged in employment, or where his hours fluctuate, is engaged on average, for not less than 16 hours per week, or he takes up employment or increases his earnings from his existing employment, as a result of which his weekly earnings, had he been entitled to a qualifying benefit on the day of separation, equalled or exceeded the amount that would have been the applicable amount or the age-related amount in his case;
- 967 (D) he satisfies head (1) above in relation to the first condition; and
- 968 (E) he claims the bonus within 12 weeks of the day on which the separation occurred<sup>9</sup>.

A claim for a bonus must be made in writing on a form approved for the purpose by the Secretary of State and must be made (1) subject to reg 22(7), not earlier than the beginning of the benefit week which precedes the benefit week in which an award of a qualifying benefit comes to an end; and (2) subject to reg 23(5), not later than the end of the period of 12 weeks immediately following (a) in the case of a person who satisfies the third condition in reg 7 (see heads (i)-(v) in the text), the last day on which he was engaged in training; (b) in the case of a person to whom the fourth condition specified in reg 7 applies (couples who separate: see heads (A)-(E) in the text), the date of separation; (c) in the case of a person to whom reg 12 applies (couples who separate where the separated partner has attained the age of 60), the date of separation; (d) in the case of a person who has attained pensionable age (see PARA 562 post) or, where the qualifying benefit is income support the age of 60, the date he attained that age; (e) in any other case, the date on which entitlement to a qualifying benefit ceased on satisfaction of the work condition: reg 22(1). In the case of a person who ceases to be entitled to a qualifying benefit and again becomes entitled to a qualifying benefit in the same period of entitlement to a qualifying benefit, for the reference to 12 weeks in head (2) supra there must be substituted a reference to a period equal to the period falling between the last day of entitlement to the first qualifying benefit and the first day of entitlement to the second qualifying benefit: see reg 23(5).

A claim for a bonus must be delivered or sent to an office of the Department of Social Security or of the Department for Education and Employment: reg 22(2). If a claim is defective at the date when it is received, the Secretary of State may refer the claim to the person making it and if the form is received properly completed within one month, or such longer period as the Secretary of State may consider reasonable, from the date on which it is so referred, the Secretary of State may treat the claim as if it had been duly made in the first instance; and a claim which is made on the form approved for the time being is, for these purposes, properly completed if it is completed by the applicant in accordance with instructions on the form and defective if it is not: reg 22(3), (4). An applicant must furnish such certificates, documents, information and evidence in connection with the claim, or any question arising out of it, as may be required by the Secretary of State and must do so within one month of being required to do so or such longer period as the Secretary of State may consider reasonable: reg 22(5). In the case of a person who has served or is treated as having served a waiting period in accordance with reg 6(1) (waiting period) and is a member of a couple in respect of whom income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance is payable, the claim for the bonus must be made by the member of the couple entitled to the benefit: reg 22(6). A person who has an employment to take up, or whose earnings from, or the hours of, employment will increase, within 14 days of completing his training or the date of separation, and where that employment satisfies the requirements of reg 7(4)(b) or (5)(c), may make a claim for a bonus (i) in the case of a person who satisfies all the other requirements of the third condition specified in reg 7, up to 14 days before the day following the last day of attendance on the course; (ii) in the case of a person who satisfies all the other conditions of the fourth condition specified in reg 7, up to 13 days before the day on which he complies with the condition, but not before the day after the separation: reg 22(7).

A person who has made a claim may amend it at any time by notice in writing received at an appropriate office before a determination has been made on a claim, and any claim so amended may be treated as if it had been so amended in the first instance; and may withdraw it at any time before a determination has been made on it, by notice to the appropriate office, and any such notice of withdrawal must have effect when it is received: reg 23(1), (2).

The date on which the claim is made is, in the case of a claim which meets the requirements of reg 22(1), the date on which it is received at the appropriate office, or in the case of a claim treated under reg 22(3) as having been duly made, the date on which the claim was received in an appropriate office in the first place: reg 23(3). For these purposes, the 'appropriate office' means an office of the Department of Social Security or the Department for Education and Employment: reg 23(4).

Where the applicant proves there was good cause throughout the period from the expiry of the 12 weeks specified in reg 22(1) for failure to claim the bonus within the specified time, the time for claiming the bonus must be extended to the date on which the claim is made or to a period of 12 months, whichever is the shorter period: reg 23(6).

2 The waiting period is the period comprising the first 91 days in a period of entitlement to a qualifying benefit in which the claim for the bonus is made, or which precedes a claim made on resumption of work (see note 1 head (2) supra): ibid reg 6(2).

3 Ibid regs 6(1), 7(1). Where the adjudication officer is satisfied that a person satisfies, or will satisfy, the work condition or either of the requirements specified in reg 7(4)(b) or the requirements specified in reg 7(5)(c) he may award a bonus in advance of the condition or requirement being met; and if, having been awarded a bonus in advance in accordance with this provision, the person fails to satisfy the conditions, he is not entitled to any further bonus until he has served a further waiting period in accordance with reg 6: reg 25(1), (2).

4 'Partner' means where the person (1) is a member of a married or unmarried couple, the other member of that couple; (2) is married polygamously to two or more members of his household, any such member: see ibid reg 1(2).

7 Ibid reg 7(3).

315. The permitted deduction.

An employer<sup>1</sup> who employs a person who is a qualifying employee<sup>2</sup> in relation to him for a continuous period of at least 13 weeks, who has obtained a deductions certificate<sup>3</sup> and who is liable to pay Class 1 contributions<sup>4</sup> in respect of that employee is entitled to deduct an amount from his contributions payments<sup>5</sup>. The maximum period for the making of these deductions is one year, though the period ends before that if the employment ends or the qualifying employee reaches pensionable age<sup>6</sup>. Where such an amount has been deducted, that amount is to be treated as if it had been paid by the employer, and received by the Secretary of State, towards discharging the employer's liability in respect of his contributions<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'employer' see PARA 314 note 2 ante. Two employers may be treated as one if earnings are aggregated for contributions purposes: see the Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 11. If the qualifying employee works for more than one employer, only one (the first in point of time) may claim the deduction: see reg 10.

2 For the meaning of 'qualifying employee' see PARA 316 post.

3 An application for a deductions certificate must be in writing and must contain the following particulars: (1) the name and address of the person employing the qualifying employee; (2) the name and national insurance number of the qualifying employee; (3) the date the qualifying employee's employment with that person commenced: Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 7(1), (2). An application for a deductions certificate must be made to the Secretary of State before the end of the period commencing with the first day of the qualifying employee's employment with the employer and ending on the expiry of 52 weeks after that date; and 'week' means a period of seven consecutive days: regs 1(2), 7(3). On receipt of an application from a person employing a qualifying employee the Secretary of State must issue a deductions certificate and must certify on the deductions certificate that the person to whom it is issued is the employer entitled to make deductions in accordance with the Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195; and where an application is made after the specified period it may be accepted by the Secretary of State if the person applying for it proves that there was good cause for his failure to make the application within that period: reg 7(4), (5). A deductions certificate remains at all times the property of the Secretary of State; and the person who has been issued with it (a) is responsible for its custody; (b) must, within 28 days of receiving a request from the Secretary of State to do so, return the certificate to the Secretary of State unless he has reasonable cause for not so doing: reg 7(6)-(8). Where a deductions certificate has been lost or destroyed the Secretary of State may, at his discretion, issue a duplicate: reg 7(9). A person who contravenes or fails to comply with the requirements of reg 7(8) (see head (b) supra) is guilty of an offence: reg 12(1). The Jobseekers Act 1995 s 34(7) (see PARA 404 note 2 post) applies in relation to the original offence; and 'the original offence' has the meaning given to it in s 34(7): Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 11(2). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1 ante.

4 As to Class 1 contributions see PARA 34 et seq ante.

5 See the Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, regs 5(1), 8. For the meaning of 'contributions payments' see PARA 314 note 4 ante. The amount which may be deducted is: (1) where the Class 1 contributions are payable at the contracted-out rate (see PARAS 36 ante, 911 post), an amount equal to the amount of secondary Class 1 contributions which would be payable by that employer in respect of the earnings paid in the relevant period were those contributions payable at the non-contracted-out rate; (2) where they are payable at any other rate, an amount equal to the amount of secondary Class 1 contributions which would be payable by that employer in respect of the earnings paid in the relevant period: reg 5(2). No account is to be taken of any earnings paid to or for the benefit of the qualifying employee after the relevant period: reg 5(3). As to the relevant period see the text and note 6 infra.

The usual method is by direct deduction of the amount from the employer's contributions payments, but if in any particular income tax period the amount the employer is entitled to deduct exceeds the contributions payments due (or if no such payments are due at all) the employer may require the Secretary of State to pay him the balance: see reg 9. Special provisions apply in relation to a mariner's earnings paid for a voyage period: see reg 6.

6 See ibid reg 5(4). This period, which begins with the first day of the qualifying employee's employment with that employer, is referred to as 'the relevant period'. For the meaning of 'pensionable age' see PARA 562 post.

7 See the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 27(7).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(6) BACK TO WORK SCHEMES/(iii) Deductions by Employers for Employment of the Long-term Unemployed/316. Meaning of 'qualifying employee'.

An employee<sup>1</sup> is a 'qualifying employee' in relation to his employer<sup>2</sup> if, immediately before beginning his employment with that employer, he had been entitled<sup>3</sup> to a jobseeker's allowance for a continuous period of not less than two years<sup>4</sup>. The employee is also a qualifying employee if immediately before beginning his employment with that employer he had been unemployed for a continuous period of not less than two years<sup>5</sup>, he is under pensionable age<sup>6</sup> and he falls within a prescribed description of person<sup>7</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'employee' has such meaning as may be prescribed (Jobseekers Act 1995 s 27(8)); and means a person who is, or is treated as, an employed earner for the purposes of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 (see PARA 32 ante) and is over the age of 16: Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 1(2).

2 For the meaning of 'employer' see PARA 314 note 2 ante.

3 As to entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance see PARA 259 et seq ante.

4 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 27(1). Certain categories of person are treated as satisfying this qualification; in particular, a person is permitted to aggregate separate periods of entitlement to the allowance where they are separated by 'breaking periods' of not more than 12 successive weeks (or of jury service), and may count certain periods while undergoing training, while treated as available for work for income support purposes, while a carer or while a lone parent: see the Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 2.

5 Certain categories of person are treated as satisfying this qualification; in particular, a person is again permitted to aggregate separate periods of unemployment which are separated only by breaking periods (see note 4 supra); also, the period of unemployment is not to be broken by certain forms of work which are disregarded for certain benefit purposes: see ibid reg 3.

6 For the meaning of 'pensionable age' see PARA 562 post (definition applied by ibid reg 1(2)).

7 Jobseekers Act 1995 s 27(2). A person falls within a prescribed description if (1) he is in receipt of a qualifying benefit for a continuous period of not less than two years; and (2) continuously for the whole of that period he satisfied any one or more of the following conditions: (a) he is undergoing a course of training for which a training allowance is payable; (b) he was available or treated as available for employment under the Income Support (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1967, reg 9 (revoked) or under regulations made under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 25A(1)(a) (repealed); (c) he is a carer; (d) he is a lone parent: Employer's Contributions Reimbursement Regulations 1996, SI 1996/195, reg 4(1). For the purposes of head (1) supra in determining whether a person has been entitled to a qualifying benefit for any period, any benefit week on any day of which that person was entitled to unemployment benefit is to be treated as a period throughout which he was entitled to a qualifying benefit: reg 4(2). 'Qualifying benefit' here means the former unemployment benefit or income support: reg 1(2). In calculating the two years' continuous period, once again there can be aggregation of separate periods, separated only by breaking periods: see reg 4(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/10. JOBSEEKER'S ALLOWANCE/(7) SPECIAL PROVISIONS AND SPECIAL CATEGORIES/(i) Hardship Payments/321. Meaning of 'person in hardship'.

321. Meaning of 'person in hardship'.

A 'person in hardship' means a claimant<sup>1</sup> who comes within one of the following categories and in respect of whom the adjudication officer<sup>2</sup> is satisfied that hardship will be suffered if a jobseeker's allowance is not paid:

- 982 (1) a single woman who is pregnant and who will suffer hardship<sup>3</sup>;
- 983 (2) a single person who is responsible for a young person and the young person will suffer hardship<sup>4</sup>;
- 984 (3) a member of a married or unmarried couple<sup>5</sup> where the woman is pregnant and will suffer hardship<sup>6</sup>;
- 985 (4) a member of a polygamous marriage<sup>7</sup> and one member of the marriage is pregnant and will suffer hardship<sup>8</sup>;
- 986 (5) a member of a married or unmarried couple or of a polygamous marriage where one or both members of the couple, or one or more members of the polygamous marriage, is or are responsible for a child or young person and the child or young person will suffer hardship<sup>9</sup>;
- 987 (6) a person with an award of jobseeker's allowance including in his applicable amount<sup>10</sup> a disability premium, where that award is not payable either because it is suspended or because a disqualification is in operation and the person who would satisfy the conditions of entitlement to that premium would suffer hardship<sup>11</sup>;
- 988 (7) a person who suffers, or whose partner suffers, from a chronic medical condition which results in functional capacity being limited or restricted by physical impairment where the adjudication officer is satisfied that the suffering has already lasted or is likely to last for not less than 26 weeks and the health of the person suffering would, within two weeks of the adjudication officer making his decision, decline further than that of a normally healthy adult and that person would suffer hardship<sup>12</sup>;
- 989 (8) a person who devotes, or whose partner<sup>13</sup> devotes, a considerable portion of each week to caring for another person who receives or has claimed certain disability-based benefits and who does not reside in a residential care home or nursing home and the person providing the care will not be able to continue doing so<sup>14</sup>;
- 990 (9) a person, or the partner of a person, in respect of whom the Secretary of State<sup>15</sup> has made a severe hardship direction<sup>16</sup>;
- 991 (10) a person under the age of 18 to whom prescribed circumstances apply, or the partner of such a person, and the person will suffer hardship<sup>17</sup>.

More generally, a 'person in hardship' can simply mean a claimant, where the adjudication officer is satisfied that he or his partner will suffer hardship unless a jobseeker's allowance is paid to him<sup>18</sup>, but in such a case there are further restrictions on eligibility for a hardship payment<sup>19</sup>.

Under either definition, when an adjudication officer is determining whether a person will suffer hardship, the factors he is to take into account are:

- 992 (a) the presence in the claimant's family<sup>20</sup> of a person who satisfies the requirements for a disability premium or disabled child premium<sup>21</sup>;

- 993 (b) the resources which, without a jobseeker's allowance, are likely to be available to the claimant's family, the amount by which those resources fall short of the applicable amount in hardship cases, the amount of any resources which may be available to members of the claimant's family from any person in the claimant's household who is not a member of his family, and the length of time for which those factors are likely to persist;
- 994 (c) whether there is a substantial risk that essential items, including food, clothing, heating and accommodation, will cease to be available to the claimant or to a member of the claimant's family, or will be available at considerably reduced levels and the length of time that those factors are likely to persist<sup>22</sup>.

19 This is because such a person's entitlement is governed by ibid reg 142 (as amended) rather than reg 141 (as amended), and reg 142 (as amended) (although covering the same reasons for lack of normal entitlement: see PARA 320 ante) is subject to restrictions in each case that nothing is payable under it for the first 14 days of the relevant period.

321 Meaning of 'person in hardship'

TEXT AND NOTES--A claimant who is not a person in hardship by virtue of SI 1996/207 reg 140(4A) (see NOTE 18) is not a person in hardship throughout the period beginning on the day on which a New Deal decision has effect by virtue of reg 69 (see PARA 304) or, as the case may be, by virtue of the Social Security and Child Support (Decisions and Appeals) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/991, reg 7(8) and ending on the last day on which he is required to participate in a New Deal option, or on the day which is 14 days after the day on which the New Deal decision had effect, whichever is the later, or in the Intensive Activity Period (see PARA 304) or in the Flexible New Deal (see PARA 304): SI 1996/207 reg 140A(1) (amended by SI 2000/239, SI 2001/1029, SI 2009/480). However, a claimant to whom reg 140A(2) applies does not again become a person in hardship if a subsequent New Deal decision applies to the day after the expiry of that period, or he is no longer a person in hardship for the purposes of reg 142: reg 140A(3).

322. Urgent cases.

Jobseeker's allowance on an income basis<sup>1</sup> may be awarded, at a reduced rate, in urgent cases, though these are restricted to cases of certain persons from abroad<sup>2</sup> and certain persons whose income is not readily available to them<sup>3</sup>. These provisions are similar to those applying to income support<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to income-based jobseeker's allowance see PARA 271 et seq ante.

2 These provisions apply to a person from abroad within the meaning of the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 85(4) (special cases) who is an asylum seeker and holds a work permit or has written authorisation from the Secretary of State permitting him to work in the United Kingdom: reg 147(3) (substituted by SI 1996/1516). For these purposes, a person: (1) is an asylum seeker when he submits on his arrival (other than on his re-entry) in the United Kingdom from a country outside the Common Travel Area (ie United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man and the Republic of Ireland collectively), a claim for asylum to the Secretary of State that it would be contrary to the United Kingdom's obligations under the Convention relating to the Status of Refugees done at Geneva on 28 July 1951 and the Protocol to that Convention for him to be removed from, or required to leave, the United Kingdom and that claim is recorded by the Secretary of State as having been made; or (2) becomes, while present in Great Britain, an asylum seeker when the Secretary of State makes a declaration to the effect that the country of which he is a national is subject to such a fundamental change in circumstances that he would not normally order the return of a person to that country, and he submits, within a period of three months from the day that declaration was made, a claim for asylum to the Secretary of State under the Convention and his claim for asylum under that Convention is recorded by the Secretary of State as having been made; and (3) ceases to be an asylum seeker (a) in the case of a claim for asylum which, on or after 5 February 1996, is recorded by the Secretary of State as having been determined (other than on appeal) or abandoned, on the date on which it is so recorded; or (b) in the case of a claim for asylum which is recorded as determined before 5 February 1996 and in respect of which there is either an appeal pending on 5 February 1996 or an appeal is made within the applicable time limits, on the date on which that appeal is determined: see the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 147(4), (5) (as so substituted). As to accommodation etc for asylum seekers see SOCIAL SERVICES AND COMMUNITY CARE vol 44(2) (Reissue) PARA 1029.

3 The urgent cases provisions only apply to a person who is treated as possessing income by virtue of ibid reg 105(6), (7) (notional income) where the income he is treated as possessing is not readily available to him and (1) the amount of jobseeker's allowance payable to him otherwise than under Pt X (regs 147-149) (as amended) is less than the amount of a jobseeker's allowance payable to him thereunder; and (2) the adjudication officer is satisfied that, unless the provisions of Pt X (as amended) are applied to the claimant, the claimant or his family will suffer hardship: reg 147(6).

4 Where ibid Pt X (as amended) applies, the claimant's weekly applicable amount is calculated in accordance with reg 148 and his income and capital in accordance reg 149 (amended by SI 1996/1516). As to urgent cases in relation to income support see PARAS 200-201 ante.

323. Young persons.

The normal age requirement for an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>1</sup> is that the person has reached the age of 18<sup>2</sup> and a person under that age will usually be debarred from claiming a contribution-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>3</sup> by the contribution-based conditions<sup>4</sup>, but a young person<sup>5</sup> may be eligible for an income-based jobseeker's allowance:

Regulations under the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 17A may, in particular, require participants to undertake work, or work-related activity, during any prescribed period with a view to improving their prospects of obtaining employment: s 17A(2). 'Participant', in relation to any time, means any person who is required at that time to participate in a scheme within s 17A(1): s 17A(10). In the case of a jobseeker's allowance other than a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance, the appropriate consequence for the purposes of head (4) is that the allowance is not payable for such period (of at least one week but not more than 26 weeks) as may be prescribed: s 17A(6). In the case of a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance, the appropriate consequence for the purposes of head (4) is that the participant is to be treated as subject to sanctions for the purposes of the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 20A (see PARA 304A) for such period (of at least one week but not more than 26 weeks) as may be prescribed: s 17A(7). Regulations under s 17A may make provision for an income-based jobseeker's allowance to be payable in prescribed circumstances even though other provision made by the regulations would prevent payment of it: s 17A(8). Section 17A(8) does not apply in the case of a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance (corresponding provision for which is made by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 20B(4)) (see PARA 304A): s 17A(8). The provision that may be made by the regulations by virtue of s 17A(8) includes, in particular, provision for the allowance to be (a) payable only if prescribed requirements as to the provision of information are complied with; (b) payable at a prescribed rate; (c) payable for a prescribed period (which may differ from any period mentioned in s 17A(6)): s 17A(9).

(8) MISCELLANEOUS ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

327. Effect of alteration of rates of a jobseeker's allowance.

The following provisions apply where an award of a jobseeker's allowance is in force in favour of any person ('the recipient') and an alteration<sup>1</sup> in any component<sup>2</sup> of the allowance, or in the recipient's benefit income<sup>3</sup>, affects the amount of the jobseeker's allowance to which he is entitled<sup>4</sup>. Where, as a result of the alteration, the amount of the jobseeker's allowance to which the recipient is entitled is increased or reduced, then as from the commencing date<sup>5</sup>, the amount of the jobseeker's allowance payable to or for the recipient under the award is the increased or reduced amount, without any further decision of an adjudication officer<sup>6</sup>, and the award has effect accordingly<sup>7</sup>. In any case where there is any such alteration, and before the commencing date (but after that date is fixed) an award of a jobseeker's allowance is made in favour of a person, the award may provide for the jobseeker's allowance to be paid as from the commencing date, in which case the amount of the jobseeker's allowance must be determined by reference to the components applicable on that date, or may provide for an amount determined by reference to the components applicable at the date of the award<sup>8</sup>.

For the meaning of 'component' and 'benefit income' see notes 2-3 infra.

3 For these purposes, 'benefit income', in relation to a recipient, means so much of his income as consists of (1) benefit under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 (see PARA 54 et seq ante, 561 et seq post); or (2) a war disablement pension or war widow's pension (see WAR AND ARMED CONFLICT vol 49(1) (2005 Reissue) PARA 595 et seq): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 159A(5) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 Ibid s 159A(1) (as added: see note 1 supra).

5 'The commencing date' in relation to an alteration, means the date on which the alteration comes into force in relation to the recipient: ibid s 159A(1) (as added: see note 1 supra).

6 As to adjudication officers see PARA 359 post.

It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that at the time of the alleged offence he believed that he was making the disclosure in question with lawful authority, or that the information in question had previously been disclosed to the public with lawful authority, and he had no reasonable cause to believe otherwise<sup>10</sup>. A person guilty of any such offence is liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum<sup>11</sup> or both, or on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine or both<sup>12</sup>. Subject to the provisions of the Social Security Administration Act 1992, provision may be made by regulations<sup>1</sup> for the determination by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>, or by a person or tribunal appointed or constituted in accordance with the regulations, of any question arising under or in connection with the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992, the Jobseekers Act 1995 or the former legislation<sup>3</sup>, including a claim<sup>4</sup> for benefit<sup>5</sup>. Such regulations may modify, add to or exclude any provisions of Part II of the Social Security Administration Act 1992<sup>6</sup>, so far as relating to any questions to which the regulations relate<sup>7</sup>, and may provide:

- 1020 (b) for the procedure to be followed by any such officer in determining any such question;
- 1021 (c) for the manner in which determinations of such questions by such officers may be called in question<sup>11</sup>, but a determination which would have the effect of preventing an appeal, application for leave to appeal or reference being determined by a commissioner is not a determination of the appeal, application or reference for these purposes<sup>12</sup>.

332. Procedure regulations.

Regulations<sup>1</sup> (referred to as 'procedure regulations') may make any such provision as is specified below<sup>2</sup>, that is, provision:

- 1022 (1) prescribing<sup>3</sup> the procedure to be followed in connection with the consideration and determination of claims<sup>4</sup> and questions by the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup>, an adjudication officer<sup>6</sup> and a competent tribunal<sup>7</sup>, or in connection with the withdrawal of a claim<sup>8</sup>;
- 1023 (2) as to the striking out of proceedings for want of prosecution<sup>9</sup>;
- 1024 (3) as to the form which is to be used for any document, the evidence which is to be required and the circumstances in which any official record or certificate is to be sufficient or conclusive evidence<sup>10</sup>;
- 1025 (4) as to the time to be allowed for producing any evidence or for making an appeal<sup>11</sup>;
- 1026 (5) as to the manner in which, and the time within which, a question may be raised with a view to its decision by the Secretary of State under Part II of the Social Security Administration Act 1992<sup>12</sup> or with a view to the review of a decision under that Part<sup>13</sup>;
- 1027 (6) for summoning persons to attend and give evidence or produce documents and for authorising the administration of oaths to witnesses<sup>14</sup>;
- 1028 (7) for authorising a competent tribunal consisting of two or more members to proceed with any case, with the consent of the claimant<sup>15</sup>, in the absence of any member<sup>16</sup>;
- 1029 (8) for giving the chairman or acting chairman of a competent tribunal consisting of two or more members a second or casting vote where the number of members present is an even number<sup>17</sup>;
- 1030 (9) for empowering the chairman of a social security appeal tribunal, a disability appeal tribunal or a medical appeal tribunal to give directions for the disposal of any purported appeal which he is satisfied that the tribunal does not have jurisdiction to entertain<sup>18</sup>;
- 1031 (10) for the non-disclosure to a person of the particulars of any medical advice or medical evidence given or submitted for the purposes of a determination<sup>19</sup>;
- 1032 (11) for requiring or authorising the Secretary of State to hold, or to appoint a person to hold, an inquiry in connection with the consideration of any question by the Secretary of State<sup>20</sup>.

Procedure regulations may deal differently with claims and questions relating to different benefits<sup>21</sup>.

Procedure regulations prescribing the procedure to be followed in cases before a commissioner must provide that any hearing is to be in public except in so far as the commissioner for special reasons otherwise directs<sup>22</sup>. The power to prescribe procedure includes power to make provision as to the representation of one person, at any hearing of a case, by another person whether having professional qualifications or not; and the power to provide for the manner in which questions arising for determination by the Secretary of State are to be raised includes power to make provision with respect to the formulation of any such questions, whether arising on a reference<sup>23</sup> or otherwise<sup>24</sup>.

Except so far as they may be applied in relation to England and Wales by procedure regulations, the statutory provisions relating to arbitration<sup>25</sup> do not apply to any proceedings under Part II of the Social Security Administration Act 1992<sup>26</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/11. ADMINISTRATION/(1) GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS/333. Finality of decisions.

333. Finality of decisions.

Subject to the relevant statutory provisions<sup>1</sup>, the decision of any claim<sup>2</sup> or question in accordance with those provisions is final, as is the decision of any claim or question in accordance with the relevant regulations<sup>3</sup>; but this does not make any finding of fact or other determination embodied in or necessary to a decision, or on which it is based, conclusive for the purpose of any further decision<sup>4</sup>.

Special provision is made in relation to decisions concerning industrial accidents<sup>5</sup>.

1    le subject to the provisions of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 Pt II (ss 17-70) (as amended): see PARAS 331-332 ante, 356 et seq post.

2    For the meaning of 'claim' see PARA 19 note 5 ante.

3    Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60(1). The regulations referred to are regulations under s 58 (as amended): see PARA 331 ante. Section 60(1) does not take away the ability to challenge a decision by way of judicial review: see eg R v Medical Appeal Tribunal, ex p Gilmore [1957] 1 QB 574, sub nom Re Gilmore's Application [1957] 1 All ER 796, CA. A provisional assessment is final only in respect of the specified period for which it is made and is not binding for any subsequent period: see R v National Insurance Comr, ex p Viscusi [1974] 2 All ER 724, [1974] 1 WLR 646 CA.

An action for negligence at common law against an adjudication officer amounts to challenging the finality of his decision and cannot therefore lie in view of the prohibition in the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60(1) on challenging the correctness of a decision other than by way of the appellate procedures set out in Pt II (as amended): see Jones v Department of Employment [1989] QB 1, [1988] 1 All ER 725, CA.

4    Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60(2), reversing the decisions in Re Dowling, Minister of Social Security v Amalgamated Engineering Union [1967] 1 AC 725, [1967] 1 All ER 210, HL; and Jones v Secretary of State for Social Services, Hudson v Secretary of State for Social Services [1972] AC 944, [1972] 1 All ER 145, HL. The Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60(2) applies as regards the effect to be given in any proceedings to any decision, or to a reference under s 45 (see PARA 379 post), whether the decision was given or reference made or the proceedings were commenced before or after the passing of the National Insurance Act 1972 (repealed), (s 5 (repealed) originally containing the provisions contained in the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60), except that it does not affect the determination of any appeal under s 48 (see PARAS 363, 381 post) from a decision of a medical appeal tribunal given before the passing of that Act, nor affect any proceedings consequent on such an appeal from a decision so given; and accordingly the references to provisions of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 include, so far as possible, the corresponding provisions of previous Acts: see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 60(5).

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/11. ADMINISTRATION/(2) CLAIMS FOR BENEFIT/(i) General Requirements/337. The necessity of a claim.

(2) CLAIMS FOR BENEFIT

(i) General Requirements

337. The necessity of a claim.

Except in such cases as may be prescribed, and subject to statutory provision<sup>1</sup>, no person is entitled to any benefit<sup>2</sup> unless, in addition to any other conditions relating to that benefit being satisfied, he makes a claim for it in the manner<sup>3</sup>, and within the time<sup>4</sup>, prescribed in relation to that benefit by regulations<sup>5</sup> or he is treated by virtue of such regulations as making a claim for it<sup>6</sup>.

Regulations prescribe certain cases where it is not a condition of entitlement to benefit that a claim be made for it<sup>7</sup>.

No person whose entitlement to any benefit depends on his making a claim is to be entitled to the benefit unless the statutory requirement<sup>8</sup> is satisfied in relation both to the person making the claim and to any other person in respect of whom he is claiming benefit<sup>9</sup>; and that requirement is satisfied in relation to a person if:

- 1042 (1) the claim is accompanied by: (a) a statement of the person's national insurance number<sup>10</sup> and information or evidence establishing that that number has been allocated to the person; or (b) information or evidence enabling the national insurance number that has been allocated to the person to be ascertained; or
- 1043 (2) the person makes an application for a national insurance number to be allocated to him which is accompanied by information or evidence enabling such a number to be so allocated<sup>11</sup>.

Where this provision<sup>12</sup> applies, any question arising as to: (i) whether the claimant is or was at any time (whether before, on or after 2 September 1985) entitled to the benefit in question, or to any other benefit on which his entitlement to that benefit depends; or (ii) in a case where the claimant's entitlement to the benefit depends on the entitlement of another person to a benefit, whether that other person is or was so entitled, must be determined as if the relevant claim enactment<sup>13</sup> and any regulations made under or referred to in that enactment had also been in force, with any necessary modifications, at all times relevant for the purpose of determining the entitlement of the claimant, and, where applicable, of the other person, to the benefit or benefits in question (including the entitlement of any person to any benefit on which that entitlement depends, and so on)<sup>14</sup>.

In any case where:

- 1044 (A) a claim for benefit was made or treated as made<sup>15</sup>, and benefit was awarded on that claim, in respect of a period falling wholly or partly before that date; but
- 1045 (B) that award would not have been made had the current requirements<sup>16</sup> applied in relation to claims for benefit, whenever made, in respect of periods before that date; and

1046 (C) Entitlement to the benefit claimed<sup>17</sup> depends on whether the claimant or some other person was previously entitled or treated as entitled to that or some other benefit, then, in determining whether the conditions of entitlement to the benefit so claimed are satisfied, the person to whom benefit was awarded as mentioned in heads (A) and (B) above must be taken to have been entitled to the benefit so awarded<sup>18</sup>.

1 The subject to the provisions of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 ss 1, 3 (both as amended): see the text and notes 2-11 infra; and PARA 347 post.

2 In ibid s 1 (as amended), s 2 'benefit' means (1) benefit as defined in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 122 (as amended) (see PARA 13 note 8 ante); (2) a jobseeker's allowance (see PARA 258 et seq ante); (3) any income-related benefit (see PARA 173 et seq ante): see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1(4) (amended by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 41(4), Sch 2 para 38).

3 As to the prescribed manner see PARA 338 post. For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 19 note 3 ante.

4 As to the prescribed time see PARA 340 post.

5 The by regulations under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 Pt I (ss 1-16) (as amended): see PARA 338 et seq post.

6 See ibid s 1(1). Section 1 (as amended) (which corresponds to the Social Security Act 1975 s 165A (repealed), as it had effect immediately before the Social Security Administration Act 1992 came into force) applies to claims made on or after 1 October 1990 or treated by virtue of regulations under the Social Security Act 1975 s 165A (repealed) or the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1 (as amended) as having been made on or after that date: see s 1(5). Where a person purports to make a claim on behalf of another: (1) for an attendance allowance by virtue of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 66(1) (see PARA 115 ante); or (2) for a disability living allowance by virtue of s 72(5) or s 73(12) (see PARA 110 ante), that other must be regarded for the purposes of the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1 (as amended) as making the claim, notwithstanding that it is made without his knowledge or authority: see s 1(3). Schedule 1 (claims for benefit made or treated as made before 1 October 1990) has effect in relation to other claims: see s 1(6).

7 See the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 3 (as amended). It is not a condition of entitlement to benefit that a claim be made for it in the following cases (see reg 3 (amended by SI 1989/136; SI 1990/2208; SI 1994/2943; and SI 1996/1460));

139 (1) in the case of a Category C retirement pension (see PARA 579 post) where the beneficiary is in receipt of another retirement pension, widow's benefit or benefit corresponding to a widow's pension or a widowed mother's allowance;

140 (2) in the case of a Category D retirement pension (see PARA 580 post) where the beneficiary was ordinarily resident in Great Britain (see PARA 15 note 4 ante) on the day on which he attained 80 years of age and is in receipt of another retirement pension;

141 (3) age addition (see PARA 588 post) in any case;

142 (4) in the case of a Category A or B retirement pension (see PARA 568 et seq post) where the beneficiary is a woman over the age of 65 and entitled to a widowed mother's allowance (see PARA 85 ante), on her ceasing to be so entitled, or where the beneficiary is a woman under the age of 65 and in receipt of widow's pension (see PARA 86 ante), on her attaining that age;

143 (5) in the case of retirement allowance;

144 (6) in the case of a jobseeker's allowance (see PARA 258 et seq ante) where:

10. (a) that allowance has previously been claimed and an award made;

10

11. (b) the Secretary of State (as to whom see PARA 1 ante) has directed under the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 37(1A) (as substituted and added) that payment under that award be suspended for a definite or indefinite period on the ground that a question arises whether the conditions for entitlement to that allowance are or were fulfilled or the award ought to be revised;

11

12. (c) subsequently that suspension expires or is cancelled in respect of a part only of the period for which it has been in force;

12

13. (d) it is then determined that the award should be revised to the effect that there was no entitlement to the allowance in respect of all or any part of the period between the start of the period over which the award has been suspended and the date when the suspension expires or is cancelled; and

13

14. (e) there are no other circumstances which cast doubt on the claimant's entitlement.

8 le unless the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1(1B) (as added) is satisfied: see the text to note 11 infra.

9 See ibid s 1(1A) (s 1(1A)-(1C) added by the Social Security Administration (Fraud) Act 1997 s 19). Regulations may make provision disapplying the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1(1A) (as added) in the case of (1) prescribed benefits; (2) prescribed descriptions of persons making claims; or (3) prescribed descriptions of persons in respect of whom benefit is claimed, or in other prescribed circumstances: see s 1(1C) (as so added). As to the exercise of this power see the Social Security (National Insurance Number Information: Exemption) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/2676, disapplying the requirement to state a national insurance number in relation to (a) any claim for attendance allowance made or treated as made before 9 February 1998; (b) council tax benefit; (c) a person under the age of 16 on a claim for disability living allowance, and any claim for that allowance made or treated as made before that date; (d) a child or young person in respect of whom disability working allowance is claimed, any claim for disability working allowance made or treated as made before that date, or a partner in respect of whom a claim for disability working allowance is made or treated as made before 5 October 1998; (e) a child or young person in respect of whom family credit is claimed, any claim for family credit made or treated as made before 9 February 1998 or a partner in respect of whom a claim for family credit is made or treated as made before 5 October 1998; (f) guardian's allowance; (g) housing benefit; (h) a child in respect of whom an increase of incapacity benefit is claimed or an adult dependant in respect of whom a claim for such an increase is made or treated as made before 5 October 1998; (i) a child or young person in respect of whom income support is claimed or a partner in respect of whom a claim for income support is made or treated as made before that date; (j) a child in respect of whom an increase of invalid care allowance is claimed, any claim for invalid care allowance made or treated as made before 9 February 1998 or an adult dependant in respect of whom a claim for an increase of invalid care allowance is made or treated as made before 5 October 1998; (k) a child or young person in respect of whom jobseeker's allowance is claimed or any claim for jobseeker's allowance made or treated as made before that date; (l) an adult dependant in respect of whom a claim for an increase of maternity allowance is made or treated as made before that date; (m) a child in respect of whom an increase of severe disablement allowance is claimed or an adult dependant in respect of whom a claim for such an increase is made or treated as made before 5 October 1998; (n) a child in respect of whom an increase of retirement pension is claimed or an adult dependant in respect of whom a claim for an increase of such retirement pension is made before that date; (o) a child in respect of whom an increase of widowed mother's allowance is claimed: see regs 2-15, which come into force on 1 December 1997 (reg 1(1)) and amend the relevant regulations covering the various benefits mentioned.

10 But as to the disapplication of this requirement see note 9 supra.

11 See the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 1(1B) (as added: see note 9 supra).

12 le where ibid s 2 applies. Section 2 applies where a claim for benefit is made or treated as made at any time on or after 2 September 1985 in respect of a period the whole or any part of which falls on or after that date: see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2(1).

13 In ibid s 2 'the relevant claim enactment' means s 1 (as amended) as it has effect in relation to the claim referred to in s 2(1): see s 2(3).

14 See ibid s 2(2).

15 le whether before, on or after 2 September 1985, and whether by the same claimant as the claim referred to in ibid s 2(1) (see note 12 supra) or not.

16 In ibid s 2(4) 'the current requirements' means: (1) the relevant claim enactment, and any regulations made or treated as made under that enactment, or referred to in it, as in force at the time of the claim referred to in s 2(1), with any necessary modifications; and (2) s 2(1) (with the omission of the words following 'at any time') and s 2(2), (3): see s 2(5).

17 le as mentioned in ibid s 2(1): see note 12 supra.

Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of SI 1987/1968, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

Regulations under the 1992 Act s 2A may, in particular, make provision (1) for securing, where a person would otherwise be required to take part in interviews relating to two or more benefits (a) that he is only required to take part in one interview, and (b) that any such interview is capable of counting for the purposes of all those benefits; (2) for determining the persons by whom interviews are to be conducted; (3) conferring power on such persons or the designated authority to determine when and where interviews are to take place (including power in prescribed circumstances to determine that they are to take place in the homes of those being interviewed); (4) prescribing the circumstances in which persons attending interviews are to be regarded as having or not having taken part in them; (5) for securing that the appropriate consequences mentioned in s 2A(4)(a) or (b) ensue if a person who has been notified that he is required to take part in an interview (a) fails to take part in

'The designated authority' means such of the following as may be specified, namely the Secretary of State, a person providing services to the Secretary of State, a local authority, subject to s 2A(9), a county council in England, or subject to s 2A(9) a person providing services to, or authorised to exercise any function of, any authority mentioned above: s 2A(8) (amended by Education and Skills Act 2008 Sch 1 para 45(2)). As to the appropriate consequences of a failure falling within head (5) see Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2A(4), (5). A county council in England or a person providing services to, or authorised to exercise any function of, such a council may be specified as the designated authority only in relation to interviews with persons to whom the council is required to make support services available under the Education and Skills Act 2008 s 68(1) (support services: provision by local education authorities): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2A(9) (added by Education and Skills Act 2008 Sch 1 para 45(3)).

Regulations under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2A may also provide that any requirement to take part in an interview that would otherwise apply to a person by virtue of such regulations (i) is, in any prescribed circumstances, either not to apply or not to apply until such time as is specified; (ii) is not to apply if the designated authority determines that an interview would not be of assistance to that person or would not be appropriate in the circumstances; (iii) is not to apply until such time as the designated authority determines, if that authority determines that an interview would not be of assistance to that person or would not be appropriate in the circumstances, until that time; and the regulations may make provision for treating a person in relation to whom any such requirement does not apply, or does not apply until a particular time, as having complied with that requirement to such extent and for such purposes as are specified: s 2A(6). Where a person is required to take part in an interview by virtue of s 2A(1)(a) (see TEXT head (1)), and the interview is postponed by or under regulations made in pursuance of s 2A(6)(a) or (c) (see heads (i) and (iii)), the time to which it is so postponed may be a time falling after an award of the relevant benefit to that person: s 2A(7). 'Relevant benefit', in relation to any person required to take part in a work-focused interview, means any benefit in relation to which that requirement applied by virtue of s 2A(1)(a) or (b): s 2A(8).

Information supplied in pursuance of regulations under s 2A is to be taken for all purposes to be information relating to social security: s 2A(7A) (added by the Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 34(1)).

Without prejudice to the generality of the 1992 Act s 189(1)-(7) (see PARA 30), regulations under ss 2A-2F, may provide for all or any of the provisions of the regulations to apply only in relation to any area or areas specified in the regulations: s 189(7A) (added by 1999 Act Sch 12 para 82; amended by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(4)).

6 The Social Security Act 1998 Pt I Ch II (ss 8-39) (social security decisions and appeals: see PARA 356A) applies to 'relevant decisions' subject to modifications, a 'relevant decision' being a decision (1) made under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2A that a person (a) has failed to comply with a requirement to take part in an interview which applied to him by virtue of the regulations, or (b) has not shown, within the prescribed period mentioned in s 2A(3)(e)(ii) (see NOTE 4 head (5)(b)), that he had good cause for such a failure; or (2) made under s 2AA that (a) the partner of a person entitled to a benefit has failed to comply with a requirement to take part in an interview which applied to the partner by virtue of the regulations, or (b) it has not been shown, within the prescribed period mentioned in s 2AA(4)(f)(ii), that the partner had good cause for such a failure: see s 2B (added by the 1999 Act s 57; amended by the Employment Act 2002 Sch 7 para 9, and SI 2008/2833). Regulations may make provision for or in connection with imposing on a person who (1) is entitled to income support, and (2) is not a lone parent of a child under the age of three, a requirement to undertake work-related activity in accordance with regulations as a condition of continuing to be entitled to the full amount of income support payable apart from the regulations: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D(1) (s 2D added by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(2)). 'Lone parent' means a person who is not a member of a couple, and is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D(9)(b). 'Couple' has the meaning given by the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 137(1) (see PARA 175): Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D(9)(a). 'Work-related activity', in relation to a person, means activity which makes it more likely that the person will obtain or remain in work or be able to do so: s 2D(9)(d). Regulations may make provision for or in connection with imposing on a person ('P') who (a) is under pensionable age, and (b) is a member of a couple the other member of which ('C') is entitled to a benefit to which the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D(3) applies at a higher rate referable to P, a requirement to undertake work-related activity in accordance with regulations as a condition of the benefit continuing to be payable to C at that rate: s 2D(2). Any reference to a person attaining pensionable age is, in the case of a man born before 6 April 1955, a reference to the time when a woman born on the same day as the man would attain pensionable age: s 2D(9)(e). Any reference to a benefit payable to C at a higher rate referable to P is a reference to any case where the amount payable is more than it would be if C and P were not members of the same couple: s 2D(9)(f). The benefits to which s 2D(3) applies are (i) income support; (ii) an income-based jobseeker's allowance other than a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; and (iii) an income-related employment and support allowance. s 2D(3). Further provision with respect to work-related activity is made: see s 2D(4)-(11).

See also Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 8 (parliamentary procedure: regulations imposing work-related activity requirements on lone parents of children under seven).

2. Action plans in connection with work-focused interviews

The Secretary of State must in prescribed circumstances provide a document (referred to in the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2E as an 'action plan') prepared for such purposes as may be prescribed to a person who is subject to a requirement imposed under s 2A or 2AA (see PARA 337A) in relation to any of the following benefits: s 2E(1) (s 2E added by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(2)). 'Prescribed' means specified in, or determined in accordance with, regulations: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D(9)(c). The benefits are (1) income support; (2) an income-based jobseeker's allowance other than a joint-claim jobseeker's allowance; and (3) an income-related employment and support allowance: s 2E(2). Regulations may make provision about (a) the form of action plans; (b) the content of action plans; (c) the review and updating of action plans: s 2E(3). Regulations under s 2E may, in particular, make provision for action plans which are provided to a person who is subject under s 2D (see PARA 337C.1) to a requirement to undertake work-related activity to contain particulars of activity which, if undertaken, would enable the requirement to be met: s 2E(4). Regulations may make provision for reconsideration of an action plan at the request of the person to whom it is provided and may, in particular, make provision about (i) the circumstances in which reconsideration may be requested; (ii) the period within which any reconsideration must take place; (iii) the matters to which regard must be had when deciding on reconsideration whether the plan should be changed; (iv) notification of the decision on reconsideration; (v) the giving of directions for the purpose of giving effect to the decision on reconsideration: s 2E(5). In preparing any action plan, the Secretary of State must have regard (so far as practicable) to its impact on the well-being of any person under the age of 16 who may be affected by it: s 2E(6).

3. Directions about work-related activity

In prescribed circumstances, the Secretary of State may by direction given to a person subject to a requirement imposed under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2D (see PARA 337C.1) provide that the activity specified in the direction is (1) to be the only activity which, in the person's case, is to be regarded as being work-related activity; or (2) to be regarded, in the person's case, as not being work-related activity: s 2F(1) (s 2F added by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(2)). For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 337C.2. For the meaning of 'work-related activity' see PARA 337C.1. But a direction under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2F(1) may not specify medical or surgical treatment as the only activity which, in any person's case, is to be regarded as being work-related activity: s 2F(2). A direction under s 2F(1) given to any person (a) must be reasonable, having regard to the person's circumstances; (b) must be given to the person by being included in an action plan provided to the person under s 2E (see PARA 337C.2); and (c) may be varied or revoked by a subsequent direction under s 2F(1): s 2F(3). Where a direction under s 2F(1) varies or revokes a previous direction, it may provide for the variation or revocation to have effect from a time before the giving of the direction: s 2F(4).

4. Contracting-out

The following functions of the Secretary of State may be exercised by, or by employees of, such person (if any) as the Secretary of State may authorise for the purpose, namely (1) conducting interviews under the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2A or 2AA (see PARA 337A); (2) providing documents under s 2E (see PARA 337C.2); (3) giving, varying or revoking directions under s 2F (see PARA 337C.3): s 2G(1) (s 2G added by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(2)). Regulations may provide for specified functions of the Secretary of State to be exercised by, or by employees of, such person (if any) as the Secretary of State may authorise for the purpose: see Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2G(2). Further provision with respect to contracting-out is made: see s 2G(3)-(11).

5. Good cause for failure to comply with regulations

The Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2H applies to any regulations made under s 2A, 2AA or 2D (see PARAS 337A, 337C.1) that prescribe matters to be taken into account in determining whether a person has good cause for any failure to comply with the regulations: s 2H(1) (s 2H added by Welfare Reform Act 2009 s 2(2)). The provision made by the regulations prescribing those matters must include provision relating to (1) the person's physical or mental health or condition; (2) the availability of childcare: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 2H(2)

Halsbury's Laws of England/SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS (VOLUME 44(2) (REISSUE))/11. ADMINISTRATION/(2) CLAIMS FOR BENEFIT/(i) General Requirements/338. Making a claim for benefit.

338. Making a claim for benefit.

Every claim for benefit<sup>1</sup> other than a claim for income support or jobseeker's allowance must be made in writing on a form approved by the Secretary of State for the purpose of the benefit for which the claim is made, or in such other manner, being in writing, as the Secretary of State may accept as sufficient in the circumstances of any particular case<sup>2</sup>.

A person wishing to make a claim for benefit must (1) if it is a claim for a jobseeker's allowance, unless the Secretary of State otherwise directs, attend in person at an appropriate office<sup>3</sup> or such other place, and at such time, as the Secretary of State may specify in his case in a notice<sup>4</sup>; (2) if it is a claim for any other benefit, deliver or send the claim to an appropriate office<sup>5</sup>. If a claim, other than a claim for income support or jobseeker's allowance, is defective<sup>6</sup> at the date when it is received or has been made in writing but not on the form approved for the time being, the Secretary of State may refer the claim to the person making it or, as the case may be, supply him with the approved form, and if the form is received properly completed within one month, or such longer period as the Secretary of State may consider reasonable, from the date on which it is so referred or supplied, the Secretary of State must treat the claim as if it has been duly made in the first instance<sup>7</sup>.

A person who has made a claim may amend it at any time by notice in writing received in an appropriate office before a determination has been made on the claim, and any claim so amended may be treated as if it had been so amended in the first instance<sup>8</sup>. A person who has made a claim may withdraw it at any time before a determination has been made on it, by notice to an appropriate office, and any such notice of withdrawal has effect when it is received<sup>9</sup>.

Subject to statutory provision<sup>10</sup>, every person who makes a claim for benefit must furnish such certificates, documents, information and evidence in connection with the claim, or any question arising out of it, as may be required by the Secretary of State and must do so within the month of being required to do so or such longer period as the Secretary of State may consider reasonable<sup>11</sup>. Failure to provide such matters is not stated to make the claim invalid, and so the claim can proceed but subject to the caveat that, as the burden of proof on eligibility is usually on the claimant, a claim with incomplete information may well fail on the merits<sup>12</sup>.

Where it appears that a person who has made a claim for a specified benefit<sup>13</sup> may be entitled to another specified benefit<sup>14</sup>, any such claim may be treated by the Secretary of State as a claim alternatively, or in addition, to the second such benefit<sup>15</sup>.

1 'Claim for benefit' includes (1) an application for a declaration that an accident was an industrial accident; (2) an application for the review of an award or a decision for the purpose of obtaining any increase of benefit in respect of a child or adult dependant, or an increase in disablement benefit (in respect of special hardship, constant attendance, hospital treatment allowance or exceptionally severe disablement), but does not include any other application for the review of an award or a decision: see the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987 SI 1987/1968 reg 2(1) (definition amended by SI 1989/1686; and SI 1992/247).

2 Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(1) (amended by SI 1992/247; and SI 1997/793). In the case of a claim for family credit (see PARA 202 et seq ante), where a married or unmarried couple is included in the family, the claim must be made by the woman, unless the Secretary of State is satisfied that it would be reasonable to accept a claim by the man: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(2). Subject to reg 4(3C) (as added), in the case of a married or unmarried couple, a claim for income support (see PARA 176 et seq ante) must be made by whichever partner they agree should so claim or, in default of agreement, by such one of them as the Secretary of State must in his discretion determine: see reg 4(3) (amended by SI 1996/2431). In the case of a married or unmarried couple where both partners satisfy the conditions set out in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 129(1) (as amended) (see PARA 218 ante), a claim for disability working allowance must be made by whichever partner they agree should so claim, or in default of agreement, by such one of them as the Secretary of State must determine: see the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(3A) (added by SI 1991/2741); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b). Where one of a married or unmarried couple is entitled to income support under an award and, with his agreement, his partner claims income support, that entitlement terminates on the day before that claim is made or treated as made: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(4). 'Married couple' means a man and a woman who are married to each other and are members of the same household: reg 2(1). 'Unmarried couple' means a man and a woman who are not married to each other but are living together as husband and wife (as to which see PARA 83 ante) otherwise than in prescribed circumstances: reg 2(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1 ante.

3 'Appropriate office' means an office of the Department of Social Security or the Department for Education and Employment: ibid reg 2(1) (amended by SI 1996/1460); and see the Transfer of Functions (Health and Social Security) Order 1988, SI 1988/1843, art 5(3).

4 le a notice under the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996, SI 1996/207, reg 23: see PARA 291 ante.

5 See the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(6) (substituted by SI 1996/1460).

6 A claim, other than a claim for income support or jobseeker's allowance, which is made on the form approved for the time being is, for the purposes of the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, properly completed if completed in accordance with the instructions on the form and defective if not so completed: see reg 4(8) (substituted by SI 1997/793).

7 Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 4(7) (amended by SI 1997/793).

8 Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 5(1).

9 Ibid reg 5(2).

10 Subject to ibid reg 7(7) (as added).

11 Ibid reg 7(1) (amended by SI 1996/1460). Subject to the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 7(7) (as added), where a benefit may be claimed by either of two partners or where entitlement to or the amount of any benefit is or may be affected by the circumstances of a partner, the Secretary of State may require the partner other than the claimant to certify in writing whether he agrees to the claimant making the claim or, as the case may be, that he confirms the information given about his circumstances: reg 7(2) (amended by SI 1996/1460). In the case of a claim for family credit or disability working allowance, the employer of the claimant or, as the case may be, of the partner must furnish such certificates, documents, information and evidence in connection with the claim or any question arising out of it as may be required by the Secretary of State: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 7(3) (amended by SI 1991/2741).

In the case of a person who is claiming disability working allowance, family credit, income support or jobseeker's allowance where that person or any partner is aged not less than 60 and is a member of, or a person deriving entitlement to a pension under, a personal pension scheme, or is a party to, or a person deriving entitlement to a pension under, a retirement annuity contract, he must where the Secretary of State so requires furnish the following information (1) the name and address of the pension fund holder; (2) such other information including any reference or policy number as is needed to enable the personal pension scheme or retirement annuity contract to be identified: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 7(4) (added by SI 1995/1302; and amended by SI 1996/1460). Where the pension fund holder receives from the Secretary of State a request for details concerning the personal pension scheme or retirement annuity contract relating to a person or any partner to whom the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 7(4) (as added and amended) refers, the pension fund holder must provide the Secretary of State with any information to which reg 7(6) (as added) refers: see reg 7(5).

338 Making a claim for benefit

TEXT AND NOTES--Where a claimant resides in both the area of a local authority specified in the Social Security (Claims and Information) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/3108, Sch 1 Pt I or II (see PARA 337B NOTE 7), and a postcode district identified in Sch 2 Pt I or II (see PARA 337B NOTE 7), any claim for a specified benefit may be made to any office of a relevant authority displaying the 'One' logo (whether or not that office is situated within the area of the local authority in which the claimant resides): SI 1987/1968 reg 4A(1) (regs 4A, 4B added by SI 1999/3108; and amended by SI 2000/897). The 'specified benefits' are (1) a jobseeker's allowance; (2) income support; (3) incapacity benefit; (4) invalid care allowance; (5) severe disablement allowance; (6) widow's benefit; (7) bereavement benefits; and (8) disability living allowance: SI 1987/1968 reg 4A(2). A claim made in accordance with reg 4A(1), other than a claim for income support or a jobseeker's allowance, must be made in writing on a form approved by the Secretary of State for the purpose of the benefit to which the claim is made, or in such other manner, being in writing, as the person to whom the claim is made may accept as sufficient in the circumstances of the particular case: reg 4A(3). Regulation 4(1A)-(1C) applies to a claim for income support or a jobseeker's allowance: reg 4A(4). A participating authority may record information or evidence relating to any social security matter supplied by or obtained from a person at an office displaying the 'One' logo, whether or not the information or evidence is supplied or obtained in connection with the making of a claim for benefit, and may give information or advice with respect to any social security matter to persons who are making, or have made, claims for any benefit to which reg 4A(2) applies: reg 4B(1). A participating authority must forward to the Secretary of State any claim for benefit, other than a claim for housing benefit or council tax benefit, together with any information or evidence supplied to the authority in connection with that claim, and any information or evidence relating to any other social security matter, except where the information or evidence relates solely to housing benefit or council tax benefit given to the authority by a person making a claim for, or who has claimed, a benefit to which SI 1987/1968 reg 4A(2) applies: reg 4B(2).

A claim for carer's allowance, attendance allowance, disability living allowance, graduated retirement benefit, retirement pension and shared additional pension, may be made by means of an electronic communication: SI 1987/1968 reg 4ZC, Sch 9ZC (both added by SI 2003/2800; and amended by SI 2005/3321).

As to making a claim for state pension credit, see SI 1987/1968 regs 4D-4F (added by SI 2002/3019; SI 1987/1968 reg 4D amended by SI 2003/1632, SI 2005/2877, SI 2006/832, SI 2006/2377, SI 2007/2911, SI 2009/2655; SI 1987/1968 reg 4F amended by SI 2003/1632, SI 2004/2327, SI 2006/832). As to making a claim for employment and support allowance, see SI 1987/1968 reg 4G-4I (added by SI 2008/1554; SI 1987/1968 regs 4G, 4H amended by SI 2009/2655).

NOTE 2--1987/1968 reg 4(1) further amended: SI 2005/34, SI 2008/2667. Subject to SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11A), in the case of a claim for income support or jobseeker's allowance, the claim must (1) be made in writing on a form approved by the Secretary of State for the purpose of the benefit for which the claim is made; (2) unless any of the reasons specified in reg 4(1B) applies, be made in accordance with the instructions on the form; and (3) unless any of those reasons applies, include such information and evidence as the form may require in connection with the claim: reg 4(1A) (reg 4(1A)-(1C) added by SI 1997/793; SI 1987/1968 reg 4(1A) amended by SI 2008/2667). The reasons referred to in SI 1987/1968 reg 4(1A) are (a)(i) the person making the claim is unable to complete the form in accordance with the instructions or to obtain the information or evidence it requires because he has a physical, learning, mental or communication difficulty; and (ii) it is not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain assistance from another person to complete the form or obtain the information or evidence; or (b) the information or evidence required by the form does not exist; or (c) the information or evidence required by the form can only be obtained at serious risk of physical or mental harm to the claimant, and it is not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain the information or evidence by other means; or (d) the information or evidence required by the form can only be obtained from a third party, and it is not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain such information or evidence from such third party; or (e) the Secretary of State is of the opinion that the person making the claim or, in the case of a claim for a jobseeker's allowance by a joint-claim couple, either member of that couple has provided sufficient information or evidence to show that he is not entitled to the benefit for which the claim is made, and that it would be inappropriate to require the form to be completed or further information or evidence to be supplied: reg 4(1B) (as added; amended by SI 2000/1982). In the case of a joint-claim couple claiming a jobseeker's allowance jointly, head (a) does not apply to the extent that it is reasonably practicable for a member of a joint-claim couple to obtain assistance from the other member of that couple: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(1BA) (added by SI 2000/1982). If a person making a claim is unable to complete the claim form or supply the evidence or information it requires because one of the reasons specified in heads (a)-(d) applies, he may so notify an appropriate office by whatever means: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(1C). In the case of a claim for working families' tax credit, where a married or unmarried couple is included in the family, the claim must be made by whichever partner they agree should so claim: reg 4(2) (substituted by SI 1999/2572). Where the partners are unable to agree which of them should make the claim, the Commissioners of Inland Revenue may in their discretion determine that the claim must be made by the partner who, on the information available to the commissioners at the time of its determination, is in its opinion mainly caring for the children: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(2A) (added by SI 1999/2572). Where the commissioners determine under SI 1987/1968 reg 4(2A) that a claim for working families' tax credit must be made by the partner who in their opinion is mainly caring for the children, a claim for working families' tax credit is made by that partner on the form approved for the time being, and the claim is not completed in accordance with the instructions on the form by reason only that, in consequence of the other partner not agreeing which of them should make the claim, it has not been signed by the other partner, the commissioners may in their discretion treat that claim as completed in accordance with the instructions on the form for the purposes of reg 4(8) (see NOTE 6), notwithstanding that it has not been signed by the other partner in accordance with those instructions: reg 4(8A) (added by SI 1999/2572). A claim for graduated retirement benefit, a shared additional pension or retirement pension may be made by telephone call to the telephone number specified by the Secretary of State, unless he directs in a particular case that the claim must be made in writing: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11) (added by SI 2005/34; amended by SI 2005/1551). Now SI 1987/1968 reg 4(1) no longer applies to a claim for state pension credit or (subject to SI 1987/1968 reg 6(1G) (PARA 339) an employment and support allowance: reg 4(10) (added by SI 2002/3019; and amended by SI 2008/1554, SI 2009/1490). A claim for income support or jobseeker's allowance may be made by telephone call to the telephone number specified by the Secretary of State where such a claim falls within a category of case for which the Secretary of State accepts telephone claims, or in any other case where the Secretary of State is willing to do so: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11A) (added by SI 2008/2667; and amended by SI 2009/1490). SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11A) applies unless in any particular case the Secretary of State directs that the claim must be made in writing: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11B) (added by SI 2008/2667). A claim made by telephone is properly completed if the Secretary of State is provided with all the information required to determine the claim and the claim is defective if not so completed: SI 1987/1968 reg 4(12) (added by SI 2005/34; and substituted by SI 2009/1490). As to the provisions applicable where a claim made by telephone is defective, see SI 1987/1968 reg 4(13) (added by SI 2005/34; and substituted by SI 2009/1490).

SI 1987/1968 reg 4(3) further amended, reg 4(4) amended: SI 2005/2877. SI 1987/1968 reg 4(3C) lapsed on the repeal of the enabling authority by the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants, etc) Act 2004 s 12(2).

Definitions of 'married couple' and 'unmarried couple' omitted and definition of 'couple' added: SI 1987/1968 reg 2 (amended by SI 2005/2877).

TEXT AND NOTES 3-5--For 'Secretary of State' read 'employment officer': SI 1987/1968 reg 4(6) (amended by SI 1999/3108).

NOTE 3--'Appropriate office' now means an office of the Department for Work and Pensions: SI 1987/1968 reg 2(1) (amended by SI 2002/1397).

NOTE 5--SI 1987/1968 reg 4(6) amended, reg 4(6A)-(6D) added: SI 2003/1632. SI 1987/1968 reg 4(6A) amended: SI 2005/1551, SI 2006/832, SI 2007/2911, SI 2009/1490. SI 1987/1968 reg 4(6B), (6C) amended: SI 2007/2911.

TEXT AND NOTE 7--In calculating any period of one month for the purposes of SI 1987/1968 regs 4(7) and 6(1A)(b) (see PARA 339), there is disregarded any period commencing on a day on which a person is first notified of a decision that he failed to take part in a work-focused interview and ending on a day on which he was notified that that decision has been revised so that the decision as revised is that he did take part: reg 4(1D) (added by SI 2000/897).

NOTE 7--SI 1987/1968 reg 4(7) substituted by SI 2009/1490; and amended by SI 2009/2655. SI 1987/1968 reg 4(7ZA) added: SI 2009/1490.

NOTE 8--Now, where a claim is made by telephone (see SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11); and NOTE 2) the amendment may be made by telephone: SI 1987/1968 reg 5(1) (amended by SI 2005/34, SI 2006/832, SI 2009/1490).

NOTE 11--References to 'family credit' are now to 'working families' tax credit' and references to 'disability working allowance' to 'disabled person's tax credit': SI 1987/1968 reg 7(3), (4) (both amended by SI 1999/2572). Now where a benefit may be claimed by either of two partners or where entitlement to or the amount of any benefit is or may be affected by the circumstances of a partner, the Secretary of State may require the partner other than the claimant to do either or both of the following, within one month of being required to do so or such longer period as the commissioners may consider reasonable (1) to certify in writing whether he agrees to the claimant making the claim or, as the case may be, that he confirms the information given about his circumstances; (2) to furnish such certificates, documents, information and evidence in connection with the claim, or any question arising out of it, as the commissioners may require: SI 1987/1968 reg 7(2) (amended by SI 1999/2572). The one-month time limit prescribed by SI 1987/1968 reg 7(2) is repeated in reg 7(3)-(5) (all amended by SI 1999/2572). SI 1987/1968 reg 7(4) further amended by SI 2008/1554. Every person providing childcare in respect of which a claimant to whom the Family Credit (General) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1973, reg 46A (see PARA 208) applies is incurring relevant childcare charges, including a person providing childcare on behalf of a school, local authority, childcare scheme or prescribed establishment, must furnish such certificates, documents, information and evidence in connection with the claim made by the claimant, or any question arising out of it, as may be required by the commissioners, and must do so within one month of being required to do so or such longer period as the commissioners may consider reasonable: SI 1987/1968 reg 7(8) (added by SI 1999/2572).

A claimant must furnish such information and evidence as the Secretary of State may require as to the likelihood of further changes in his circumstances which is needed to determine whether a period should be specified as an assessed income period under the State Pension Credit Act 2002 and, if so, the length of the period to be so specified: see SI 1987/1968 reg 7(1A)-7(1C) (added by SI 2002/3019).

NOTES 13, 14--SI 1987/1968 Sch 1 Pt I cols (1), (2) further amended: SI 2000/1483, SI 2005/1551, SI 2008/1554.

Where a person submits a claim for attendance allowance or disability living allowance or a request under the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 6(8) (as added and amended) by post and the arrival of that claim or request at an appropriate office is delayed by postal disruption caused by industrial action, whether within the postal service or elsewhere, the claim or request must be treated as received on the day on which it would have been received if it had been delivered in the ordinary course of post: see reg 6(5) (added by SI 1989/1686; and amended by SI 1991/2741).

Where, in a case which would otherwise fall within the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 6(8) (as added and amended), it is not possible to determine the date when the request for a claim form was received in an appropriate office because of a failure to record that date, the claim must be treated as having been made on the date six weeks before the date on which the properly completed claim form is received in an appropriate office: see reg 6(8A) (added by SI 1993/2113).

The Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 6(3) (as added and amended) does not apply when the time for claiming income support or family credit, disability working allowance or jobseeker's allowance has been extended under reg 19 (as substituted) and the failure to claim within the prescribed time for the purposes of reg 19 (as substituted) is for the reason only that the claim has been sent by post: see reg 6(4) (added by SI 1988/522; amended by SI 1991/2741; and SI 1996/1460).

Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, now replaced, in so far as they relate to child benefit or guardian's allowance, by the Child Benefit (General) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/223 (see PARA 237-257). See also Child Benefit and Guardian's Allowance (Administrative Arrangements) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/494; and PARA 385-396.

For the purposes of SI 1987/1968, if, for any period commencing with or falling after 2 March 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in either the Full-time Education and Training Option, the Voluntary Sector Option or the Environment Task Force Option, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 1998, SI 1998/217, art 2(1), (2), Schedule; SI 1998/1425. If, for any period commencing with or falling after 3 July 1998, during which a person is a New Deal participant and is participating in the Employment Option in a capacity other than that of employee, that person receives a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the 1973 Act s 2; and accordingly any payment, other than a trading receipt, made to such a person during that period in connection with his use of facilities must be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: SI 1998/217 art 2(1), (3), Schedule; SI 1998/1425. See further PARA 31-46.

'The self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilots for 25 plus; and 'the intensive activity period of the New Deal Pilot for 25 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged over 25 years immediately prior to entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work: SI 1999/779 reg 1(2).

Further, for the purposes of SI 1987/1968, if, for any period or periods commencing with or falling after 9 April 2001, during which a person is participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus, that person receives, or is eligible to receive, a training allowance, he is to be treated for that period or those periods and in respect of his participation as not being employed but as participating in arrangements for training under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2; and accordingly any payment made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of facilities is to be treated in the same manner as a payment of training allowance made in respect of such training: New Deal (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/970, art 2(2). Article 2(2) does not apply in respect of any trading payment made to a person receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus: art 2(3). 'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

Also, for the purposes of SI 1987/1968, if during any period or periods commencing with or falling after 13 September 2001 a person is participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents within the self-employment route and that person receives, or is eligible to receive, either a top-up payment or other payment made to him in order to assist with the expenses of participation, any such payments made to such a person during that period or those periods in connection with his use of those facilities are to be treated as a training premium: New Deal (Lone Parents) (Miscellaneous Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/2915, art 2(1), (2), Schedule. 'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's employment while participating in the New Deal for Lone Parents: SI 2001/2915 art 1(2).

339 Date of claim

TEXT AND NOTES 1-10--In the case of a claim made by telephone in accordance with SI 1987/1968 reg 4(11) or reg 4(11A) (see PARA 338 NOTE 2), the date of the claim will be the date the claim is properly completed and in the case of a claim made by telephone which is defective but which is treated under reg 14(3)(a) (see PARA 338 NOTE 2) as having been properly made, the date of the claim will be the date of that telephone call: reg 6(1)(c), (d) (added by SI 2005/34; reg 6(1)(c) amended by SI 2008/2667, SI 2009/1490; reg 6(1)(d) amended by SI 2009/1490). In the case of a claim for income support (1) subject to heads (2), (3), the date on which a claim is made is to be the date on which a properly completed claim is received in an appropriate office or a claim made by telephone is properly completed or the first day in respect of which the claim is made if later; (2) where a properly completed claim is received in an appropriate office or a claim made by telephone is properly completed within one month of first notification of intention to make that claim, the date of claim is to be the date on which that notification is made or is deemed to be made or the first day in respect of which the claim is made if later; (3) a notification of intention to make a claim is deemed to be made on the date when an appropriate office receives (a) a notification in accordance with SI 1987/1968 reg 4(5); or (b) a defective claim: reg 6(1A)(a)-(c) (added by SI 1997/793; reg 6(1A)(a), (b) amended by SI 2009/1490). ### 341. Late claims.

Subject to statutory provision<sup>1</sup>, in the case of a claim for income support, jobseeker's allowance, family credit or disability working allowance, where the claim is not made within the time specified for that benefit<sup>2</sup>, the prescribed time for claiming the benefit must be extended, subject to a maximum extension of three months, to the date on which the claim is made, where (1) any of the specified circumstances<sup>3</sup> applies or has applied to the claimant; and (2) as a result of that circumstance or those circumstances the claimant could not reasonably have been expected to make the claim earlier<sup>4</sup>.

In the case of a claim for income support, jobseeker's allowance, family credit or disability working allowance, where (a) the claim is not made within the time specified for that benefit<sup>5</sup>, but is made within one month of the expiry of that time; and (b) the Secretary of State considers that to do so would be consistent with the proper administration of benefit, the Secretary of State may direct that the prescribed time for claiming must be extended by such period as he considers appropriate, subject to a maximum of one month, where any of the specified circumstances<sup>6</sup> applies<sup>7</sup>.

Where under statutory provision<sup>8</sup> a person is required to make a claim or to be treated as making a claim for a benefit in order to be entitled to it: (i) if the benefit is a widow's payment, she is not entitled to it in respect of a death occurring more than 12 months before the date on which the claim is made or treated as made; and (ii) if the benefit is any other benefit except disablement benefit or reduced earnings allowance, the person is not entitled to it in respect of any period more than 12 months before that date<sup>9</sup>.

The circumstances now referred to in the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 19(4) (as substituted) are (1) the claimant has difficulty communicating because (a) he has learning, language or literacy difficulties; or (b) he is deaf or blind, and it was not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain assistance from another person to make his claim; (2) except in the case of a claim for jobseeker's allowance, the claimant was ill or disabled, and it was not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain assistance from another person to make his claim; (3) the claimant was caring for a person who is ill or disabled, and it was not reasonably practicable for the claimant to obtain assistance from another person to make his claim; (4) the claimant was given information by an officer of the Department of Social Security or of the Department for Education and Employment which led the claimant to believe that a claim for benefit would not succeed; (5) the claimant was given written advice by a solicitor or other professional adviser, a medical practitioner, a local authority, or a person working in a Citizens Advice Bureau or a similar advice agency, which led the claimant to believe that a claim for benefit would not succeed; (6) the claimant or his partner was given written information about his income or capital by his employer or former employer, or by a bank or building society, which led the claimant to believe that a claim for benefit would not succeed; (7) the claimant was required to deal with a domestic emergency affecting him and it was not reasonably practicable for him to obtain assistance from another person to make his claim; or (8) the claimant was prevented by adverse weather conditions from attending the appropriate office: see reg 19(5) (as so substituted). ### 342. Advance claims and awards.

Where, although a person does not satisfy the requirements for entitlement to benefit on the date on which a claim is made, the adjudicating authority<sup>1</sup> is of the opinion that unless there is a change of circumstances he will satisfy those requirements for a period beginning on a day ('the relevant day') not more than three months after the date on which the claim is made, then that authority may (1) treat the claim as if made for a period beginning with the relevant day; and (2) award benefit accordingly, subject to the condition that the person satisfies the requirements for entitlement when benefit becomes payable under the award<sup>2</sup>.

1 As to the adjudicating authorities see PARA 356 et seq post.

2 Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 13(1). An award under reg 13(1)(b) (see head (2) in the text) must be reviewed by the adjudicating authority if the requirements for entitlement are found not to have been satisfied on the relevant day: see reg 13(2). Subject to reg 13(4), reg 13(1), (2) does not apply to any claim for maternity allowance, attendance allowance, disability living allowance, retirement pension or increase, family credit, disability working allowance or any claim within reg 11(1)(a) or (b) (as amended): see reg 13(3) (amended by SI 1991/2741; and SI 1994/2319).

3 Where a person claims family credit or disability working allowance but does not satisfy the requirements for entitlement to that benefit on the date on which the claim is made, and the adjudicating authority is of the opinion that he will satisfy those requirements for a period beginning on a day not more than three days after the date on which the claim is made, the adjudicating authority may treat the claim as if made for a period beginning with that day, and award benefit accordingly: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 13(6) (added by SI 1994/2319).

4 Where, although a person does not satisfy the requirements for entitlement to disability living allowance on the date on which the claim is made, the adjudicating authority is of the opinion that unless there is a change of circumstances he will satisfy those requirements for a period beginning on a day ('the relevant day') not more than three months after the date on which the claim is made, then that authority may award disability living allowance from the relevant day subject to the condition that the person satisfies the requirements for entitlement on the relevant day: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 13A(1) (reg 13A added by SI 1991/2741). Where a person makes a claim for disability living allowance on or after 3 February 1992 and before 6 April 1992 the adjudicating authority may award benefit for a period beginning on any day after 5 April 1992 being a day not more than three months after the date on which the claim was made, subject to the condition that the person satisfies the requirements for entitlement when disability living allowance becomes payable under the award: Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 13A(2) (as so added). An award under reg 13A(1) or (2) (as added) must be reviewed by the adjudicating authority if the requirements for entitlement are found not to have been satisfied when disability living allowance becomes payable under the award: see reg 13A(3) (as so added).

A person entitled to an award of disability living allowance may make a further claim for disability living allowance during the period of six months immediately before the existing award expires: reg 13C(1) (reg 13C added by SI 1991/2741). Where a person makes a claim in accordance with the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 13C(1) (as added) the adjudicating authority may (1) treat the claim as if made on the first day after the expiry of the existing award ('the renewal date'); and (2) award benefit accordingly, subject to the condition that the person satisfies the requirements for entitlement on the renewal date: see reg 13C(2) (as so added). An award under reg 13C(2)(b) (see head (2) supra) must be reviewed by the adjudicating authority if the requirements for entitlement are found not to have been satisfied on the renewal date: see reg 13C(3) (as so added).

5 Subject to the provisions of ibid reg 14(2), a claim for maternity allowance in expectation of confinement, or for an increase in such an allowance in respect of an adult dependant, and an award on such a claim, may be made not earlier than 14 weeks before the beginning of the expected week of confinement: see reg 14(1). A claim for an increase of maternity allowance in respect of an adult dependant may not be made in advance unless, on the date when made, the circumstances relating to the adult dependant concerned are such as would qualify the claimant for such an increase if they occurred in a period for which she was entitled to a maternity allowance: reg 14(2).

6 A claim for a retirement pension of any category, and for any increase in any such pension, and an award on such a claim, may be made at any time not more than four months before the date on which the claimant will, subject to the fulfilment of the necessary conditions, become entitled to such a pension: see ibid reg 15(1). For the purposes of facilitating the determination of a subsequent claim for a Category A, B or C retirement pension, a person may at any time not more than four months before the date on which he will attain pensionable age, and notwithstanding that he intends to defer his entitlement to a Category A or Category B retirement pension at that date, submit particulars in writing to the Secretary of State in a form approved by him for that purpose with a view to the determination (in advance of the claim) of any question relating to that person's title to such a retirement pension, and subject to the necessary modifications, the provisions of the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968 apply to any such particulars: see reg 15(7) (amended by SI 1989/1642).

343. Duration of awards.

Subject to statutory provision<sup>1</sup> a claim for benefit is to be treated as made for an indefinite period and any award of benefit on that claim is to be made for an indefinite period<sup>2</sup>. If it would be inappropriate to treat a claim as made and to make an award for an indefinite period (for example where a relevant change of circumstances is reasonably to be expected in the near future) the claim must be treated as made and the award must be for a definite period which is appropriate in the circumstances<sup>3</sup>. In any case where benefit is awarded in respect of days subsequent to the date of claim the award must be subject to the condition that the claimant satisfies<sup>4</sup> the requirements for entitlement, and where those requirements are not satisfied the award must be reviewed<sup>5</sup>.

1    The subject to the provisions of the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 17 (as amended) and of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 71 (disability living allowance: see PARA 102 ante) and ss 128(3) and 129(6) (family credit and disability working allowance: see PARAS 203, 219 ante): see the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 17(1) (amended by SI 1991/2741); and the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

Where an award of income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance is made in respect of a married or unmarried couple and one member of the couple is, at the date of claim, a person to whom the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 126 (as amended) (see PARA 178 ante) or, as the case may be, the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 14 (as amended) (see PARA 301 ante) applies, the award of benefit must cease when that person returns to work with the same employer: see the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 17(1A) (added by SI 1988/522; and substituted by SI 1996/1460).

2    See the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 17(1) (as amended: see note 1 supra).

3    See ibid reg 17(3) (amended by SI 1996/1460); Decision R(S)1/92.

4    This means that the person continues to satisfy the requirements during the currency of the award, not just that he satisfies them at the beginning of the award: Decision R(S)3/94 (a case concerning the review of an award of invalidity benefit on the ground of fitness for other work, which stresses the breadth of the power of review in the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 17(4)).

344. Claims by third parties.

Where (1) a person is, or is alleged to be, entitled to benefit, whether or not a claim for benefit has been made by him or on his behalf; and (2) that person is unable for the time being to act; and either (3) no receiver has been appointed by the Court of Protection with power to claim, or as the case may be, receive benefit on his behalf; or (4) in Scotland, his estate is not being administered by any tutor, curator or other guardian acting or appointed in terms of law, the Secretary of State may, upon written application made to him by a person who, if a natural person, is over the age of 18, appoint that person to exercise, on behalf of the person who is unable to act, any right to which that person may be entitled and to receive and deal on his behalf with any sums payable to him<sup>1</sup>.

Where such an appointment is made:

- 1050 (a) anything required<sup>2</sup> to be done by or to any person who is for the time being unable to act may be done by or to the receiver, tutor, curator or other guardian, if any, or by or to the person appointed<sup>3</sup> and the receipt of any person so appointed is a good discharge to the Secretary of State for any sum paid<sup>4</sup>;
- 1051 (b) in determining whether there is good cause for a late claim<sup>5</sup>, the question is whether the appointee can show good cause for the delay, not the person unable to act<sup>6</sup>;
- 1052 (c) however, for the purposes of an overpayment of benefit<sup>7</sup>, the appointee's acts and statements are imputed to the claimant, and so if such acts or statements caused the overpayment, recovery is to be from the claimant, not the appointee<sup>8</sup>.

1 Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 33(1). The terms of any appointment must cover the benefit in question in any given case; an appointment for one purpose is not to be deemed to extend to another purpose: Decision R(IS)5/91 (decided under earlier legislation; note now the potentially wider statutory wording). Where the Secretary of State has made an appointment under the Social Security (Claims and Payments) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/1968, reg 33(1), then (1) he may at any time revoke it; (2) the person appointed may resign his office after having given one month's notice in writing to the Secretary of State of his intention to do so; (3) any such appointment terminates when the Secretary of State is notified that a receiver or other person to whom reg 33(1)(c) or (d) applies has been appointed: see reg 33(2). As to payments on death see reg 30 (as amended). If a third party makes a claim on behalf of a person unable to act without having been made an appointee, and that claim is adjudicated upon, that adjudication is not a nullity: Decision R(SB)8/84. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 1 ante.

4 See ibid reg 33(3) (amended by SI 1991/2741). As to payment to third parties see PARA 351 post.

5 As to late claims see PARA 341 ante.

6 Decision R(SB)17/83; see also Decision R(S)2/51 and Decision R(G)9/52; aliter if the benefit claimed falls outside the scope of the appointment (Decision R(IS)5/91) or if a third party acts on behalf of the incapable person without being an appointee (Decision R(SB)8/84).

7 As to overpayment of benefit see PARA 385 et seq post.

8 Decision CIS/332/1993. If the claimant has died, recovery may be from his estate: Decision CIS/649/1993, applying Secretary of State for Social Services v Solly [1974] 3 All ER 922, CA.

352. Payment out of benefit of sums in respect of mortgage interest etc.

The following provisions apply in relation to cases where:

- 1060 (1) mortgage interest<sup>1</sup> is payable to a qualifying lender<sup>2</sup> by a person ('the borrower') who is entitled, or whose partner<sup>3</sup>, former partner or qualifying associate<sup>4</sup> is entitled, to income support<sup>5</sup> or an income-based jobseeker's allowance<sup>6</sup>; and
- 1061 (2) a sum in respect of that mortgage interest is or was brought into account in determining the applicable amount<sup>7</sup> for the purposes of income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance in the case of the borrower or the partner, former partner or qualifying associate<sup>8</sup>.

Regulations<sup>9</sup> may, in relation to cases where these provisions apply, make provision<sup>10</sup>:

- 1062 (a) requiring that, in prescribed circumstances<sup>11</sup>, a prescribed part of any relevant benefits<sup>12</sup> to which the relevant beneficiary<sup>13</sup> is entitled must be paid by the Secretary of State<sup>14</sup> directly to the qualifying lender and applied by that lender towards the discharge of the liability in respect of the mortgage interest;
- 1063 (b) for the expenses of the Secretary of State in administering the making of payments under the regulations to be defrayed, in whole or in part, at the expense of qualifying lenders, whether by requiring them to pay prescribed fees or by deducting and retaining a prescribed part of the payments that would otherwise be made to them under the regulations or by such other method as may be prescribed;
- 1064 (c) for requiring a qualifying lender, in a case where by virtue of head (b) above the amount of the payment made to him under the regulations is less than it would otherwise have been, to credit against the liability in respect of the mortgage interest (in addition to the payment actually made) an amount equal to the difference between the payment that would have been so made, apart from head (b) above, and the payment actually made, and, in any such case, for treating the amount so credited as properly paid on account of benefit due to the relevant beneficiary;
- 1065 (d) for enabling a body which, or person who, would otherwise be a qualifying lender to elect not to be regarded as such for these purposes, other than the purposes of this head;
- 1066 (e) for the recovery from any body or person of any sums paid to that body or person by way of payment under the regulations that ought not to have been so paid or of any fees or other sums due from that body or person by virtue of head (b) above;
- 1067 (f) for cases where the same person is the borrower in relation to mortgage interest payable in respect of two or more different loans; and
- 1068 (g) for any person of a prescribed class or description who would otherwise be regarded for these purposes as the borrower in relation to any mortgage interest not to be so regarded, except for the purposes of this head;

but the Secretary of State must not make any regulations under head (b) above unless he has consulted with such organisations representing qualifying lenders likely to be affected by the regulations as he considers appropriate<sup>15</sup>.

For these purposes, regulations may make provision as to circumstances in which residential land is or is not to be treated as intended for occupation by the borrower as his home, or as to circumstances in which persons are to be treated as being or not being members of the same household<sup>16</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'mortgage interest' means interest on a loan which is secured by a mortgage of or charge over land, or (in Scotland) by a heritable security, and which has been taken out to defray money applied for any of the following purposes, that is to say (1) acquiring any residential land which was intended, at the time of the acquisition, for occupation by the borrower as his home; (2) carrying out repairs or improvements to any residential land which was intended, at the time of taking out the loan, for occupation by the borrower as his home; (3) paying off another loan; or (4) any prescribed purpose not falling within heads (1)-(3) supra; but interest must be regarded as mortgage interest by virtue of head (3) supra only to the extent that interest on that other loan would have been regarded as mortgage interest for these purposes had the loan not been paid off: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 15A(4) (s 15A added by the Social Security (Mortgage Interest Payments) Act 1992 s 1(2), Schedule para 1). 'Residential land' means any land which consists of or includes a dwelling: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 15A(4) (as so added).

3 'Partner' means: (1) any person to whom the borrower is married and who is a member of the same household as the borrower; or (2) any person to whom the borrower is not married but who lives together with the borrower as husband and wife, otherwise than in prescribed circumstances; and 'former partner' means a person who has at some time been, but no longer is, the borrower's partner: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 15A(4) (as added: see note 1 supra).

4 'Qualifying associate', in relation to the borrower, means a person who, for the purposes of income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance, falls to be treated by regulations under the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 Pt VII (ss 123-137) (as amended) or, as the case may be, under the Jobseekers Act 1995, as responsible for so much of the expenditure which relates to housing costs (within the meaning of those regulations) as consists of any of the mortgage interest payable by the borrower, and who falls to be so treated because (1) the borrower is not meeting those costs, so that the person has to meet them if he is to continue to live in the dwelling occupied as his home; and (2) the person is one whom it is reasonable, in the circumstances, to treat as liable to meet those costs: Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 15A(4) (as added: see note 1 supra; definition amended by the Jobseekers Act 1995 s 41(4), Sch 2 para 40).

5 As to entitlement to income support see PARA 176 et seq ante.

7 For the meaning of 'applicable amount' see PARAS 174 note 3, 272 ante.

9 As to the power to make regulations generally see PARA 30 ante.

10 Ie without prejudice to the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 5(1)(i), (p): see PARA 330 ante.

11 For the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 19 note 3 ante.

12 'Relevant benefits' means such of the following benefits as may be prescribed, namely (1) benefits, as defined in the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 s 122 (as amended) (see PARA 13 note 8

13 Any reference in these provisions to 'the relevant beneficiary' is a reference to the person whose applicable amount for the purposes of income support or an income-based jobseeker's allowance is or was determined as mentioned in head (2) in the text: see the Social Security Administration Act 1992 s 15A(1) (as added and amended: see notes 1, 8 supra).

'Facilities' means facilities provided for the participant in pursuance of the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus; 'the Intensive Activity Period' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 25 years or over and less than 50 years on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are aged 50 years or over on the day of entry are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; and 'training allowance' means a payment made directly by the Secretary of State to a participant in the Intensive Activity Period or the Intensive Activity Period for 50 plus in connection with his participation: SI 2001/970 art 1(2).

'The New Deal for Lone Parents' means the arrangements known by that name and made under the Employment and Training Act 1973 s 2 for which only persons who are lone parents are eligible and which are designed to help participants to obtain work or to improve their prospects of obtaining work; 'lone parent' means a person who has no partner and who is responsible for, and a member of the same household as, a child or young person; 'the self-employment route' means receiving assistance in pursuing self-employed earner's
